

Violent storms lash NW suburbs, blackouts numerous

A Herald staff report

Wind, hard-driving rain and the threat of tornadoes struck the Northwest suburbs Thursday night, but caused only minor property damage. At least 20,000 customers of Commonwealth Edison Co. were without electricity at some time in the evening.

During the height of the rainstorm three persons were injured in a fiery crash on Algonquin Road near Goebert Road in Arlington Heights. An Arlington Heights woman, Elsie Sander, 68, and two Colorado residents were passengers in a car which burst into flames after being struck in the rear by a car driven by a Park Ridge man, Michael Seilerger. Mrs. Sander was reported in serious condition at Northwest Community Hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Landmeier of Grand Junction, Colo. were also taken to the hospital. Landmeier was in the intensive care unit suffering from burns. Mrs. Landmeier also was treated for burns.

BUT FOR THAT accident, power outages caused the most immediate effect on suburban families. Reports from area fire departments showed loss of electricity in a wide area and encompassing every community — but not every neighborhood — in the Northwest suburbs.

Among the storm damage reports:

- Reports of tornadoes were numerous but there were no reports of any funnel clouds touching ground. Reports of tornadoes touching down at Rand and Ill. Rte. 63 near Randhurst and at Rand and Ill. Rte. 53 were unfounded.

- Des Plaines sounded the weather alarm at 7:20 p.m. and within five minutes had 75 calls pouring into the fire and police departments inquiring about the alarm. Firemen reported large tree limbs down, power out on the north side at Wolf and Central and a transformer out at Maple and Touhy.

- In Arlington Heights and Mount Prospect traffic signals were not operating along Northwest Highway at some locations and police were dispatched to direct traffic.

- Mount Prospect police said high winds knocked down a tree onto a home on the 200 block of Mount Prospect Road, and firemen reported lightning hit a home at 316 N. Emerson. Numerous electrical wires were down.

- A spokesman at Palwaukee airport reported power lines down in that area and runway lights were knocked out in the southeast section of the airport.

- Most of Hoffman Estates was reported out of power at 8:45 p.m. Police received at least five reports of electric power lines down and the switchboard was swamped with calls concerning weather conditions. There were no reports of serious damage in Schaumburg; no reports of flooding and no reports of wind damage.

- In Elk Grove Village and Rolling Meadows virtually no storm damage was reported.

- Buffalo Grove Police reported no serious damage, but there were scattered power outages in the village. A police spokesman said a tornado touchdown was reported north of Berkshire Trace in the village but said the report proved unfounded.

- In Wheeling, police said there was some wind damage. Residents called police to report tornado sightings, but none of the funnels touched ground.

- A Commonwealth Edison Co. spokesman said late Thursday night that power failures in the area were "fairly widespread."

Valenza testifies Hart conspired against builder

by LYNN ASINOF

Former Wheeling Trustee Michael Valenza Thursday testified that his ex-business partner William Hart initiated a conspiracy attempt against Bernard Wasmer, owner of the Duo-Sign Co. in Wheeling.

Valenza said he and Hart went to James Stavros, former Wheeling Township Democratic Committeeman, and asked him to talk to Wasmer about cancellation of an agreement between Hart and Wasmer.

Wasmer had paid $5,000 for Hart's agreement that he would not open a sign business within 75 miles of Wheeling.

The agreement was signed in September, 1970, when Hart sold his company to Wasmer and went to Florida.

HART IS CHARGED with conspiring with Stavros and former Wheeling Building Director William Bleber to commit extortion against Wasmer by trying to force the cancellation of that agreement. Hart, who had just returned from Florida, wanted to reenter the sign business in Wheeling.

Valenza said Stavros told both he and Hart in early January, 1972, "Oh, don't worry about it, fellows. I can take care of it for you. It can be handled."

According to Valenza, Hart said that he expected Stavros to first talk to Wasmer "in a gentlemanly fashion." Valenza said that if Wasmer didn't agree to cancel the agreement, "he (Stavros) would use the tactics he would normally use, which was screaming, yelling and cajoling." He said these tactics also included actual threats of harm.

VALENZA SAID HART became apprehensive in December, 1972, that Wasmer would not pay him due interest money because he had violated the agreement on non-competition.

The government plans to use this testimony to show that Hart wanted the agreement with Wasmer canceled, despite the fact that he received legal advice that the agreement was not binding.

Hart, Stavros, Bleber and Valenza are among six former and present Wheeling and Cook County officials indicted January 31 following a federal grand jury probe into shakedowns of Wheeling developers. Stavros and Bleber are no longer defendants in the case against

Stavros set up political slate, Valenza admits

James Stavros, former Wheeling Township Democratic Committeeman, put together the successful slate of political candidates for the 1969 Wheeling village election, according to former Wheeling trustee Michael Valenza.

Valenza testified Thursday in U.S. District Court that Stavros asked him in 1968 to run for village trustee. He said former trustee William Hart, now standing trial before U.S. District Court Judge Abraham Lincoln Marovitz, also was part of the local party slate put together by Stavros.

As part of his testimony, Valenza admitted that he perjured himself twice before the federal grand jury investigating Shakedowns of Wheeling developers. He said that he lied during his grand jury appearances of June 20, 1973 and Dec. 20, 1973.

Valenza also admitted that he was granted immunity from further prosecution on the day that he was indicted on federal extortion and conspiracy charges.

He said that on Jan. 31, he was granted immunity and then appeared for testimony before the grand jury. The former trustee said he lied under oath because he was scared of reprisals from Stavros, whom he described as the "political powers that be in Wheeling."

"I was frightened to death. I was a frightened man," Valenza said. "I was threatened, I was harassed, I received anonymous phone calls."

Hart, having already pleaded guilty to charges against them.

During cross-examination, Hart's attorney, John Coughlan, did not question Valenza on the substance of his conversations with Hart and Stavros. Instead, he concentrated on Valenza's previous history of lying before the federal grand jury.

IN EARLIER COURT proceedings, Coughlan challenged the testimony of government witness Seymour Manual Kramer, president of Hollywood Builders. On Wednesday, Kramer testified that he cut off all new business to Duo Sign Co. after receiving a threatening phone call from Stavros.

Coughlan presented more than a dozen invoices which showed that Hollywood Builders gave Duo Sign more than $6,000 of new business following the phone call. Kramer said the work he had cut off included "anything that would be obvious and would put me in an awkward position with Mr. Stavros." He said the $6,000 of work was not visible to Stavros.

Government prosecutors plan to call a final witness at 2 p.m. today. They will question Dan Ahern, Wasmer's attorney. Coughlan said he plans to put Hart on the witness stand to testify in his own defense. The rest of the defense will rely on character witnesses.

COMMUNITY OUTDOOR POOL is a favorite spot for local Wheeling youngsters now that school is out and the long-awaited summer vacation has begun. Operated by the Wheeling Park District, the pool at 251 N. Wolf Rd., is open daily from 1 to 5 p.m. and 7 to 9 p.m.

Stavros to prison Tuesday; Valenza gets 60-day stay

James Stavros, former Wheeling Township Democratic committeeman, will report Tuesday to a federal prison at Sandstone, Minn., to begin serving a four-year term.

Stavros will serve at least three years of the sentence under current parole policies. According to prison officials, he will likely remain at the Sandstone facility unless it is determined another prison could provide better rehabilitation.

The man who allegedly ran Wheeling politics from behind the scenes for more than 15 years pleaded guilty April 30 to extorting $92,000 from three Wheeling developers and filing a false income tax return. As part of an agreement with the U.S. Attorney's Office, the guilty plea came after eight other counts against Stavros were dropped.

Among the eight counts were charges of extorting an additional $91,250 from Wheeling builders.

BESIDES THE prison sentence handed down June 4 by U.S. District Court Judge Hubert Will, Stavros also received a $25,000 fine. He was granted six months to pay the fine.

Meanwhile, Michael Valenza, former Wheeling trustee and admitted felon, will not go to jail for at least 60 days.

Valenza received a delay in the start of his nine-month prison term from U.S. District Court Judge Bernard Decker Thursday morning. Valenza, who confessed guilt in a conspiracy to commit extortion, was to start his prison sentence Monday.

According to government officials, Valenza was given the extension because he has to get his personal affairs in order. They said he was unable to do this while cooperating with the federal prosecutors after pleading guilty to charges against him.

Valenza admitted to conspiring to extort $5,000 worth of furniture from Wickes Inc. in August, 1971. He was sentenced

May 24 and at that time given 30 days to get his affairs in order before going to prison.

He was indicted Jan. 31 along with Stavros and four other former Wheeling and Cook County officials. William Bleber, former Wheeling building director, is awaiting sentencing.

Another former trustee, William Hart, is currently on trial before U.S. District Court Judge Abraham Lincoln Marovitz. Two other Cook County officials, Nicholas Phillips and Ira Colitz were to start their trial Monday, but due to Phillips' attorney's illness, the trial was postponed until Sept. 23.

Wheeling band 3rd at Virginia

VIRGINIA BEACH, Va. — The Wheeling High School marching band placed third in the 13th annual Virginia Beach Band festival here Thursday.

The Wheeling band challenged 17 bands from eight states in four days of competition. The award was announced at 9 p.m. in ceremonies concluding the festival.

Falls Church High School, Falls Church, Va., placed first and James W. Robbins High School, Fairfax, Va., placed second. Competition was sponsored by the Virginia Beach Chamber of Commerce.

Stavros to start jail term Tuesday

James Stavros, Wheeling political boss who confessed to federal extortion charges in the shakedown of local developers, will report Tuesday to a federal prison in Sandstone, Minn., to begin a four-year term. Michael Valenza, a former village trustee who pleaded guilty to an extortion conspiracy charge in the scandal, will not begin serving his nine-month term in prison for another 60 days. He was given a stay of sentence Thursday by U.S. District Court Judge Bernard Decker to get his personal affairs in order.

Furnaces violated codes

Furnace installations in an estimated 1,700 village homes built in 1965 and 1967 apparently violated Elk Grove Village building codes in effect at the time. A check of village codes by Building Director Thomas Rettenbacher Thursday showed that typical furnace installations in those years violated at least two code requirements. Rettenbacher said he believes the violations may exist in all of the 1,700 homes involved because furnaces were installed by the same company using the same specifications. Elk Grove Village officials have received more than 50 calls from residents who want their furnaces checked immediately. The calls have come in response to a village offer of free inspections. In addition to the 50 calls received at village hall, heating contractors also report numerous inquiries. One woman called The Herald to report that she once passed out from furnace fumes that leaked into her home.

Cement strike may end

Representatives of striking cement truckdrivers and the Northern Illinois Ready Mix and Materials Assn. are reportedly nearing a settlement to the 37-day-old walkout which has delayed hundreds of millions of dollars worth of construction and road repair work in seven area counties.

Thursday, in a joint statement from negotiators at the Hyatt House Hotel in Oakbrook, it was reported that talks were continuing, a sign that a contract agreement may be in the offing. Over the past five weeks the two sides met only periodically but Thursday completed the third successive day of negotiating.

The truckdrivers initially were seeking a $3.75 per hour increase over three years. The association offered $1.50 per hour. A compromise between the two figures may settle the dispute.

Mikva tells net worth

Abner J. Mikva, former congressman who is running against U.S. Rep. Samuel H. Young, R-10th, has released a financial statement placing his net worth at $89,200. In a statement, Mikva said candidates for public office "must be prepared to live in a financial fishbowl."

Found shot to death

A Mount Prospect man, 65, was found dead — shot in the head — Thursday morning at his place of business on west Cermak Rd., Chicago. Chicago police found Louis Spivak, 1813 Locust Ln., Mount Prospect, in his Standard Auto Parts store.

Burglar one busy 'cat'

Arlington Heights police claim they have linked the man suspected of being the area's cat burglar with 42 burglaries in Arlington Heights alone. Meanwhile, Elk Grove Village police are preparing charges of 10 counts of burglary against the man, Robert E. Williams, 20, of Elk Grove Village. Williams was arrested by Mount Prospect police Wednesday during what was allegedly a burglary break-in in south Mount Prospect.

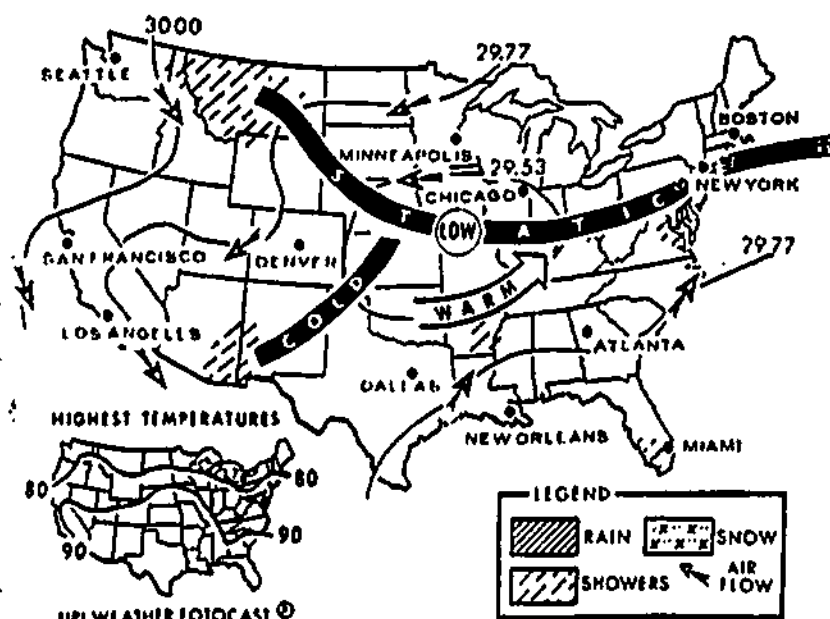

C&NW fined for noise

The Chicago and North Western Ry. was fined $500 plus $100 court costs by a Cook County Circuit Court judge Thursday following a complaint by the city of Des Plaines that the railroad is making too much noise in its switching yards and bothering neighbors.

Dog's owner fined $100

The owner of a dog which attacked a 5-year-old girl in Hanover Park and caused her to have 80 surgical stitches in her face was fined $100 Thursday by a Cook County Circuit Court judge. Convicted of harboring a vicious animal and fined was Dennis Tressler of Hanover Park who told the judge his Dalmatian which inflicted the wounds was destroyed at an animal hospital last month.

Percy, Crane rally to support of Rep. Young

by BOB LAHEY
Sen. Charles H. Percy and U.S. Rep. Philip M. Crane, R-12th, returned to the scene of their political beginnings Thursday night to boost the efforts of one of their junior colleagues in his bid for reelection in the North Shore 10th Congressional District.

Percy and Crane arrived shortly before a thunderstorm blacked out power for some 500 guests gathered at a Northbrook restaurant to inject finances and enthusiasm into Rep. Sam Young's bid for election to his second term in Congress.

Percy, Crane and Young made a special flight from Washington for the purpose of bolstering spirits in the 10th District, where Young is considered to be in a tough battle for reelection against Democrat Abner Mikva, a former Congressman.

YOUNG'S $100-A-PLATE dinner was an obvious financial success, with an estimated intake of some $45,000 to $50,000. The storm, which struck almost exactly at the dinner hour, blacked out the lights in Allgauer's Restaurant in Northbrook and silenced the public address system over which the assembled Congressmen attempted to give their pep talks for Young.

The power blackout, however, had little effect on the impact of the dinner, since no messages of substance were intended by either Percy, Crane or Young.

What they had to say of political impact was more or less delivered at a hastily convened press conference shortly before the dinner and the power failure.

At that press conference Sen. Percy and the two Congressmen agreed that organized labor and other elements of the Democratic party were determined to wrest control of the government not only from the Republican Party, but from the executive branch of the U.S. government.

CRANE, WHO formerly represented a good portion of the district in which Young is now seeking reelection, declared in the press conference that "George Meany (president of the AFL-CIO) and the people who have criticized the Nixon administration for exercising too much power, are now the very ones who are seeking a veto-proof Congress."

Crane predicted the campaign reform bills now being considered in Congress will result in what he termed "a charade." The 12th District Congressman said that labor-backed campaign bills pointedly overlook "contributions in kind," the term which covers services provided by labor and other organized groups in lieu of cash.

Young said his race against Mikva is one of the most vital in the eyes of organized labor in the 1974 Congressional elections.

He cited Mikva's 100 per cent voting record in the eyes of the committee on Political Education of the AFL-CIO, and public records of substantial financial contributions to Mikva from organized labor. "There is absolutely no doubt that the 10th Congressional District of Illinois is one of labor's target districts," Young said.

Walker: lawmakers deserve pay raise

Gov. Daniel Walker told Democratic lawmakers yesterday he thinks it's time they had a pay raise. Walker, however, did not discuss with the legislators the exact level of the pay hike they should get and reserves the right to veto any pay hike bill calling for too big a jump. The Illinois House has before it, at the passage stage, a $3,000-a-year pay boost. The governor also agreed yesterday to provide Illinois public schools with their full 12 state aid payments again this year.

Appoint Batch to head state lottery

Gov. Daniel Walker yesterday appointed Ralph Batch, former head of the New Jersey lottery, to direct the Illinois lottery expected to start within two months. Walker sent Batch's name to the state Senate for confirmation, along with a 5th member of the Lottery Board — Daniel A. Verstyne of Rockford.

The nation

Butz hints meat import quotas

Agriculture Secretary Earl Butz said yesterday the United States may be forced into import quotas on foreign beef unless other countries cooperate with his attempts to help U. S. farmers out of a price slump. Butz said the U. S. would not become a dumping ground for the world's excess meat. Earlier it was reported chicken producers destroyed millions of baby chicks in an effort to improve prices by dramatically reducing supplies. The move will cut consumer supplies during July and August by 10 million pounds a week.

Bank of Miami hikes prime rate

The First National Bank of Miami yesterday lifted its prime lending rate for top business borrowers to 11½ per cent from 11¼ per cent in a move that could presage a return to an upward spiral in this key interest rate. There is widespread speculation the prime may soon be headed up again, and some observers look for a rate of 13 per cent or more.

Dems, GOP divided on Nixon tax issue

Democrat and Republicans on the House Judiciary Committee divided yesterday on whether it was necessary to prove fraud against President Nixon before recommending impeachment for underpayment of income taxes. Following closed hearings on the President's personal finances, Democrats who would comment said they learned nothing to justify an impeachment vote, but tended to agree this would require far less than proof of fraud.

GOP ensure more tax reform defeats

Republicans brought ailing Sen. Norris Cotton to the Senate floor from Bethesda Naval Hospital yesterday to ensure yet another day of defeats for Liberal Democrats attempting to attach tax reform amendments to a debt ceiling bill. The four days of filibuster and parliamentary maneuvering against the tax amendments were condemned by Sen. Edward Kennedy as "an unfortunately tragic circus."

GSA chief denies secret data bank move

Arthur Sampson, head of the General Services Administration, denied yesterday before the Senate constitutional rights subcommittee that his agency secretly tried to set up a government-wide computerized data bank network. He said the project his agency planned was far less ambitious, and has since been "drastically" curtailed because of widespread fears that it represented a threat to individual privacy.

Defeats spark election talk in Britain

Britain's minority Labor government suffered its second major parliamentary defeat in 24 hours Thursday night, fueling speculation that Prime Minister Harold Wilson may call new general elections soon. Parliament members said the defeats would make it likely Wilson would call new elections by September or October.

U.S., North Vietnam exchange charges

North Vietnam accused American pilots yesterday of flying combat missions over South Vietnam, and the United States charged the Communists were continuing to block the search for the 1,100 Americans missing in the Indochina War. A U. S. embassy spokesman in Saigon said the pilot charge was "ridiculous." In Cambodia, a government drive up Highway 5 halted while troops cleaned out resistance in the town of Kompong Luong.

Canada and U.S. sign oil spill accord

The External Affairs Department in Ottawa announced yesterday that Canada and the United States have reached an agreement for the joint clean-up of oil spills in the Great Lakes and waters off the Atlantic and Pacific coasts. The agreement was signed by External Affairs Minister Mitchell Sharp and U. S. Ambassador William Porter.

East, West Germany exchange envoys

East and West Germany formally exchanged special envoys yesterday as a token of their proclaimed intention to normalize relations despite the Communist walls separating them. At the same time, the West German Parliament approved a nonaggression pact with Czechoslovakia, the last of the treaties making up the "eastern policy" for which former Chancellor Willy Brandt won the Nobel Peace Prize.

Nader makes new milk-fixing charge

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Consumer advocate Ralph Nader, fighting to keep his 30-month suit against the Nixon administration alive, charged Thursday the 1971 price support increase for raw milk was "a massive conspiracy to defraud" the milk-consuming public.

In several hundred pages of documents filed in U.S. District Court, William O. Dobrovir, Nader's lawyer, asked the court:

• Not to dismiss the suit because additional facts have been uncovered in the "painstaking, difficult, often frustrated and much obstructed and delayed" investigation.

• For permission to file a second amended complaint, this one naming President Nixon, Attorney General William B. Saxbe, Agriculture Secretary Earl L. Butz, the three major milk cooperatives and others.

Nader has charged the administration reversed itself and raised the price support for raw milk from $4.66 to $4.93 a hundredweight because of the co-ops' pledge of $2 million for Nixon's re-election campaign.

The Senate Watergate committee and Special Prosecutor Leon Jaworski have been conducting a similar investigation, and antitrust suits are pending against the co-ops in federal court in Kansas City.

District Judge William B. Jones asked the Justice Department in May to file a motion to dismiss Nader's suit on grounds it was moot since there have been several subsequent annual raises in the price support.

"The evidence shows and the proposed second amended complaint alleges that the 1971 price support increase was the result of a corrupt bargain between the officers of the nation's three largest dairy co-operatives and the highest officials of the government, to barter a government decision of tremendous value for a large contribution to the President's campaign chest," Dobrovir said.

"The cost to the Treasury has been estimated by the Department of Agriculture at $126.2 million," he said. "The cost to the consumer and the enrichment of the dairy industry has been estimated by one dairy executive at $500 to $700 million, by another — himself a linch pin of the conspiracy — at $300 million."

Crisis stage in 'Frisco nurse strike

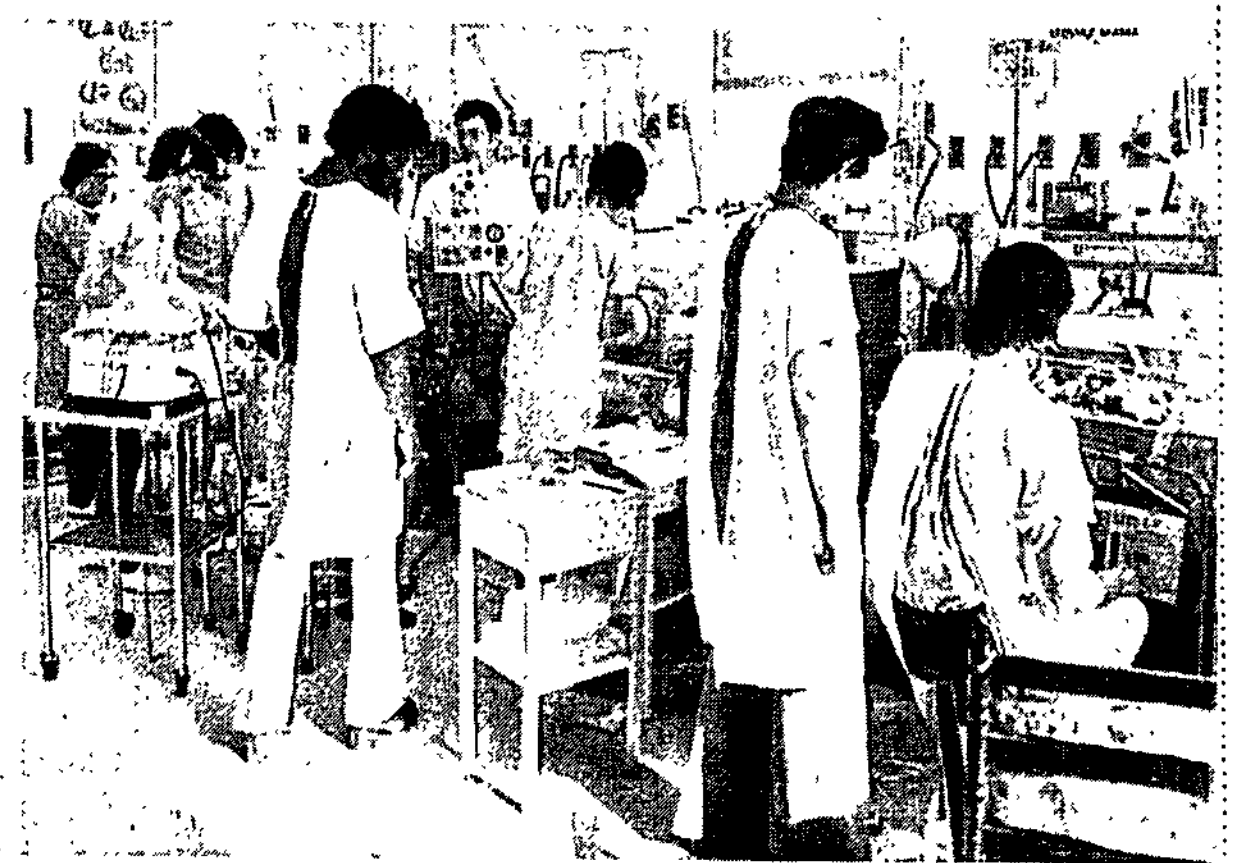

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Care of the sick at 41 struck hospitals was reputed at a crisis stage Thursday after nurses in emergency and intensive care units walked off the job and truck drivers began observing picket lines in a two-week-old nurses' strike.

Betty Noyes, director of nurses at Mt. Zion Hospital, said all the nurses had pulled out of the intensive care units in violation of an earlier agreement by the California Nurses Assn. to care for seriously ill patients in the hospital's acute and emergency areas. Pact negotiations resumed last night.

In Mt. Zion's intensive care nursery, three critically ill babies in respirators were under the care of physicians working in 12-hour shifts. Dr. Roberta Ballard, head of the nursery, said she had pleaded with the nurses to stay on but they refused.

Thursday marked the 14th day of the strike by 4,400 nurses.

As the nurses increased the pressure in the emergency room, Teamsters drivers halted deliveries of non-essential supplies to the hospitals.

STAFF PHYSICIANS and the head nurse work with infants in Intensive Care Nursery at Mt. Zion Hospital in San Francisco. Striking nurses of the California Nurses Association have withdrawn volunteers in the emergency and intensive care units at 41 hospitals hit by the strike in Northern California.

Arabs snarl as air raids continue

From United Press International
Israel launched its heaviest air raids in more than a month Thursday on suspected guerrilla bases in Lebanon and touched off a new war of words in the Middle East.

Syria, which concluded a new truce with Israel last month, vowed through an official source not to remain idle "in the face of the barbaric bombings by Israel against innocent civilians."

The League of Arab States, in a statement issued in New York, said the Israeli bombings could imperil the military disengagement agreements among Israel, Egypt and Syria.

Israeli Prime Minister Yitzhak Rabin said Israel cannot begin peace negotiations with the Arabs until the Arabs change their attitude.

"The concept of the Arab leaders of what constitutes a political settlement falls very far from what we mean by peace and security," Rabin told a Jewish Agency meeting in Jerusalem.

Lebanese reports said the targets of the Israeli raids Thursday included Palestinian refugee camps. The reports said "dozens" of civilians were killed.

The Palestinian Red Crescent Society — the Arab equivalent of the Red Cross — said the victims included old people, women and children as well as rescue workers. It appealed for help.

Palestinian guerrilla sources said at least 27 persons were killed and 94 wounded, mostly women and children.

The Israeli military command said the air strikes were ordered because of increased guerrilla activity in the region. It was the third consecutive day of raids in retaliation for last Thursday's guerrilla attack on the border village of Simlir.

Nixon denies advance deals with Soviets

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Nixon told congressional leaders Thursday that no agreements have been entered into in advance of his summit meeting next week with Soviet Party Leader Leonid I. Brezhnev.

Nixon, who briefed congressional leaders, the Cabinet and the National Security Council in a day-long series of meetings following his return from the Middle East, also repeated what the Arab leaders told him — that a lasting peace in that area of the world still depends on solving the problems of the West Bank, the Palestinian refugees and the Holy City.

Abandoning plans to spend a long weekend in Key Biscayne, Fla., the President announced he would stay at the White House or possibly go to his retreat in Camp David, Md., prior to his departure Tuesday for another round of summitry in Europe and the Soviet Union.

He will begin two days of talks Tuesday with NATO heads of state in Brussels and then go on to Moscow Thursday.

Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield said Nixon assured the congressional leaders that "no agreements have been entered into" prior to the Moscow summit. He added that the President "hopes to make progress toward agreements later" and will "discuss these matters at the summit."

These assurances apparently were designed to allay fears raised Wednesday by Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., who accused Nixon of arranging agreements in advance of the trip without telling Congress.

Nixon also told the congressional leaders that his plan to provide Egypt and Israel with nuclear power plants will be accompanied by ample safeguards to insure against development of nuclear weapons.

But supplies still look good

Speed creeps up; gas warnings renewed

From Herald news services
As motorists increase speed while the memory of the energy crisis dims, warnings are being sounded that gasoline could get scarce again.

Although reports from across the nation are optimistic that there will be no gas shortages this summer when driving is at its peak, some state and automobile club officials warned Thursday that motorists are too quickly forgetting the lessons of the energy crisis.

The key to adequate supplies, they say, is conservation by keeping highway speeds to 55 miles an hour and cutting out unnecessary travel.

Occasional shortages were reported in many states but reduced operating hours appeared more the rule than the exception for service stations.

Only minor end-of-the-month shortages or the inconvenience of having to look harder for open gasoline stations outside metropolitan areas at night or Sundays were reported in Louisiana, Kansas, Texas, Kentucky, Washington, New Mexico and Alabama.

The Chicago Motor Club reported gasoline supplies were adequate in Illinois. About one-third of Chicago area stations planned to stay open on Sunday, compared with 44 per cent downstate and 22 per cent in northern Indiana.

The Wisconsin energy office said supplies of fuel should remain stable or adequate as long as conservation is emphasized.

The Tennessee Auto Club tinged its upbeat summer gasoline situation report by saying estimates were based on maintenance of the 55 mph speed limit. No problems had yet been encountered, but some energy officials said motorists were getting legislative encouragement to break the speed limit through light penalties imposed on offenders.

Meanwhile, the Chicago Motor Club said Thursday the average price of a gallon of gasoline went up by more than a penny last week in some areas of Illinois.

The club said a gallon of regular cost 59.5 cents on the average this week, compared with 58.1 cents last week. Downstate, prices increased from 58.4 cents to 58.9 cents per gallon.

Prices of premium remained steady, between 61 and 63 cents a gallon, throughout the area.

Calley returns to custody for second night in jail

• Former Army Lt. William Calley Jr. went back into custody yesterday, spending only his second night behind bars since his March 29, 1971, conviction for the killing of at least 22 civilians in the My Lai massacre in South Vietnam. Calley, saying nothing, surrendered to military authorities at Fort Benning, Ga., after a 30-minute federal court appearance formalizing an appeal court's revocation of the bail that had kept him free since January. Until then, he had spent only one night in the Fort Benning stockade and the rest of the time in custody under house arrest, pending the outcome of his still-continuing appeal.

• It's been an interesting week for Martha Mitchell, co-hosting a TV talk show in New York. After trotting out various Inside Watergate opinions and getting Washington Post reporter Bob Woodward to admit he voted for Richard Nixon, Mrs. Mitchell Thursday observed that the Nixon administration was "completely anti-woman," and then turned the mike over to feminist giant Gloria Steinem. Her most stirring pronouncement: she "absolutely" is totally liberated.

• Being governor does have its special demands, noted Dan Walker as he revealed his net worth decreased some $10,000 during his first year in Springfield. In his annual disclosure statement, he reported income of $54,555 and total assets of $415,355, with his checking and savings accounts taking the beating.

• British actress Vanessa Redgrave might be getting the impression she's not wanted. Defeated earlier this year in a parliamentary race on her Trotskyist Workers' Revolutionary ticket, now she has finished way down the list in a bid for one of the 58 seats on the ruling council of Britain's actor's union.

ARLINGTON HEIGHTS ROAD north of Dundee Road is closed while workers tear up the battered roadway and prepare to pour a new pavement. A strike by cement and other material truck drivers, however, has cut off the supply of concrete and state highway officials say completion of the project may be delayed indefinitely. The road is now impassable and motorists have been asked to follow posted detour signs.

Hearing to resume in July

No incorporation compromise yet

by TOM VON MALDER

Attempts to reach a compromise with all eight objectors to Prospect Heights' incorporation broke down Thursday. Cook County Circuit Court Judge Harry G. Comerford immediately ordered a resumption of the court hearing and set aside July 19 and 22 for the case.

The hearing is to determine whether an election on Prospect Heights' incorporation will be held. Residents of the unincorporated area surrounded by Wheeling, Mount Prospect and Arlington Heights want to incorporate so that they will have control over development in their area and will not become a part of the three surrounding communities.

and Arlington Heights would not compromise on the west boundary of the proposed municipality.

ARLINGTON HEIGHTS, through its village attorney, Jack Siegel, has insisted that Prospect Heights extend only as far west as Schoenbeck Road. Meanwhile, the PHIA had offered to pull back as far as the east lot line of the homes on the east side of Waterman Avenue, Kreger said.

The difference of about three blocks apparently could not be worked out. If the east lot line compromise had been accepted, Prospect Heights could have annexed the homes on Waterman Avenue as soon as it was incorporated.

Residents of the Waterman Avenue area, who are almost 100 per cent behind not wanting to become part of Arlington Heights, have said Arlington Heights' only interest in them is as a means to block Prospect Heights from reaching property with commercial potential along Rand Road. They said Arlington Heights wants the commercial potential for itself.

SINCE COMPROMISE could not be worked out with all the objectors, the tentative agreements worked out with the other objectors are wiped out. These compromises included deletion from the Prospect Heights plans of Allgauer's Fireside Restaurant and the Holiday Inn on Milwaukee Avenue, all parts of Pal-Waukee Airport and property south of Hinz Road and west of Schoenbeck Road, owned by eight families.

Neither PHIA Pres. Jack Gilligan nor Vice Pres. Richard Wolf could be reached for comment Thursday. It is known that Gilligan especially had been hoping for a compromise agreement, as such would preclude any court appeals by the objectors.

Several of the objectors, led by Siegel, have asked Comerford to throw out the testimony of the PHIA's population witness. Comerford is expected to rule on the motion after Kreger has closed his case. The PHIA must prove the incorporation area is under four square miles in area with a population of at least 7,500 and must prove the incorporation petitions submitted to the court are valid.

$8,000 tractor stolen

An $8,000 yellow 1968 Ford tractor owned by the Enterprise Corp. of Wheeling was stolen Tuesday night. Wheeling police said Thursday.

Police said a man saw the tractor northbound on Wheeling Road about 6 p.m. The man told police a blue-green pickup truck was following the tractor. The tractor was stolen from 1151 Wheeling Rd.

Ski, fishing gear stolen from locker

Skiing and fishing equipment valued at $359.50 was stolen Wednesday from a storage locker at 847 Miller Ln., Buffalo Grove police said Thursday.

The burglary occurred sometime prior to 5:50 p.m. The owner of the equipment was David E. Boys.

Free Hearing Tests Set For Senior Citizens

Electronic hearing tests will be given at Beltone Hearing Aid Service offices on Monday and Tuesday. Factory-trained hearing aid specialists will be at all of the offices listed below to perform the tests.

Anyone who has trouble hearing or understanding is welcome to have a test using the latest electronic equipment to determine his or her particular loss. Diagrams showing how the ear works and some of the causes of hearing loss will be available.

Everyone should have a hearing test at least once a year if there is any trouble at all hearing clearly. Even people now wearing a hearing aid or those who have been told nothing could be done for them should have a hearing test and find out about the latest methods of hearing correction. The hearing test will be given Monday and Tuesday. If you can't get there on Monday or Tuesday, call one of the numbers below and arrange for an appointment at another time. Shut-in service is available in your home. Just phone the Beltone Hearing Aid Service nearest to you.

Furnaces apparently broke codes

by BOB GALLAS

Furnace installations in an estimated 1,700 village homes built in 1963 and 1967 apparently violated Elk Grove Village building codes in effect at that time.

A check of village codes by Building Director Thomas Rittenbacher Thursday showed that typical furnace installations in those two years violated at least two code requirements.

Rittenbacher said he believes the violations may exist in all of the 1,700 homes involved because furnaces were installed by the same company using the same specifications.

The Herald disclosed Tuesday that defective furnaces that may be leaking deadly fumes are installed in the 1,700 Centex Corp.-built homes.

ONE VIOLATION found in the installations involves the air-intake grille on the door of furnace rooms. The grille, according to village code, does not have enough "net-free area" for venting. Although the vents are large enough to meet codes, the openings for admitting air are not.

Undersized vent connectors for furnaces and hot water heaters are a second violation, with some documented as being one inch smaller in diameter than they should be. Vent connectors are pipes leading from the furnace and water heaters to chimney pipes.

A third violation involves rooftop vent pipes which may be too short. According to codes at the time, pipes had to extend at least two feet above the highest point on the roof line. Only pipes with special "wind tested" covers are exempt from this requirement.

EXAMPLES OF the violations were documented in an engineer's report to the furnace manufacturer more than a year ago. The report, however, did not blame the violations for the heat exchanger failures.

Rittenbacher said village inspectors will "make a thorough inspection from the ground up" of furnace installations in the area to make sure they are in compliance with the building codes as soon as a metallurgical report from an independent testing firm is complete.

The problem furnaces were manufactured by Johnson Corp. of Bellevue, Ohio. A large number of heat exchangers have been cracking and corroding, allowing toxic fumes to escape into heated air going into the homes.

The village sent two faulty heat exchangers in for complete testing in an effort to determine exactly what is causing the heat exchanger failure.

TWO VILLAGE HEATING contractors have repaired more than 150 heat exchangers over the past three years. According to Rittenbacher, the number of faulty heat exchangers which haven't been detected yet, plus those repaired by contractors outside the village probably will put the number substantially higher.

Servpro-Metropolitan Service Co. of Berwyn has installed virtually all of the heating systems in Elk Grove Village, including those in the area where heat exchanger failure has been most prevalent.

Library plans activities for children, adults

Activities for both children and adults are planned this summer by the Wheeling Public Library District.

The library, which serves Wheeling and Buffalo Grove, will be known as the Indian Trails Public Library District after July 1.

Heading the list of activities is a series of family films to be shown at the Buffalo Grove Park Friday evening, 150 Raupp Blvd., each Friday in July.

The film schedule includes "Bedknobs and Broomsticks," July 5; "Hans Christian Andersen" with Danny Kaye, July 12; "The Bellboy" with Jerry Lewis, July 19, and "Finian's Rainbow," July 26.

Among children's activities planned are a "Pawpaw puppet show" at 1:30 p.m., Tuesday, July 9, at the Wheeling library, 850 Jenkins Ct. A "Pawpaw sports day" is set for Tuesday, Aug. 13 at the library extension at St. Mary's School in Buffalo Grove and a "Pawpaw celebration and library open house" is scheduled for Saturday, Aug. 17, at the Wheeling library.

SEVERAL SPECIAL series programs will be offered for youngsters entering kindergarten through the eighth grade next fall.

Multimedia storytimes will be conducted for children in kindergarten, first and second grades July 18, 23, 30 and Aug. 6. Morning and evening sessions will be at the Wheeling library and afternoon sessions will be at the St. Mary's School summer extension library.

Third, fourth and fifth grade students may sign up for craft classes that offered July 17, 24 and 31 and Aug. 7. Again, morning and evening sessions will be at the Wheeling library and afternoon sessions at the St. Mary's School extension.

The techniques of making cartoon films may be explored by students who will enter the sixth, seventh and eighth grades next fall in afternoon sessions scheduled for July 18, 25 and Aug. 1 and 8 at the Wheeling library.

Registration for all special series programs will begin July 5 at the Wheeling library.

GUNSLINGER Al Miles entertained Motorola employees recently as part of a recreational program workers at the Schaumburg facility plan for themselves. Miles is a resident of Hoffman Estates.

Dist. 23 wrapup

Public hearing on 1974-75 budget set

A public hearing on Dist. 23's tentative 1974-75 budget has been scheduled for 7:30 p.m. July 24 at the administration office, Palatine and Schoenbeck roads, Prospect Heights.

Copies of the more than $2.491 million budget are available for public viewing at the administration office, and at the homes of board members Melvin Lacey, 3 Garden Ct., Prospect Heights, and Ron Szwatke, 201 E. Willow Rd., Prospect Heights.

Following the public hearing, the board can take action to approve the tentative budget. Because calculations are based on several unconfirmed statistics such as assessed valuation and a real estate multiplier of 1.50, the budget is subject to change even after it is approved, according to district officials.

The budget was compiled based on the assumption that the total assessed valuation of the district will increase, that the state will follow through with full-funding of the state aid formula and that the Cook County resource equalizer formula will remain 1.50 rather than 1.48.

No figures, however, on assessed valuation have been released by the Cook County Assessor's office, and no determination has been made on whether or not the multiplier will be reduced. The outlook for full funding also looks bleak since Gov. Daniel Walker has stated his opposition to it even though the Illinois General Assembly has approved the measure.

Mobile units sale OK'd

The board at its meeting Wednesday approved the sale of two of its unused mobile units to Northbrook School Dist. 30. Dist. 30 has agreed to pay $2,500 for each portable and assume the cost of transporting the units.

Policy changes approved

A number of policy amendments and new policy statements were approved by the board. Included among them were updated statements on reimbursement for required teacher medical exams, travel reimbursement, procedure for recovering compensation from students who lose or damage district property, rental of musical instruments, personal days for certified and non-certified personnel, the awarding of attendance certificates to students who do not meet minimum standards for receiving a diploma and a 15-point job description of the school nurse's duties.

Board meeting canceled

The board will have only one meeting in July. The board voted to cancel its July 3 meeting and meet only on July 10.

Dissident party members criticize 'dynasty'

Mugalian faces a two-pronged attack

by BOB LAHEY

State Rep. Richard A. Mugalian, D-Palatine, Democratic township committeeman, already confronted with a serious threat to his reelection to the Illinois General Assembly, now is faced with a splinter group of dissident party members in his home township.

The dissidents, led by George Fruzyan of Palatine, deny that their group is out to oust Mugalian from the legislature. But Fruzyan, president of the newly formed Palatine Township Democratic Club, said it was founded over "a basic difference in philosophy between a group of people and Dick Mugalian."

Fruzyan says the Democratic club will support "all Democratic candidates," including Mugalian, and charges that Mugalian has not done that. "He is using his committeeman post to develop his own dynasty," Fruzyan charged.

MUGALIAN, HIMSELF, A dissident from the regular Cook County Democratic organization headed by Chicago Mayor Richard J. Daley, responded that Fruzyan and his associates are seeking "a return to the old-style politics."

"What they want is an enforceable discipline" under which precinct captains who do not follow the bidding of the party can be fired, said Mugalian.

Fruzyan has criticized Mugalian for backing Donald Page Moore for the 1972 Democratic nomination for state's attorney over the regular party candidate, Raymond Berg.

"I was very happy to support Donald

George Fruzyan

Richard Mugalian

Page Moore," Mugalian declared, "and I carried the township for him."

DESCRIBING HIS organization as "completely open," Mugalian said many precinct captains declined to work for all Democratic candidates. "I am not going to tell them they have to support everyone on the ticket when some are not acceptable — and when one or two might even be indicted before election day," Mugalian said.

Fruzyan disputed Mugalian's contention of "openness." He said among the objections of the members in the newly formed club is the assessment of annual dues of $5 in the township organization. Opposition to the charging of dues as a requirement for voting in organizational matters, he said, was one reason why Robert DiFatta, now vice president of the new club, declined a nomination as a director of the organization headed by Mugalian.

Fruzyan, DiFatta and one of the directors of the new club, Roger Florey, also charged that Mugalian attempted to circumvent their efforts to be chosen as "delegate electors" who voted Tuesday night on delegates to the Democratic National Conference to be held in December.

They said Mugalian failed to notify them of the meeting at which the electors were chosen, or to inform them that they had been placed on the ballot.

FLOREY SHOWED The Herald a registered letter mailed to Mugalian's home that he said contained his statement of candidacy, and which was returned to him unclaimed.

Mugalian answered that he is often away from home on legislative business and said, "If he had sent a regular letter, it would have been in my mailbox." He added that he had sent no notices of the meeting to any elector candidates. "We relied on the press," he said, "and anyway, they were all on the ballot, and they were all elected."

The split among township Democrats — Fruzyan says there are 45 members in the club — comes at a time when Mugalian is facing an uphill battle to retain his seat in the legislature, which he won in 1972.

IN THE 2ND LEGISLATIVE District, which will likely again elect two Republican representatives and one Democrat, Mugalian is sharing the Democratic ballot with David Carey of Elgin, an assistant to State Supt. of Public Instruction Michael Bakalis.

Carey outpolled the freshman incumbent Mugalian in the Democratic primary, winning the top spot on the ballot — a position regarded by many politicians as worth 10 per cent or more of the total vote.

While Carey is acquainted with the founders of the new club, both he and Fruzyan said it was organized without Carey's knowledge.

National Guard holds job seminar Saturday

The Illinois Air National Guard will hold an opportunity fair Saturday at O'Hare Airport.

Men and women between the ages of 17 and 26 are invited to attend the seminars conducted by Sgt. Edwin Schmidt. Other members of the Air National Guard will be available to answer questions and present part-time job descriptions on everything from dental hygiene to aircraft mechanics.

Reservations may be made by calling Schmidt at 694-3683. Saturday's program is from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m.

Radio enthusiasts in field day exercise

Amateur radio enthusiasts will participate in a nationwide field day radio exercise this weekend in Deer Grove, Palatine Township.

The event, sponsored annually by the American Radio Relay League, will begin Saturday at 1 p.m. and end 24 hours later. Each participating group will attempt to contact other amateur radio stations across the county in a test of radio emergency communications preparedness.

Among the local clubs participating are the Motorola Amateur Radio Club of Schaumburg and the Hersey High School radio club of Arlington Heights.

Jack Montgomery, field day chairman, said:

"In the event of a disaster such as a flood, tornado or other disaster, the amateur radio service can provide radio communications from the disaster scene when normal communications facilities are struck down."

For additional information, call 397-1000, ext. 3224.

St. Patrick Academy reunion set Saturday

The 1964 graduating class of St. Patrick Academy (formerly of Des Plaines) is holding a ten-year reunion dinner dance Saturday, June 22.

If you or someone you know was a member of this class and have not been contacted, please call Marie Dettloff Pokorny at 383-8981 for information.

The Kassel Studio of Dance is performing its sixth annual musical today, Saturday and Sunday at Rolling Meadows High School, 2901 Central Rd.

The musical, "Sleeping Beauty," is performed by 350 students from the Kassel Studio. Also featured are the Studio's Northwest Performing Dance Company.

Tickets are available at the door. For further information, call 392-2228.

Schools to require physicals for students

Students who will be freshmen in High School Dist. 214 schools next fall must have a student medical examination record signed by a physician before they start school.

Illinois law requires a physical examination for students within six months of their starting ninth grade. In addition, students must be immunized against diphtheria, tetanus, measles, rubella (German measles) and polio.

Medical examination forms were handed out to eighth graders at orientation programs earlier this year. Additional forms are available at each high school.

Harper summer rolls up

Summer school enrollment at Harper College in Palatine has increased 20 per cent over last year, with nearly 5,000 persons enrolled in credit and non-credit classes at the school.

According to college officials, the highest enrollment increase is in the business division, where enrollment is up 43 per cent over last summer. The lowest increase was in engineering, which showed a two per cent increase.

Enrollment in the noncredit, continuing education programs at the college is up 19 per cent over last year.

The doctor says
by Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

Good looks are not 'contagious'

Is it possible, when a woman is pregnant, to live with a man who is not the father of the child and when the baby is born the child will look like the man? Can this child more or less pick up the man's looks, eyes, hair, even though he is not the father?

The physical characteristics are determined by the genes. Half of the genes come from the mother and half from the father. Some of the traits that appear in the child may not resemble either parent because a less dominant gene was passed on to the child. That is how a child may look like someone else in the family besides the actual parents.

There is no way that just living with a man will give the newborn child any particular physical characteristics. Any similarities are a coincidence or are characteristics the man also shared with the real father.

As the child gets older he may adopt mannerisms, posture and speech of the man he identifies as father, even though there may be no blood relationship. This can often give the impression of similarity.

I have had a problem for the past year of retaining water. Once a week I take aspirin to eliminate and relieve the swelling of some parts of my body. Is there perhaps another way, perhaps through drinking juices or eating certain foods which would help in a more natural way?

That depends a lot on what is causing you to retain fluid. Many women have this problem in relation to their regular menstrual cycle. It is known as premenstrual retention. The cause here is the increased production of female hormone, specifically estrogen, in a cyclical fashion. The estrogen causes the body to retain salt. Water is retained, because the body is holding on to excess salt.

Water retention can also be caused by heart disease, kidney disease, liver disease and in the legs by varicose veins, just to mention a few causes.

In most of these problems (not varicose veins, however) the difficulty is caused by retention of excess amounts of salt. Normally the kidney eliminates the salt we don't need. When you take a pill to eliminate water it chemically causes the kidney to eliminate the excess salt, and the excess water goes with the salt.

THE ONLY nutritional approach to this problem is to eat less salt. That may mean eliminating a lot of foods you need because they also contain salt in their natural form. I am thinking of milk and meat, in particular. The extreme form of a low-salt diet is the rice diet, which means eating only rice and fruit. I don't recommend this under any circumstances for anyone except under the careful management of a physician.

Despite my remarks, I do think that you can help yourself some by avoiding salty foods and not using salt in your cooking or at the table. Usually this isn't enough to solve the problem completely, but you can try it.

C.R.C.

Would you like a credit reserve of $300 to $3000 to cover checks beyond the balance in your checking account?

C.R.C.

The end of the overdraw

It happens... a genuine once-in-a-lifetime sale is announced... unexpected expenses or an emergency comes along... and the balance in your check book isn't sufficient to cover the cost. Where will you get the money?

You could apply for a regular loan — if you have the time. Or you could take the easiest, most convenient course of all — and simply write a check for it. With a Credit Reserve Checking account — CRC — you have instant "borrowing power" that lets you write checks for more money than you have in your account. You use your regular personal checks, so no one knows you are borrowing — a feature many users appreciate and you make your purchase just as though you had the money all the time.

A few quick facts about this modern new checking account concept:

☐ You can borrow as often as you like — up to the limit of your credit reserve. Each time you write a check for more money than you have in your checking account, funds are automatically transferred in multiples of $100 from your Credit Reserve to your checking account. When repayment is made, the line of credit is built back to its original amount and can be used again and again.

How much money can you borrow?

A credit reserve of from $300 to $3000 can be established dependent upon your income and ability to make repayments.

Is it costly?

It costs you nothing to open a Credit Reserve Checking Account. In fact, you may never have occasion to use the credit reserve of your CRC account — although it's a good feeling to know that it's there, — and should this be the case, this extra security will never cost you any more than a regular checking account. If and when you do write a check for more money than you have in your account, you pay only a small monthly interest charge.

☐ Repayments will be automatically deducted from your checking account each month in the amount determined by the loan agreement.

☐ Pre-payments can be made at any time without penalty charge.

☐ Notification of all funds deposited to your checking account is sent to you by the bank along with a statement of your Credit Reserve and regular checking account balance.

Utility charity donations are at issue

Corporate and consumer interests are pitted against each other in the utility charity donations issue considered this week by legislators in Springfield.

On the one hand, citizens groups such as Independent Voters of Illinois and Citizens for a Better Environment want the funds for donations by telephone companies and other utilities to come out of shareholder profits as outlined in an Illinois Supreme Court ruling last fall.

Squaring off on the issue, utilities such as Commonwealth Edison Co. and Illinois Bell Telephone Co. want to donate massive sums of money to charities at customer expense. Edison charitable donations during 1973 totaled $1.1 million, for example. The donations directly benefit communities we serve, contend the utilities.

THE IVI CRITICIZED House Bill 2864 passed by the House of Representatives on Wednesday. The bill would enable utilities to pass along to customers the cost of charitable and lobbying expenses and executive club memberships.

Ellis Levin, of the IVI, said House Bill 2864, along with House Bill 2861 and Senate Bill 1644, would be a "10 to 20 million boondoggle" for utility customers. Acceptable profit margins for utility suppliers are considered in House Bill 2861, the Senate Bill 1644 would allow utilities to pass along charitable donation costs to consumers. The IVI contends that Western Electric Co., for example — a supplier to Illinois Bell — has a guaranteed market through its affiliation with American Telephone & Telegraph Co.

THE CHARITABLE gift bills would allow utilities to sidestep a 1973 Illinois Supreme Court ruling which prohibited utilities from charging the cost of charitable contributions, political donations and club memberships to customers. The costs should be taken from shareholder profits rather than customer service bills, according to the court ruling.

"They (the utilities) are getting the public relations benefit of being a good corporate citizen," said Levin of charitable and other donations. "But it doesn't cost them a red cent. They pass it along to the public."

The IVI calculates that Illinois Bell Telephone customers will pay an added $6.3 million a year for charitable and political donations, club fees and excess profits paid to suppliers. If the three bills are passed, the $10 to $20 million figure is calculated on the basis of previous donations by Illinois Bell, Commonwealth Edison Co., Peoples Gas Co. and Northern Illinois Gas Co. It includes an adjustment for federal income tax and capital purchases.

PHILIP MILLER, a researcher for the Citizens for a Better Environment group in Chicago, said citizens groups do not oppose charitable donations. According to Miller and the IVI, donations do not decrease substantially in states where a pass through of charitable costs to customers is prohibited.

"Being a corporate citizen, we feel that it's important too that we participate in the activities in communities we serve," said Peter Cook of Commonwealth Edison public affairs staff. "It's in the best interests of the public," he said in support of Senate Bill 1644.

An Illinois Bell spokesman said, "We would like to see ourselves able to resume a regular program of contributions to health, welfare and cultural organizations. We continue to regard this support as a community obligation."

$2,000 automobile a thing of the past?

by EDWARD S. LECHTIN

DETROIT — Like the 5-cent cigar and the 30-cent gallon of gasoline, an American-built car with a price tag below $2,500 soon will be nothing more than a fond memory.

It hasn't been too long since U.S. auto makers were touting their below-$2,000 subcompacts and there still are dealers who remember their astonishment when they put a full-size 1950 Chevrolet out the door at more than $2,000. That was with all the options.

The lowest-priced U.S. car now is the subcompact AMC Gremlin with a base price of $2,481. Add on the tax and even the smallest option and the price tag is above $2,500.

AND YOU CAN BET the same car will cost at least $200 more when the 1975 model is introduced in October or November.

Only four years ago — on April 1, 1970 — AMC introduced the Gremlin and priced it at $1,999. Last summer, the car carried a tag of $2,098 and now is $482 more than it was when it first came on the market.

Ford's subcompact Pinto has gone up $363 from its original $1,919 price to its present $2,482. The Chevrolet Vega, which boasted a $2,091 sticker when it was introduced in 1970, now costs $2,504.90.

UNLIKE THE SMALL CARS of the early 1960s that increased in size as well as price, today's small cars have remained virtually unchanged since they were introduced four and five years ago. But these cars have changed internally. Increased government safety and emission control equipment is adding costs to the car which are being paid for by the consumer.

Henry Ford II, board chairman of the company that bears his name, estimates that safety, damageability and emission standards have added about $400 to the price of the average car and will add another $800 in the next few years.

"The total direct cost of these regulations to the consumer would then be nearly $1,200 per car — which amounts to $12 billion or more per year out of the pockets of the American consumer," says Ford. "These numbers suggest that a bit more common sense in government regulation of the automobile is an essential part of the struggle against runaway inflation."

INFLATIONARY PRESSURES get a good share of the blame for pushing up prices. Between Aug. 1, 1973, and April 30 of this year, Chrysler Corp. estimated increases in materials, component costs and labor totaled $307 per vehicle.

After handing out that estimate, Chrysler in rapid succession announced two price hikes averaging $168 per car and truck.

"The drastic cost increases we are witnessing are in large part the result of shortages which have been intensified by a prolonged period of government price controls," Chrysler Chairman Lynn Townsend said.

"These controls on the one hand have discouraged production and on the other have diverted goods to more favorable free markets in other parts of the world."

"In our judgment, a return to a free market economy will in the long run correct many of these imbalances and slow the inflationary spiral."

EVEN IF THE "spiral" is slowed, expect at least a $200 price hike for 1975 models and maybe as much as $300 if prices of materials don't begin to stay at one level.

Check off $150 of that increase to cover the cost of adding the latest piece of emission control equipment — the catalytic converter that hopefully will give the American motorist the advantage of greater fuel economy.

Court orders networks to cut hours

CBS, ABC to revise fall schedules

HOLLYWOOD — CBS and ABC announced Thursday they would revise their fall television schedules following a federal court order of network access to prime time.

NBC said it would announce its decision after studying the effects of the decision by the U.S. Court of Appeals in New York.

One high industry source said the decision would force CBS, ABC, and NBC to drop 90 minutes of network programming on the weekends.

"WHAT IT DOES," he said, "is to turn over a lot of constructive programming to the makers of game shows. And if that is constructive, I'll eat my hat."

The 2nd U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals Tuesday postponed, until at least September 1975, a series of new rules for network programming in the evening prime time.

Under the rules, CBS, ABC and NBC would have been permitted to show 3½

by Frank S. Swerlow hours of network programming in prime time Monday through Saturday and in all four hours from 7 p.m. to 11 p.m. Sunday.

At present, the networks are limited to three hours of prime time.

ROBERT WOOD, president of CBS television network, said in a letter to the company's affiliates that he was astonished by the decision.

He added: "However, at this time, we believe as a practical matter that any legal redress of this decision could not be expected in time to be of use to our affiliates and that any prolonged indecision on our part would be a disservice to you. Accordingly, with regret we intend to change our fall prime time schedule to three hours, seven nights per week. A revised program schedule will be provided shortly."

A SPOKESMAN FOR ABC said, "We stand by our decision." He said he would have no comment on the effects of the court order.

Another industry source said the networks probably would drop their weakest programs to comply with the decision.

The decision on the number of hours of prime time network programming was made by the FCC on Feb. 6 after four years of an experiment to weaken the domination of evening schedules by the broadcasting companies. It was to take effect this fall.

The delay in the FCC decision was sought by a group of companies that provide syndicated programs as an alternative to network shows. Many of these companies produce game and adventure shows.

Hollywood wants more of actor Michael Murphy

by DICK KLEINER

HOLLYWOOD — There are actors who take every part that comes their way, figuring they have to work to perfect their craft. And there are actors who hold out for what they consider are only good parts, figuring that they can do no craft-perfecting except in parts that are well-written.

Michael Murphy is one of the latter group. And his fussiness is making Hollywood tear its hair in frustration. They want him for movies, for TV series, for TV guest shots, because he's good and they know it, but he keeps being shy about it.

He says he used to average four or five definite series offers a year. And then he did "The Autobiography of Miss Jane Pittman" — he played the reporter who came to interview Cicely Tyson — and the offers increased. So far, nothing's come along to tempt him.

"I DON'T WORK very much," he says. "I don't need to do much. I'm not married. I live in a shack at Malibu and my tastes are modest."

He drives a '50 Mercury, but it's a thing of beauty — it's a traffic-stopper. He tore it apart and rebuilt it himself. It was something of a labor of pride, because, up until then, he'd never been the mechanical sort. He just decided it was time he learned.

Murphy is one of Bob Altman's repository company — the director likes to use the same actors again and again. He's about to go into Altman's "Nashville," which will be his seventh or eighth — he forgets which — film with Bob. He also has a major role in the upcoming "Phase IV," which smells like one of 1974's big ones.

MURPHY IS A Los Angeles boy. His father dealt in used canvas. Because of that he got into the business of putting up tents for big Hollywood parties. As a boy, Mike would go with his dad to help set up the tents and he met a lot of the biggies.

He remembers once wondering around Gary Cooper's place and Coop came out.

Michael Murphy

"He didn't know who we were," he says. "I was with my older sister. But he was very nice to us, anyhow."

He went to the University of Arizona, where he was a big man on campus and roomed with Barry Goldwater's son. He studied education and taught for a few years. He was teaching in Watts the day John Kennedy was assassinated.

"IT WAS WEIRD," he says. "Very few of the kids there understood what had happened."

That experience, he says, helped him develop "a social consciousness, which I never had before." The BMOC changed into a big man.

He had done some acting in college and decided that was what really interested him. He's happy now he made the switch.

Herald opinion

Reject utility legislation

A handful of legislators are trying to prove that the highest court in the state can be circumvented, and we disapprove of both their approach and the change which they are seeking.

The legislators — one of them is a local representative, John Friedland, R-South Elgin — have introduced legislation which would permit public utilities to use operating funds for charitable and political contributions.

If this legislation is approved — and it already has been backed by the full House — it will override a 1973 Ill. Supreme Court decision which declared such contributions illegal.

The Supreme Court ruled that such contributions must come from utility company profits, rather than directly from utility bills. In effect, the Supreme Court decision means the customer would no longer be required to subsidize directly whatever charity contributions Illinois Bell or Northern Illinois Gas Company or Commonwealth Edison might wish to make.

We don't disagree with the spirit of charity as evidenced by remarks from utility company officials or the argument that corporations have a "social responsibility" role. But support for that role should not have to be bankrolled directly by consumers, as the Supreme Court has ruled.

The contributions which the utilities would be restored under this legislation would hike all of our utility bills — and that increase might be used later as part of the justification for a rate hike. It is far better for utilities to dig into profits for such social responsibility, rather than to soak directly the consumers.

More important, though, is the method of sneaking around a court decision through legislation which would be subjected, once again, to another court challenge if passed. The entire process smells like special interest legislation which would be patently unfair to the Illinois consumer, and we urge all legislators, and especially John Friedland, to renounce the bills.

Manager blasted

I would like to thank you, Mrs. Kay Muller, member of the Arlington Heights Park Board, and, until very recently, voting member of the plan commission, for doing the job that all of us citizens should be doing, but for one reason or another, we never get around to. You took the time and discovered a disparity in the village manager's records and your own tabulations regarding cash donations from developers to the village. As a concerned citizen you took your facts to the letters to the editor

where Mrs. Muller goofed. We would all like to know — it's our village.

If we must keep our garbage cans off the curbs because they project an aesthetically bad image, then we ought to make sure we don't have any stong odors emanating from the village hall.

Hits ERA opponent

I would just like to comment on a letter written by a Mrs. L. Daley of Des Plaines, applauding the defeat of the ERA in the Illinois House.

The statement, "most thinking and well informed women know the ERA would take away freedoms which we now enjoy," strikes me as a blatantly misleading statement of opinion, not fact. Most "thinking and well informed women" have had secondary or college education, and are working or professional women who know they are being paid less than they deserve. They also know that unless the ERA is passed, they will never have a legal remedy.

I was also amused by the well-worn gimmick of blaming the news media for misrepresenting the true sentiments of Illinois women. The media seldom creates opinion; it reflects it. To blame the media because one does not agree with the point of view they report on is senseless.

I am a college student. I am not charged less tuition because I am a woman; nor are my phone or electric bills any less. Why, then, should I be paid less than a man doing the same job?

Passage of the ERA is not going to deprive women of any "rights." If one thrives on being placed upon a pedestal, apart from the movement of society, functioning as an anachronism in a contemporary world, that's fine. It's a role, a game, which I simply don't want forced on me.

The ERA is still alive. It can and will eventually succeed. When it does, women will assume their natural place as equal partners in society. The self-righteous zealots who attempt to impose their sexist Utopia upon other women will finally have to simply put up, or shut up.

EDITORIAL: Gov. Walker and the legislature are battle over money again.

Bob Lahey's column

Judge Hannah and the public trust

Unless you happen to hail from the East Central Illinois area around Mattoon, chances are you never heard of Harry I. Hannah.

It is a source of personal regret that more people did not know Harry I. Hannah. It is also a source of personal frustration that I did not know him better.

He was a Circuit Court Judge for the counties of Clark, Coles, Cumberland, Edgar and Vermilion.

Had he been a man of personal ambition, I suspect Judge Hannah's name would have become known far beyond the boundaries of those five counties. He contented himself, however, to sit for some 20 years on the Circuit Court bench and dispense a brand of justice which left a deep sense of respect for the law on those who observed him.

I saw him only once in the courtroom.

A state's attorney in Champaign County was accused of embezzling $42,000 from the public treasury, and Judge Hannah was summoned from his own jurisdiction to preside in the case.

My first sight of Judge Hannah came when he stepped from the elevator in the Champaign County Courthouse. He was a slight man, even frail, with a head of hair which could have belonged to Carl Sandburg.

Judge Hannah threaded his way through a hail of spectators — every lawyer in the county had come to see what had befallen their wayfaring colleague — until confronted by the special prosecutor, who wanted to straighten out the ground rules before Judge Hannah accepted the state's attorney's plea of guilty.

Bob Lahey

The special prosecutor was a man of distinguishing characteristics: a bodyweight around 300 pounds, a formidable record as a criminal attorney, and a reputation something less renowned than that of Abraham Lincoln.

This gargantuan barely got the request out of his mouth for a conference with the judge and the defense attorney.

Judge Hannah drew himself up to his full height — which was about five foot five — and proclaimed in a stentorian voice, intended more, I am sure, for the assembled attorneys and reporters than for the prosecutor, "There will be NO conferences, and NO deals!" Whereupon he disappeared into chambers and slammed the door.

The details of the hearing are unimportant here. What is memorable was the judge's explanation of his decision — one to three years for the state's attorney — and the manner in which he chose to deliver it.

He first made it subtly clear that he wished the assembled reporters to be seated in the jury. Judge Hannah had a message to deliver and he wanted it to reach beyond the assembled members of the Champaign County Bar Association.

For approximately 45 minutes, he delivered to the newsmen in the jury box a discourse on what elective office and the public trust is all about.

My notes of that address are long since lost, and it would be presumptuous to try to reconstruct the message from the distance of more than a decade.

But the message was indelible. Judge Hannah spoke of the almost incredible hardships which the young state's attorney had endured to achieve his law degree.

He reviewed the defendant's courage and initiative in achieving public office in the face of tough opposition by the dominant party in the county — his own party.

He noted generously the fine record and the outstanding public service which the state's attorney had contributed to the voters of Champaign County.

And then he sent him to the Illinois penitentiary.

But first, Judge Hannah eloquently spelled out some points which should not be overlooked in these days when so many public officials are being paraded through the courts.

The money in the case, he said, was of little consequence. What mattered was that the man before the court had asked, and been granted, the permission of the public to administer their laws. He had taken unto himself a sacred trust — and those were Judge Hannah's words — and he had betrayed it.

Harry I. Hannah of Mattoon declared that no amount of service, no amount of personal hardship, no degree of repentance, could excuse such a betrayal. Money, he said, can be repaid. A trust once broken cannot be restored.

There was no jubilation among those in the courtroom who saw the state's attorney sent off to prison, and I believe there was no deeper regret than Judge Hannah's.

Recently I read of Judge Hannah's retirement. It brought back forcefully the feeling of sadness at the destruction of the young state's attorney's career — and of the inescapable rightness of the judge's decision.

That feeling was the same when it finally became evident that Otto Kerner must ultimately enter the same prison. And it is a feeling, unfortunately, which is going to be experienced again and again.

Impeachment possibility dropping

by HOWARD FIELDS

WASHINGTON — Despite new revelations and various court actions, the impeachment question remains simply: "Will President Nixon be impeached?" A good case is growing for answering "No."

Political pundits have written or spoken thousands of words predicting Nixon's impeachment and some have even predicted his removal from office by the Senate.

Admittedly, it is that of a distinct minority, but there is a growing case for the other side.

Vice President Gerald R. Ford said last week the full House won't vote impeachment because there "just isn't any evidence" to justify it.

James D. St. Clair, Nixon's attorney who has been sitting in on the closed impeachment hearings of the House Judiciary Committee, predicted that even the committee of 21 Democrats and 17 Republicans — all lawyers — won't recommend impeachment.

Both those statements can be dismissed as self-serving grandstanding. But one liberal Republican congressman says Rep. William S. Cohen of Maine, the Judiciary Republican believed most likely to vote to impeach, told him the evidence isn't there for impeachment. Cohen denied making the remark.

A liberal Democrat in the forefront of the push for impeachment told a reporter who asked for a secret memo that he didn't have it, wouldn't divulge it if he did and hoped the reporter wouldn't print it if he got it from someone else.

The fear he and others have is that the furor over "news leaks" from the committee will damage its integrity and credibility on impeachment. Would they be so frightened if the case against Nixon was irrefutable?

Attitudes expressed by the members after each of the closed sessions indicated they hadn't heard enough to make them comfortable about voting for impeachment.

Helping to fog public thinking on impeachment are several ancillary happenings, such as a grand jury naming Nixon an indicted co-conspirator in the Watergate cover-up and court maneuverings involving defendants with sometimes only remote connections with impeachment allegations against Nixon.

But the committee's purpose is myopic and singular — is Nixon guilty or is he not guilty of impeachable offenses alleged?

Even the allegations have been pared down from an original list of 56 to less than 20, and amount to serious consideration in only two categories — Watergate and using the IRS to harass White House enemies. And it will have taken the committee several months to do that.

To be sure, the committee may lack the evidence it needs because Nixon has refused to give it some of the materials it has demanded.

The committee and later the House could vote impeachment on the basis of his refusal to honor committee subpoenas or they could infer that his refusal to surrender the material means it's too damaging to him.

If that's the only case against Nixon when it comes time to vote, however, even the most adamant impeachment supporters may have second thoughts about their vote.

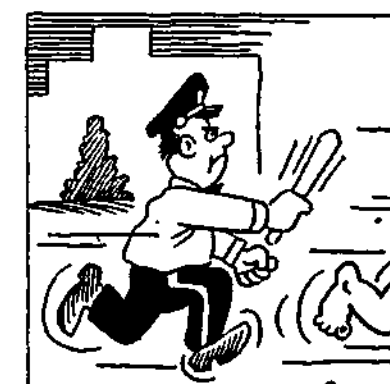

The weight of the responsibility they are charged with is not lost on other House members. Judiciary Chairman Peter W. Rodino Jr. himself has noted that impeachment of the President could alter the course of history.

Suddenly faced with that awesome responsibility, will enough of the 247 House Democrats and 187 Republicans vote to impeach based on political and other instincts even though they lack the evidence to prove guilt beyond a reasonable doubt?

If the evidence is not there, it becomes more of a political decision. Events or moods of the moment — a month away for the committee and two months for the full House — could dictate their ballot. (UPI)

But now what happens. The board takes your facts and gingerly sweeps them under the rug — while at the same time pulls the rug out from under you.

I am disturbed by this attempt to keep things quiet in the hopes apathetic citizens will ho-hum the whole affair away with yet another shrug of the shoulders and cynical "that's politics." I, for one, would like the whole affair aired publicly and just see whose figures are correct. I'm sure Mrs. Muller would be very happy to admit it if, in fact, she was the one who erred. How about it, Mr. Hanson, if there's nothing to hide, let us see just

Thank you

I wish to convey my most heartfelt thanks to the party who turned in my purse left May 23 in the Wheeling K-Mart shopping center.

The papers are full of the wrong doings, violence, etc., of so many people, but good deeds and kindnesses seem to be in the background. Besides the money, there were items precious only to me, for which I am so thankful to have back.

So, whoever you are, you will be remembered in my prayers. There are truly many wonderful, honest people around.

Crane, Young support bill to benefit 'supertankers'

From Roll Call Report

Following is a summary of key votes by the Illinois congressional delegation for the period from June 6-12. Included in the summary are votes by Illinois' two senators, Republican Charles H. Percy and Democrat Adlai E. Stevenson III, and Northwest suburban congressmen Rep. Philip M. Crane, R-12th, and Rep. Samuel H. Young, R-10th.

House

DEEP-WATER PORTS: An amendment to speed construction of offshore receiving stations to handle large oil tankers, so-called "supertankers," passed 174-158.

The amendment was offered as a substitute for a bill to establish federal regulations over construction of such deep-water ports.

The amendment speeds the process by giving the Department of Interior control over construction permits, instead of establishing a new commission, and by eliminating certain provisions that would have allowed states to block construction or to assess taxes on constructed ports.

The ports would be built at least 20 miles offshore and could only be used by oil tankers. States could block construction in order to protect shoreline environments.

Supporters argued that offshore ports will reduce the dangers of oil spills.

Morgan Murphy, D-2nd; Robert Hanrahan, R-3rd; Harold Collier, R-4th; Frank Annunzio, D-11th; John Erlenborn, R-14th; George Shipley, D-22nd; Melvin Price, D-23rd, and Kenneth Gray, D-24th, voted no.

Edward Derwinski, R-4th; John Kluczynski, D-5th; Carlisle Collins, D-7th, and Dan Rostenkowski, D-8th, did not vote.

LAND-USE PLANNING: A motion to grant a rule to permit consideration of a bill calling for federal support of state and local land-use planning efforts, rejected 211-204.

The bill called for the Interior Department to establish federal guidelines on the best ways to use land without endangering the environment. The bill earmarked $600 million in federal grants to fund state land-use planning efforts.

Supporters argued that pollution and the population explosion will wreak havoc if the nation does not plan now for future expansion.

Opponents argued that the bill would lead to federal control of private property.

Crane No
Young Yes

Metcalfe, Yates, Annunzio, McClory, Erlenborn, Anderson, Findley, Price and Gray voted yes.

Murphy, Hanrahan, Kluczynski, Collier, Collins, Rostenkowski, Arends, O'Brien, Michel, Rallsback, Madigan and Shipley voted no. Derwinski did not vote.

VICE PRESIDENT'S HOME: A bill to create a temporary official residence for the Vice President, passed 380-23.

The bill now goes to conference. It authorizes remodeling a home at the Naval Observatory — presently occupied by the chief of naval operations — as a temporary residence until a permanent Vice President's home can be built.

The remodeling costs are estimated at $48,000.

Supporters argued that creating a temporary home and then building a permanent residence will save taxpayers' dollars in the long run.

Opponents argued that investing in a temporary home is wasteful, and instead the government should immediately construct a permanent residence.

Crane Yes
Young Yes

Metcalfe, Murphy, Hanrahan, Kluczynski, Rostenkowski, Annunzio, McClory, Erlenborn, Arends, Anderson, O'Brien, Michel, Rallsback, Findley, Madigan, Shipley, Price and Gray voted yes.

Collins and Yates voted No.
Derwinski and Collier did not vote.

Senate

DEFENSE-SPENDING CEILING: An amendment to set an overall ceiling of $21.6 billion for military weapons procurement in fiscal 1975, rejected 52-38.

The amendment was offered to the military weapons procurement bill, which later passed and was sent to conference.

The amendment would not have cut any funds from the bill, but would have served as instructions to the conference that the Senate would not accept a bill that went above the ceiling.

The amendment was designed to force the House to accept the Senate's version of the bill. The House military weapons bill calls for spending $22.6 billion. The administration had requested $23.3 billion.

Most of the funding difference between the Senate and House versions was due to lower Senate appropriations for naval shipbuilding.

Percy Yes
Stevenson Yes

ROTC AND UNIVERSITIES: An amendment to instruct the Defense Department to offer scholarship aid to officers who take courses at universities that have dropped the Reserve Officers Training Corps, passed 48-43.

At present, the Defense Department will underwrite educational costs for active officers, except at schools that have dropped ROTC.

Supporters argued that the Defense Department's policy is an attempt to coerce the universities into reinstating ROTC.

Opponents argued that the affected universities must pay the price for caving-in to campus politics during the Vietnam War era.

Percy Yes
Stevenson Yes

TROOP CUTS: An amendment to cut overseas troop strength by 76,000 as of Dec. 31, 1975, rejected 48-44.

At present, there are 437,000 Americans, plus dependents, stationed abroad.

Supporters argued that the cuts would save tax dollars and help the nation's balance-of-payments posture.

Opponents argued that the cuts would undermine on-going talks with Russia on mutual European force reductions.

Percy No
Stevenson Yes

EPA RESEARCH: An amendment to let private contractors do energy research with funds that are transferred from the Environmental Protection Agency to other federal agencies, rejected 50-40.

The amendment was offered to an energy research and development bill that was later passed and sent to conference.

At present, EPA can contract with private companies and it can transfer funds to other agencies, but other agencies cannot subsequently use funds received from EPA to contract with private companies.

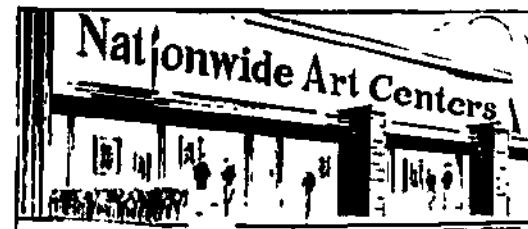

Supporters argued that EPA does not have the manpower to do all its required research and, thus, other federal agencies should be permitted to use EPA funds to contract privately on energy and environmental research.

Opponents argued that the amendment was an administration attempt to weaken EPA's control over research.

Michael Tal: 'best attacker'?

Michael Tal was the youngest world champion over. He beat Botvinnik in 1960 at the age of 23 to take the title. But he lost it back a year later. Afflicted with severe health problems, his results have since been erratic, though he managed in an apparently healthy period to set a record for the most consecutive games played by a grandmaster without a loss in 1972-73.

Brilliant as would have been the career of a healthy Tal, it is easy to forget that loss when replaying the marvelous production of games he has nevertheless managed.

Tal is the most insistent attacking player of our time and probably of all previous times. No one else has the ability to sense an attacking possibility, initiate it and carry it through as Michael Tal. No one has shown his ingenuity in finding new resources of attack, when apparently stymied. No one (except Bobby Fischer) so debilitates his opponents.

the game Tal-Vaganian. Tal's young and gifted Soviet opponent succumbs in one of the shortest games on record.

In this position, Tal sees a chance to precipitously press the attack. Vaganian falters, and is forced to resign after his opponent's 12th move. In the given diagram, Tal has just played his ninth move, the super-aggressive, 9. N-N3. Against black's reasonable answer, 9... B-K2, Tal's intention was probably to continue with 10. Q-R5 check which forces 10... P-N3. He would then have almost irresistible play against the threatened black kingside with his queen, bishops, and the attacking maneuver, pawn to R4 and R5.

But shaken by the threatened attack, Vaganian blundered outrageously with 9... B-Q2. Tal's reply was the exchanging move 10. BxN and the still unsuspecting Vaganian answered with 10... PxR. (better was BxR).

Tal then surprised his opponent and wrapped things up with 11. Q-R5 check, P-N3; and 12. Q-B3!! (See Diagram 2).

Diagram 2
Unusual though it is for a direct mating threat by the queen to be effective at this early stage of the game, black is summarily lost. Black must lose a piece by 12... Q-K2; 13. NxN! (13... QxN allows 14. Q-B7 check and 15. Q-B6 check, picking up the black rook). The queen at K2 would block the vital defense of the knight at B4 by the black bishop.

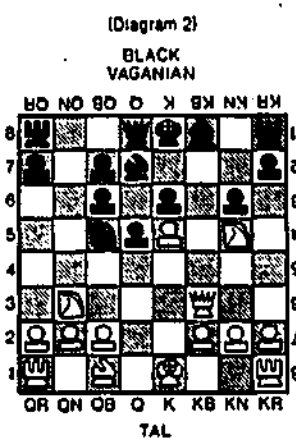

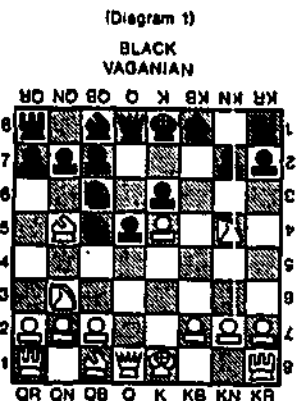

Our third diagram shows the finale of another recent game by Tal.

Diagram 3
In this position, Tal has just played 1. Q-R6, which threatens mate by either QxR or QxB. Black is lost.

The only try, 1... RfxR, would have failed after 2. B-N6!! again threatening two mates. For 2... RxB would have yielded to the simple 3. PxR.

Thinking easier at Trick 2

South wasted no time with the play of what he considered an elementary hand. That is he wasted no time at the start.

He ruffed the second spade and started after trumps. If trumps had broken 3-3 everything would have been fine, but when East showed out on the third lead South saw that his contract was in jeopardy. He thought a while; drew the last trump and tried a club finesse. It lost and East was able to lead a spade to give his partner three spade tricks and set South two.

"I guess I should have settled for down one," remarked South. "Every card is always wrong for me."

Every card was wrong. Trumps broke 4-2. East held the king of clubs and a third spade, but South should have made the hand. If he had stopped to think at trick two instead of ruffing the second spade, he should have discarded a club.

South would ruff the third spade and play the hand exactly the same way, but there would be a decided difference at the end. When East took his king of clubs he would not have a spade to lead to his partner and South would bring home the bacon.

Folks buy her brooms for fireplace, not floor

By TOM TIEDE
(Fourth in a series)

DRYFORK, W. Va. — To the approaching eye there seems little of exception at Getty Day's place.

Stuck back in the forest, a mile off a rutted road, her home is deteriorating, her yard littered with the bodies of dead automobiles, and her dogs yap and yowl at the rustle of leaves.

And even Lady Day herself, 94 years old now, "good as we can tell," is rumped and troubled, with her arms out at the elbows and according to her kin, does little else these days except sleep and pick at food.

Yet here is a woman who refuses to fold. Raised in privation, forged by field work, now almost deaf and only recently removed from a shack with no floor, Getty Day still makes her own way. No charity for her. For decades she has had income from an all but forgotten craft: broom making. Once she turned them out for locals to sweep floors; now her work is the stuff for tourists who, marveling at the low price, buy them as fireplace fixtures.

LADY DAY cannot explain her art. Since her deafness, her conversations are mostly one-sided, usually remote from the subject at hand. One may shout a question in her ear and she will reply. Otherwise she babbles in her chair about other matters; as her invalid nephew speaks in her stead.

"We don't know how long she's been carving the brooms," says Donald Lee Johnson, a paraplegic since childhood. "Longer'n I been around for sure. She does it good, though ain't it? Ain't it good?"

Indeed, it seems good. Since her brooms are unique, which is to say no one else may make them the same, it is not possible to compare their quality with others. Yet the brooms are unusual art. "Some people still use 'em to sweep snow," the old woman says, then she wanders away talking about something else.

The work is simple enough. Lady Day uses hickory branches gathered from the surrounding forest. Her nephew says the wood must be green to carve. "Once it dries out, you can't hardly cut it with an ax." Using a pen knife, the old woman peels the wood to the heart of the branch, the bottom two feet of which is left for the shodding into broom straw.

The straw is shredded from both ends of the bottom toward an uncut band in the middle. Once ready, Lady Day folds the top half of the straw over the bottom half to form the full broom. She ties the straw thus with hickory bark and puts the broom aside to age in the dark. Once aged, and trimmed and sanded, it will, says nephew Johnson, "last for years if you take care of it good."

DURING THE tourist season, Lady Day carves several brooms a week, each taking about a day to complete. She sells them, through a nearby crafts shop, for 50 cents to $2.75 each, depending on size. Not much, but a lot to this woman who has known whole decades of life where she had to forage for grub in the woods or pick huckleberries for both nourishment and resale.

"I done every kind of work there was," the old woman says, her face a ripple of wrinkles, her hair tied up in a gray bun. Her nephew does not know if she's ever seen a picture show, or slept in a bed with clean sheets.

"Should I charge more for the brooms?" the old woman cackles, breaking into a shy laugh. She covers her mouth with her hand and babbles on, shaking her head, blinking her eyes.

Lady Day could easily charge more. Dryfork, W. Va., is not exactly the center of the universe, but the nearby Monongahela National Forest is an increasingly busy tourist mecca and God knows the vacationers in Bermuda shorts have no sense when it comes to the value of souvenirs.

But an increase is not likely. Lady Day is even less informed on merchandising than the tourists. And besides, says a friend, "I don't think the money is important to Getty. She's been making brooms since creation began, and it's beginning to look like she'll do it till it stops. She makes them because she likes to make them. The fact that people pay for them is incidental."

AND SO LADY Day goes on carving here, well below the minimum wage. Her nephew, a product of modern times, insists her household is not as old-fashioned as her craft, and fetches a supermarket broom from the closet as proof. The boy grins at the product, with its plastic straw and painted handle, but Lady Day sniffs.

Turning away, back to her craft, back to days she understands, the old woman says with a scowl: "Hickory's the only thing — why, we never knew what a store broom was." Then when she leaves the room she kicks at the supermarket broom with a contempt that sends it, and very nearly her, flying across the floor.

Need entertainers?

They're for rent

by GENIE CAMPBELL

Need a poet, a folksinger, an original musical comedy or a one-hour variety show? Care to host a benefit and want a starring attraction? Looking for a moderately priced entertainment package for a club banquet or just throwing a wingding of a neighborhood block party and desire the presence of a magician? How about a clown? Community theater is the answer.

While less active during the summer months, suburban community theater is not altogether dormant. The regular season for major productions is September through May. Yet workshops, talent banks and cabaret theater keep in-town community guild members theatrically in practice. However, many local residents are not aware of the wide range of rent-a-night entertainment.

In between major productions, amateur actors and actresses put together and rehearse one-act plays and shows which are available for private bookings at an average cost of $1 per minute of entertainment. (Prices vary somewhat according to function and facilities.) And considering the work and effort that go into each presentation, it's not a bad deal.

If the show is intended for a benefit, most theater companies will lower prices. Every dollar taken in throughout the year helps offset the operational costs of major productions. But the continual opportunity to get up on stage and perform before an audience is what really counts.

Community theater chooses presentations that are easily adaptable to all facilities and which do not require elaborate settings.

Though many shows originate and are rehearsed during the summer, they may be booked throughout the entire year.

VILLAGE THEATRE is currently co-sponsoring a theatrical workshop with the Arlington Heights Park District. The outcome will be five one-act productions to be made available for private bookings.

Already successfully produced by VT, is "Fellner's Marriage Manual," a series of blackouts and short sketches based on Jules Fellner's cartoons appearing in Playboy. Though 22 scenes in length, only three chairs, a table, four actors and one small box of props are needed to stage the production.

Village Theatre enjoys presenting the avant garde in theater, productions that for one reason or another just aren't suitable for staging during the regular season. Because more left wing contemporary plays usually require only the minimum of props and a few actors who switch off with multiple roles, they are excellent choices for taking on the road and staging in cramped quarters.

If Village Theatre is given at least two months notice, they will try to adapt a special production to fit individual tastes. For information and booking, interested persons may call Betty DeGroh, 392-1497.

BEST OFF BROADWAY PLAYERS' off-season shows have been both widely received and therefore a very lucrative venture for the musical theater group. Revenue from private bookings has helped greatly to offset some of the huge costs in staging a full musical which the Players do twice a year.

Members collaborate to write their own revues. Currently the two available are "Star Gazing or Everything You Always Wanted to Know About the Zodiac But Were Afraid to Ask" and "Women in Today's World." The latter indicates just how far "women have or haven't come" since 1900. The story is humorously told through appropriate songs. It has been a favorite at women's conventions, though I'd like to see it go before local Rotary Clubs.

BOB won't have their feelings hurt if you'd rather have a show produced to match a certain theme. They've done it in the past and will gladly accommodate again if they have enough notice to prepare. There is also a slight additional fee. For instance, on St. Patrick's Day last year they went all out for the Irish because that's the kind of entertainment one group requested.

The shows run approximately 40 minutes in length. Further information and booking are available through Marie Petersen, 439-9810.

SCHAUMBURG FESTIVAL THEATRE offers a variety of entertainment from shows geared to small children to religious readings. Singers, poets and guitarists are available for private bookings at a nominal fee. Also ready to be staged anytime is the one-act play for adults, "Impromptu" and for children, "The Apple of Contentment." If you're looking for something special or unusual, give Sandra Reimann, 882-1894, a call.

THE PLAYERS OF SCHAUMBURG, a repertoire theater group less than a year old that specializes in children's productions all year round, will also do pantomimes, one-act plays and musical shows anywhere from one-half hour to two hours in length. When a magic show was requested, the group located a magician.

Entertainment rehearsed and ready to go for adults are "Fellner's Marriage Manual," "Thurber Carnival," "Laugh Out" (a take-off on "Laugh In"), excerpts from "Spoon River Anthology" and "Lovers and Other Strangers." One month's notice is necessary for private bookings. Sonja Leraas, 885-2380, should be called.

MUSIC ON STAGE, which in the past couple of years has performed for children over the holiday season at Woodfield Shopping Center, has a good idea what kids like.

MOS's kiddie cabaret includes songs, original skits and favorite ballads. Entertainment is also available through adult cabaret sponsored by the musical company. Carol Verson, 966-4720, has information and makes bookings.

DES PLAINES THEATRE GUILD is presenting for the first time a summer festival of theater in July including "I Do, I Do," and an evening of one-act plays, "The Chairs," "Zoo Story" and "Double Solitaire."

These two programs will be presented on alternate weekend evenings, during July at the Guild Playhouse. Programs for private bookings are currently being reorganized by DPTG. Further information regarding new shows will be available in the fall.

Yesteryear's beaded bag the 'bees' knees' today

From night 1974 saw a great many bows to the past, as the girls vied to achieve the look of the '20s, '30s or '40s. My daughter opted for the '40s and wished I hadn't disposed of my "antique" dresses from that decade. She compromised by making her own sweetheart-necklined, puffed sleeve satin creation of palest peach color.

She went back a few years earlier for her bag and used a beaded one from our collection to hold her "mad" money. In fact, so did several of her friends — it seems that Great Gatsby bags were the "bees' knees" this year.

Just a few years ago such bags as those pictured could be purchased for a couple of dollars, but (as with almost everything) the price has risen sharply in the last year or two. The shops are now asking $15 to $25 for the types shown, which include, clockwise from the upper left, an iridescent beaded, a needlepoint on beaded background, a multi-colored beaded, a steel mesh "Art Deco" and in the center, another steel mesh design. Most have silver plated or sterling frames and clasps. Other popular types have drawstring closures and contain fancy silk linings, with little coin purses and mirrors to match.

BEADING BAGS was an occupation for workers at home. The backgrounds were stamped by the factory with a pattern and "let out" to fancy work makers as a way to augment the family income. Tedious and ill-paid work it was, for I have read that a beader was paid about a dollar per bag, which probably works out to about 10 cents an hour! Of course, the finished creation probably only cost about $2, so there wasn't much profit in the operation.

Collecting with Grace Carolyn

An interesting variation on old bags was the miser's purse. This was crocheted or knitted, with an opening in the middle and rings to keep the contents in either end secure. They were carried in the hand or over the arm, and men carried a smaller version of the same bag in their pockets. Those carried by ladies often were embroidered or had tiny beads crocheted in a pattern, with a beaded fringe on the end.

BEADED OR STEEL mesh (an interlocked method of tiny steel mesh pieces which feels like snakeskin) are a good collectible from many angles: They are decorative when displayed on a wall or hanging from an expandable rack; they may be used to trace the evolution of the handbag from mid-19th century to the 1920s; but best of all, they are eminently usable. When I carry one of our antique bags, it never fails to elicit comments and compliments, and "where may I buy one?"

The bags shown are from the collection of Janet Shipman, one of the most generous collectors in the area who often lends her charming collectibles to photograph. If you have a suggestion for a column, please write Grace Carolyn Dahlberg, in care of Paddock Publications, Box 280, Arlington Heights, Ill. 60006.

A frank revelation of what it's like to be widowed

"WIDOW,"

by LYNN CAINE
Morrow, $6.95

To every marriage partner has come the dark of night thought: which of us will die first? I hope it's me, is the quick answer, often sincere and sometimes not, and the subject is pushed off into the unimaginable or unthinkable land of old age.

Lynn Caine had the tragedy to discover that death and cancer don't wait for retirement age. Right in the middle of her life, with two young children to raise and so many plans as yet unfulfilled, her husband died.

And she also discovered that she was no silver screen widow, staunch in grief, a rock of dependability for her children. Instead, she went quietly, sedately crazy.

It was this very craziness, the extent of which frightened her when she began emerging from it, that prompted her to write a book about her experience.

IF SHE HAD GONE spectacularly psychotic, she might have been forced to seek help. But buying a house in New Jersey is a perfectly normal thing to do in general terms. For a widow in Lynn Caine's position, and with her views on city versus suburban living, it was insane.

The author, with sometimes devastating frankness, tells of her widowhood, of her feelings that ranged from traditional grief to sheer rage at her dead husband for leaving her, and leaving her unprepared.

But if there is one special message for the widow, and perhaps the widower, it is to wait, don't do anything, don't make any decisions that can be delayed. It will be months, perhaps even years, before you are back on even keel.

One upbeat note: when Mrs. Caine emerges on the other side of her black tunnel of despair, she has become a stronger, more independent, more self-identified person than she was in the days when her husband was alive.

"THE SNAKE ON GRAVE,"

by GEORGE BEARE
Houghton, Mifflin, $5.95

A book stuffed with the usual ingredients of a thriller but set forth in such lively fashion the plot is like a string of exploding firecrackers. An ex-convict, out of jail after stealing paintings, is threatened with the death of his family unless he reveals their location. A friend comes to the rescue in a town in the south of France. Highly enjoyable mystery.

IN CONNECTION WITH KILSHAW
BY PETER DRISCOLL
Lippincott, $6.95

The scene is Northern Ireland, where a British intelligence agent and the Irish Catholic girl he falls in love with discover in a tough, grim, fast-moving tale that there just aren't any good guys any more as the British and the two brands of Irish double and triple cross each other.

This is the age of dirty tricks, and there are plenty here leading up to a snappy and cynical ending.

"THE FAN CLUB,"

by Irving Wallace
Simon and Schuster, $9.95

Even Irving Wallace, who is a formidable storyteller, can't make this one believable. The plot involves a scheme by four men to kidnap a Marilyn Monroe — type movie queen. Their object isn't even ransom — just old-fashioned rape. At one point the narrator calls the kidnapers by job-descriptive names. One is The Insurance Man, another The Mechanic, and the like. But the guy who fixes your car is more complex and interesting than Wallace's Mechanic.

"HAVING A BABY CAN BE A SCREAM," BY JOAN RIVERS
J. P. Tarcher, $2.95

Comedienne Joan Rivers and her husband knew before they were married that they wanted children — it was only afterwards that Miss Rivers discovered she was the one who had to have the baby. So she did some research on pregnancy and childbirth and the result is a funny book with some solid information and chapter headings such as "There IS No Such Thing As Kiddy Litter."

Merrye olde England days returning at Gurnee faire

Entr'acte

The Chicago Renaissance Faire, sponsored by Midwest Art League, opens next weekend, June 29 and will continue for three consecutive weekends in Gurnee, Ill. (Just west of Waukegan).

The Faire will highlight the pomp and gaiety of England's "good olde days" (1450-1650). All performers and craftsmen will wear the attire of that period. Included in the programming will be strolling minstrels, swordplay, archery, chess, mimes, poets and auctioneers plus exhibits and performances of numerous theater and musical groups both amateur and professional.

Highlight of the Faire will be tournaments by members of the American Foot Jousting Association who will give exhibitions of how tournament fighting with steel weapons was conducted in the high Middle Ages and performances by the members of the Society for Creative Anachronism who will demonstrate fighting with weapons made of rattan.

HOURS ARE 11:30 a.m. to 6:30 p.m. each day. Admission is $3 for adults, $2 for children 16 and under. Children under 5 are admitted free.

Mary Agnes of Arlington Heights will be exhibiting jewelry in the Faire and Cathleen Haller of Buffalo Grove, decoupage and quilting handwork.

The Park Ridge Art League will hold its 22nd annual art fair in Hodges Park tomorrow and Sunday.

More than 100 artists will exhibit in the fair which is free and open to the public from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. both days.

The technique of making traditional Nigerian pottery by hand will be shown at the Field Museum of Natural History tomorrow as one of the highlights in its current "Contemporary African Arts Festival."

The demonstration will be presented by Saidu Na'Allah of Nigeria from 10:30 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. in the museum's Stanley Field Hall.

NA'ALLAH STUDIED at the Abuja Pottery Center in Nigeria, established by the English potter Michael Cardew. He also worked with German ceramist Herd Von Stokes while attending Ahmadu Bello University at Zaria, Nigeria, where he later returned as a member of the arts department.

At the present time Na'Allah is enrolled in the master of fine arts program at the University of Southern California. He is also doing a large mural for the California Museum of Science and Industry in Los Angeles.

The sound of female voices

Three good singers, all looking for success in America, are Lori Lieberman, Melissa Manchester and Maggie Bell. Lori and Maggie have fine voices — one sweet, the other gravelly — and Melissa is a strong writer/singer.

Of the three, I wish most for success for Lori. She has had three beautiful albums, with the latest "A Piece of Time" (Capitol records) being the strongest and the one that should bring her stardom. On her first album, she cut a fine song by her mentors, songwriters Charles Fox and Norman Gimbel, who have written all but one of her recorded songs. Not many played the song until Roberta Flack recorded it and eventually won a Grammy Award for it. It was, of course,

Lori Lieberman

"Killing Me Softly With His Song."

The new album, which has much more of a rock feel to several of the songs instead of mostly ballads like the previous two albums, is very appealing and would become a smash — if only enough people would hear it. I suggest Capitol release "No Rights On Saturday Nights" as a single and then watch it climb the charts. It has strong potential.

"SATURDAY NIGHTS," which features a slashing electric guitar by Mike Anthony, is about one of those nights when everything goes wrong, including an auto accident with a cabby. Also fine is "What's It Got To Do With Music?" a somewhat bitter look at a songwriter with a "heavy" hit but who's "been up too high too long/the soul's gone out of your song."

Another song where the lyrics are striking is "Stone Canyon," which tells of a shopper in New York City who goes armed "with my checkbook and my credit cards/my spear, my shield and my gun." Lori performs numerous small miracles with her voice — one of the best in recording today. She shines especially on the bouncy "Before I Say I'm Sorry," "I Got a Name" (made famous by Jim Croce but of which she does a creditable version) and "Stand On It." The latter song is an up-tempo, commercial-sounding advice to stick to one's principles and not make deals.

MELISSA Manchester, 23, performs songs she has written or co-written almost exclusively. The only exception in "Bright Eyes" (Bell records), her second album, is "I Can't Get Started," a 1935 song by Vernon Duke and Ira Gershwin. Fact is that she is a very good songwriter and could soon take on the adjective "important."

The album's title song most typifies her style. The vocal is great (although a bit shouty like Bette Midler for whom she used to sing backup), the playing's good and the writing's introspective and involving.

Closely allied in theme is "O Heaven (How You've Changed To Me)," which I believe has been released as a single. It is a rollicking gospel-type song, telling of her changing values and beliefs and her awakening to life. The Dixie Hummingbirds add greatly to the gospel flavor with their vocals.

OTHER GOOD songs are "Ode To Paul" with its Latin beat, "No. 1 (Ah-wann Gimme)" with interesting percussion and flute arrangement and "Inclined" (the best of the softer ballads). Each song in the album has its own unique arrangement, worked out by Melissa and producer Henry Medress, and each is thus distinctive.

"Bright Eyes" is an album that confirms her promise in her first album, "Home To Myself," which I picked as among 1973's best albums. At this point, Melissa most reminds me of Laura Nyro, no mean comparison.

Maggie Bell's case is slightly different as she is fairly well known. Her credits include four albums with the former

Playback

Maggie Bell

Scottish band Stone the Crows (which means "the hell with it" I'm told), two years' as England's Melody Maker magazine's No. 1 female singer, a duet with Rod Stewart on his "Every Picture Tells a Story" song and a part on last year's all-star version of "Tommy."

HER FIRST SOLO album, "Queen of the Night" (Atlantic records), is best as a showcase for her gutsy vocal style, a style that bears the influences of Aretha Franklin, Bessie Smith, Billie Holiday and Ray Charles. (Although she sometimes sounds a bit like Janis Joplin, Maggie had been recording for several years before she first heard Janis.) Unfortunately, the song selection has not been of the best.

The countryish "A Woman Left Lonely" and her classical slow blues treatment of John Prine's "Souvenirs" really show what Maggie can accomplish. Her very straight version of J. J. Cale's party-anthem "After Midnight" (the single from the album) also is effective. The remainder is just there and really doesn't do too much.

Maggie's future is bright, however, and she should reach success before Lori and Melissa (although all three are equally deserving). Perhaps on her second solo album, due this fall, more care will be given to what she sings and the result will be a knockout.

Players offer mime workshop

The Players of Schaumburg will sponsor a six-week mime workshop Fridays from 7:30 to 10 p.m. at Schaumburg Township Library.

The workshop will begin June 28 and end Aug. 2. It is open to residents of all areas aged 16 and over.

Instructor for the 15 hours of lectures, demonstrations and practical experience in the art of pantomime will be Raoul Johnson of Schaumburg. Dr. Johnson received his Ph.D. in theatre from the University of Illinois at Urbana and is currently an assistant professor and technical director/set designer in the theater department of Loyola University. He has designed, directed and performed in some 60 full-length plays, one-acts and special productions for educational TV.

Dr. Johnson is currently performing pantomime acts for The Players and serving as the director for their summer production of "Li'l Abner" which opens Aug. 8.

Fee for the mime workshop is $10. Persons wishing to participate may register now by calling the library, 885-3373, or calling 885-2360 weekdays between 4 and 6 p.m. Additional information may be obtained by calling the instructor at 529-4449.

Night out

Theater going strong over summer

by GENIE CAMPBELL

The beginning of summer is marked by a number of theatrical openings which will offer a variety of evening entertainment throughout July.

Close to home DOM DE LUISE (of "Lotsa Luck" on TV) makes his Chicago stage debut at ARLINGTON PARK THEATRE when he stars in Murray Schisgal's wild spoof "LUV," opening for five weeks July 11.

With DeLuike will be JOYCE VAN PATTEN and BILL MCCUTCHEON. HARVEY MEDLINSKY is directing the production.

For the duration of the current show "THE MIND WITH THE DIRTY MAN," KELLY BRITT is playing the role formerly held by PAMELA BRITTON, who died Monday of cancer.

Miss Britton over the period of a year had co-starred with DON KNOTTS in the Jules Tasca comedy for 15 weeks at Arlington Park Theatre and five weeks at the Los Angeles Huntington Hartford Theater without missing a performance. The play closes July 7.

Edward J. Moore's new two-character play, "THE SEA HORSE," opened last night at the IVANHOE and features TOM ROSQUI and ELAINE SHORE.

The title of the play refers to a waterfront bar presided over by Gert, a fat and frumpy "lady" who has formed an "oddy" discrepant, frantically energetic alliance with a lean, virile ship's engineer named Harry.

Playwright Moore describes his drama as "a play with two people about everyone."

Also having just opened last night for a five-week run at the FORUM THEATRE in Summit is the English satirical comedy "FORTY YEARS ON."

The play is a panorama of British history staged by the staff and boys of Albion House, a private school in London. A cavalcade of nostalgia, the comedy includes scenes from the turn of the century, the 1940s and present day. It spoofs such celebrated people as Oscar Wilde, Winston Churchill and T. E. Lawrence.

Vic Damone

The Forum cast is made up completely of Chicago actors and stars MIKE NUSSBAUM as the headmaster.

The current zany, laugh-filled comedy "PLAY IT AGAIN SAM" at the CAN-DIELIGHT THEATRE next door to the Forum will conclude its successful run July 14. It will be followed on July 18 with the musical THE SOUND OF MUSIC.

The "ODD COUPLE," starring JACK KLUGMAN and TONY RANDALL, will open July 12 for a dozen performances through July 21 at the AUDITORIUM THEATRE. It marks the first time that Randall and Klugman have recreated their original television roles in the series "The Odd Couple."

VIC DAMONE'S clear, eloquent voice, highlighted by a 16-piece orchestra, makes the current show in the BLUE MAX of the HYATT REGENCY O'HARE a stand-out one. There is no minimizing his talent.

And LEONARD BARR is one comedian to hit the show room who knows how to build genuine laughter. He's come prepared with a host of routines personalized for a Chicago audience.

The two are appearing together through June 29. Next up are comedienne KAYE BALLARD and singer DANNY MARONA who will open together July 8. The Blue Max is closed June 30 through July 7.

The current attraction at MILL RUN in Niles is CONNIE STEVENS, who is preceded on stage by comedian JACKIE GAYLE. Her engagement continues through Sunday. The JACKSON FIVE then open Monday for a week through Sunday, June 30.

The next international celebration in the TOP OF THE TOWERS is next Thursday when Polynesia will be saluted with special south sea island dishes.

Featuring different foreign countries, international cuisine is sampled once a month in the penthouse restaurant. The price is $21.95 per couple. Coming up in July is England and Greece will be highlighted in August.

Show Biz in a Shoe Box

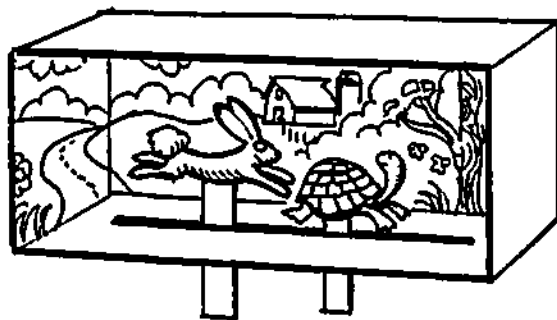

Kids' Corner
Marilyn Halgren

To make this tiny theater you'll need an empty shoebox, glue, scissors, old magazines, and construction paper or old greeting cards. Turn the shoebox so it rests on one long side.

Cut background scenes from magazines. Glue them to the back and inner ends of the shoebox. Cut a slit across the side of the box that will be the stage floor.

For characters, cut figures from old greeting cards or make your own from construction paper. Leave a tab about two inches long and one-half inch wide attached to the feet of each character. Stick your characters up through the slit in the stage floor. Make them move by holding the tab below. (Set your box on a table so that the slit hangs over the edge.)

You may want to dramatize a familiar story or make up a new one.

Guitarist Kottke at Harper

Guitarist Leo Kottke will present a concert at Harper College Friday, June 28. Also featured will be the Chicago folk group Rose Hill String Band.

The concert in the college center starts at 8 p.m. Public admission is $2. Admission for Harper students and staff with summer ID is $1.

Kottke's most recent Capitol LP is "Ice Water" which was preceded by "Greenhouse."

Born in Athens, Ga., Kottke grew up in Oklahoma and now lives in Minnesota. He gained a following when he entertained during the mid '60s at the Scholar Coffeehouse in Minneapolis.

In 1973 Kottke played clubs as a solo act in England, Scotland and Holland. As the opening act for Procul Harum, he toured Austria, Germany, Denmark and Sweden.

Leo Kottke

The Leo Kottke concert is sponsored by the Harper College Program Board. Tickets are available at the Harper Student Activities Office, Algonquin and Roselle roads, Palatine, or through 397-3000, ext. 242.

Kids' dog show at shop plaza

Mount Prospect Plaza Merchants Association and Van Oaks Pet Shop will sponsor a children's amateur dog show Friday, June 28, at 10:30 a.m. It will take place in the grassy area, behind Frederic Jewelers, at the center of the shopping center located at Rand and Central roads, Mount Prospect.

Dogs may be entered in the following categories: largest, smallest, best trick, best groomed, best costumed and special puppy class. Entry blanks are available at all Plaza stores, and there is no entry fee.

This is a children's amateur dog show, and any child or dog may enter, but all children must be accompanied by an adult. Dogs must be on leash and kept under control at all times. Each child may enter his or her dog in more than one category.

Ribbons and prizes will be awarded in each category.

Registration will open at 9:45 a.m. Application blanks should be completed prior to registering.

Palatine Mall art, crafts fair this weekend

The 1974 outdoor art fair season continues this weekend as Palatine Mall in downtown Palatine presents its arts and crafts exhibit tomorrow and Sunday.

More than 50 artists and craftsmen will be displaying paintings, graphics, pottery, sculpture, pen and ink and a variety of art crafts such as jewelry, macramé, nature craft, tote painting, hand-made wooden toys and more.

Artists will discuss and demonstrate their techniques, according to the art fair coordinators, John Basso and Amy Doherty, both artists themselves. Basso is known for intricate pen and ink drawings and one of his designs recently was chosen for the permanent collection of Illinois Bell Telephone. Miss Doherty's work is represented in several galleries and a series of her rural prints will be printed soon for distribution throughout the Midwest.

Exhibit hours are 9:30 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. Saturday and noon to 5 Sunday. More information is available by calling 448-8936 or 448-8234.

Doll demand

Australian dealers are paying up to $360 for antique dolls. The dolls are being sent to the United States where private collectors are paying huge prices for them.

The dolls in demand are made from a variety of materials, ranging from china composition and papier mache to wax or wood. Among the more valuable are "bisques" or dolls with faces fashioned from unglazed clay.

More than a hobby

Photography: food for the soul

by BART KINCH

Dr. Lewis R. Wolberg, founder and board chairman of the Post-graduate Center for Mental Health in New York, believes that modern society is suffering from spiritual malnutrition.

"Food for the soul, the need for self-expression and creativity, is just as vital as bodily nourishment," Wolberg said recently.

"The eminent psychiatrist believes that the hobby of photography is one of the best avenues available for individuals to fill this need for creative expression.

"It is the most valuable leisure time activity I know of for personal growth," he said. "When individuals take up photography, they start becoming creative naturally. When they see that they can create pleasing pictures, they want to go on and do more with their cameras."

"OUR SOCIETY neglects this need for self-expression and this spiritual malnutrition often manifests itself in boredom, depression, feelings of futility, pervasion, anxiety and even psychosomatic illnesses," he said.

A serious amateur photographer himself, Wolberg, with the assistance and guidance of Popular Photography magazine publisher Sidney Holtz, recently set up a research darkroom at the center, one of the world's largest mental health training and research facilities, to study how the hobby of photography contributes to personal growth.

Wolberg concurs with Holtz' view that photography has values that transcend the actual hobby and they hope the research darkroom experiment will prove to have sociological values.

"Unlike other hobbies, with a camera you can produce a finished product that can be satisfying even if you are a beginner," Wolberg said. He also noted that "photography is sufficiently flexible so that as an individual gets more involved, he can expand into more complex dimensions which demand greater skill.

THE INDIVIDUAL can adapt photography to his own needs and moods," Wolberg said. "And as these change, he can change his photographic activities accordingly.

"I know of no other leisure time activity that is so flexible and so suitable to people's needs."

Wolberg, clinical professor of psychiatry at New York University Medical School, was critical of public school systems where, he said, "creativity is somehow hammered out of children early in life."

"It has often been observed," he said, "how wonderfully creative children are in the early grades of elementary school. But by the time they reach the third grade, they've been trained to be just like dweels."

WOLBERG SAID the teaching of photography at the grade school level would be a wonderful way of continuing this creative urge in children.

"Photography is a unique tool for continuous self-education that eludes the pressure of conformity. It lends itself to any personality structure and I can't think of any interest that it can not satisfy," Wolberg said.

Safe distance from TV a must for kids

Dear Dorothy: My smallest child — who is nearly 2 — constantly is getting right up to the TV screen, and I snatch her back each time. Am I not right that it isn't good to be too close to the screen? I ask only because some friends think I'm overcautious. — Trish Davis

You're absolutely right. Where have your friends been? Thought that everybody who grew up in this TV age knew that with any set 14 inches or larger, the minimum viewing distance is six to eight feet, and that the room should be lighted normally, whether the set is on or off. Little ones do have the desire to get close — wanting to touch, I think — and you're right in trying to break her early.

Letters constantly come from readers who seem baffled as to why water in their humidifiers suddenly starts to have an odor. It should be added that these are usually people relatively new to humidifiers. Odors are inevitable unless the water reservoir is free of micro-organisms. So it's necessary to remove and wash the water pan in soap and water fairly frequently. Some people buy neutralizer tablets to put in the water and cut down the probability of odors.

Dear Dorothy: My husband and I love cold leftover roast beef with horseradish sauce. The children won't touch it. Any way I can do more with it to intrigue them? — Mrs. Silliman Shaw

Most kids love barbecue sauce. Why not try dipping a thick piece in this and grilling it for them?

Dear Dorothy: I find that if I wipe the inside of the upper part of my black dresses with a cloth barely dampened with vinegar, the make-up comes off and the dress is as fresh as before. — Amy Bennett

Posies from Mom's garden

Lilies of the valley from the bride's mother's garden were used in all the bouquets at the June 1 wedding of Bonnie C. Pedersen and David Davis. Bonnie's bouquet was caught by her sister, Lorraine, whose approaching August wedding was then announced at Bonnie's reception.

Bonnie, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Pedersen, 804 W. Campbell, Arlington Heights, and Dave, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Edmond Davis of Chicago, first met through the Cavalier Drum and Bugle Corps of Park Ridge and the Coronet Drill Team of Arlington Heights.

Bonnie, a 1970 graduate of Arlington High School, studied at the University of Illinois, Chicago Circle Campus, and is now employed in the Northbrook Post Office. Her bridegroom studied at Eastern Illinois University, Charleston, and is with Exel Corp., Northbrook.

THE COUPLE'S 3:30 p.m. double ring wedding took place in Our Lady of the Wayside Church, Arlington Heights, with Bonnie wearing a white silk organza Empire gown trimmed in Alencon lace. An organza headpiece trimmed in the same lace held her 12-foot veil, and she carried a cascade of white carnations, yellow and Tailsman roses, baby's breath and the lily of the valley.

Lorraine was Bonnie's maid of honor and her sister, Carol, along with Mrs. Rose Tremont, Wauconda, were bridesmaids. They wore yellow flopped nylon country style gowns trimmed in crocheted lace and white ribbon accents.

They also wore white picture hats with yellow ribbons and carried baskets of white carnations, yellow pompons, baby's breath and yellow lilies of the valley.

Mr. and Mrs. David Davis

loy. Their jade necklaces were gifts from the bride.

FLOWER GIRL was the bride's niece, Kimberly Petersen, 9, of Wheeling, who wore a gown of the same design as the older attendants. Kim's brother, Kenneth, 8, was ring bearer and he carried the rings on the same pillow used at the wedding of the bride's mother 30 years ago.

Robert Hesner, Omaha, Neb., was best man, and ushers were Dana Heeres, Hanover Park, and Robert Jackson, Des Plaines.

A reception for 150 guests was held at Mr. Duke's in Wood Dale. The couple honeymooned a week in Brainerd, Minn., and now reside in Wheeling.

Her granddad officiates

The bride's grandfather, a retired Methodist minister from Indianapolis, Iowa, performed the June 1 wedding of Rebecca Johns and Harold E. Keen. The double ring service was held in Plymouth Congregational Church in Lawrence, Kan., so that friends from the University of Kansas Music Department could take part in the 11 a.m. service.

Sixteen musicians added enchantment to the service. The music included a Mozart flute duet, organ music, a trumpet solo and a brass choir.

Daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert S. Johns, 707 Cathy Lane, Mount Prospect, Rebecca is a '69 graduate of Prospect High School and a '73 graduate of the University of Kansas. She is employed as a secretary in the university's athletic department. Her bridegroom, son of Mrs. Edwin Keen of Pasadena, Tex., is currently enrolled at the university and employed at a music store in Lawrence where the newlyweds are also making their home.

REBECCA CHOSE A white crepe gown with Venice lace embroidered with clustered motifs. The A-line skirt swept into a chapel train and her veil was held by a matching Juliet cap. Miniature carnations, white chrysanthemums and yellow miniature roses made up her Victorian bouquet.

Carolyn Kubik of Washington, D.C., a classmate through high school and college, was Rebecca's maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Anne Francis, Marshalltown, Iowa, and Cynthia Hunt, Conway Springs, Kan., both college friends of the bride. The maid of honor was in a yellow sheer cotton shepherdess gown trimmed in lace; the maids in green and blue, respectively. They wore picture hats and carried garden baskets of mixed flowers.

Paul Gray, Lawrence, was best man, and groomsmen were David Neely, Lawrence, and James Keen, brother of the groom from Pasadena, Tex. Ushers were the bride's brother, Robert Johns, San Francisco, and Ted Asmus, Ralph Hazel, Ernest Johnson and Richard Petrovits, all of Lawrence.

A reception for 150 guests was held at the Elks Club Lodge in Lawrence after which the newlyweds left on a week's motor trip to Pensacola, Fla., to visit the bride's sister and brother-in-law.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold E. Keen

Best man sings at their wedding

The best man at the wedding of Kathleen A. Anderson and Robert A. Tucker Jr. had more than the usual duties to perform at their June 1 wedding. Kevin Tucker, brother of the groom, was also the soloist and sang "Wedding Song" during the 2:30 double ring service in St. Peter Lutheran Church, Arlington Heights.

Kathleen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert Anderson, 904 N. Forrest, Arlington Heights, and Robert, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Tucker, Park Ridge, chose all family members for their attendants. Susan Anderson was her sister's maid of honor and bridesmaids were the couple's sisters-in-law, Mrs. Becki Harris, Lake Zurich, and Mrs. Cindy Anderson, Arlington Heights. The groom's 4-year-old niece, Melissa Harris, was flower girl.

GROOMSMAN WAS Douglas Tucker, brother of the groom, and ushers were the bride's brothers, Gary and Keith.

Kathleen is a 1970 graduate of Hershey High School and a 1973 graduate of Lutheran General and Deaconess Hospital School of Nursing. She is employed at Lutheran General Hospital.

Robert is a graduate of Maine East High School. He studied at Northwestern University and is now with Crawford's in Rolling Meadows. The couple resides in Mount Prospect.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert A. Tucker Jr.

For her wedding Kathleen wore an organza Empire gown embroidered with wedding ring design and trimmed in lace and blue ribbon. Her shoulder-length veil was held in place with a crown of pearls made by a family friend, Mrs. Ruth Vogeler. Kathleen carried an orchid with white roses and baby's breath.

The maids were in white dotted swiss gowns with floral clusters. Pink hats and pink carnations tied with blue ribbons and baby's breath completed their ensembles.

Sixty guests greeted the couple at the reception held in St. Peter Lutheran School Hall.

Homemakers attend annual conference

The 37th annual Citizenship and Homemakers Extension Federation Organization conference was held recently at the University of Illinois in Urbana. The conference, open to all Homemakers, unit officers and county board members, was titled "Education Is Forever."

The 450 homemakers in attendance listened to talks on consumer problems, buying food, textiles, family, health, aging, urban problems and youth among others. Suburban Cook County had 61 members attending the conference, including Mrs. Wilson McFadden, East Unit (Des Plaines), county treasurer, and Mrs. Leonard Dwyer, Riverview Unit (Des Plaines), county public information director.

The Illinois Federation will host the National Homemakers Extension Council meeting at the University of Illinois the week of Aug. 4.

A June 1 wedding in Iowa

Friends and family of Louis R. Peterhans Jr. traveled to Dyersville, Iowa, for his marriage June 1 to Mary Carol Toebber. The wedding took place in the Basilica of St. Francis Xavier at 1 p.m. with a dinner reception for 175 at the Julien Motor Inn in Dubuque.

Louis, son of Mr. and Mrs. Louis R. Peterhans, 507 N. Maple Lane, Prospect Heights, is employed at Wright-Patterson Air Force Base, Dayton, Ohio, where the newlyweds are now making their home. A graduate of St. Viator High School and St. Thomas College, St. Paul, Minn., Louis earned his M.B.A. degree from Loyola University, Chicago.

His bride, daughter of Mrs. William F. Toebber, Dyersville, studied at the College of St. Teresa, Winona, Minn., and until her marriage was employed by the Home Insurance Co., Chicago.

skirt ending in a train. A fingertip veil and a bouquet of white phalaenopsis and stephanotis completed her bridal ensemble.

Maid of honor was Ann Hass, Fort Collins, Colo., who wore a sleeveless gown of light blue and white check with matching stole. She also wore a white straw picture hat and carried white marguerite daisies.

Bridesmaids Mary Peterhans, Chicago, sister of the groom, Mrs. Martin P. Hertz, Arlington Heights; and Mrs. Ric Jais, Bloomington, were bridesmaids. Their ensembles were identical to the maid of honor's ensemble.

Paul Peterhans was his brother's best man, and ushers were Mike Bruening, Rapid City, S.D.; Martin P. Hertz, Arlington Heights; and David Lay, Fort Worth, Tex.

The newlyweds honeymooned in Ely, Minn., and in Canada for a week.

Mrs. Louis R. Peterhans Jr.

Palatine Newcomers plan two coffees

Coffees to welcome new residents of Palatine will be held next Tuesday morning and on Wednesday evening, sponsored by Welcome Wagon Club of Palatine.

Those interested in the morning coffee may call Carol Mitchell, 359-2577. Linda Gallis, 358-8788, is taking reservations for the evening coffee.

The club is for newcomers interested in becoming acquainted with their new community and the people in it. Varied activities are offered to members.

New president of the club is Shirley Hess and vice presidents are Linda Gallis and Betty Sullivan. Secretary is Jean Price and treasurer is Joanne Hayden. The officers were elected at the June luncheon held recently at the Chateau Louise, Dundee.

Antique show Sun.

Two hundred antique dealers from throughout the Midwest are planning to display their treasures at Lambs Pet Farm in Libertyville, Routes 176 and I-94, this Sunday (June 23) from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m.

The antique show will be rescheduled for June 30 in case of rain.

Des Plaines Junior Women award five scholarships

Five Des Plaines young people, all Maine West High School students, have been recognized for their outstanding scholastic achievements with scholarships recently awarded by the Junior Women's Club of Des Plaines.

A partial scholarship went to Kathy Suchta, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Suchta, for summer music study. She will attend a three-week session of master classes at Northwestern University for superior students only. Scholarship recipient Carol Matkovic, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Matkovic, will attend a one-week conservation camp on the Lorado Taft Field Campus of Northern Illinois University in Oregon, Ill.

STEVE PELINSKI, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Pelinski, will participate in a speech communication workshop for two weeks at Eastern Illinois University. Tom Tomek, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Tomek, will attend the Federation Art School in Allerton Park this summer. The art school is sponsored by the Federation of Women's Clubs.

A special honor went to Joanne McAndrews, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward McAndrews. On the recommendation of the Des Plaines Juniors, she was awarded a $200 scholarship by the 7th District of the Illinois Federation of Women's Clubs on the basis of academic excellence as well as outstanding leadership. Joanne plans to attend the University of Illinois this fall as a freshman pre-med student.

Next on the agenda

RETIRED PERSONS

A police officer will speak on "Life and Property Protection" Monday when the American Association of Retired Persons meets at 1 p.m. in St. John United Church of Christ, 308 N. Evergreen, Arlington Heights.

There will be a question and answer period followed by a social hour.

ELK GROVE GARDENERS

The Garden Club of Elk Grove Village will hear Carey Witkov speak on "Psychic World of Plants" at 8 p.m. Monday in the Elk Grove Library. There will also be a 20-minute film, "World of Roses and History of Roses."

All interested persons are invited.

WOMEN AGLOW

"Begin to Live" will be the topic of the Rev. Howard Peckenpaugh, pastor of St. Martin's Episcopal Church, Des Plaines, speaker at the monthly luncheon of Women Aglow in Christ.

The buffet luncheon takes place next

Thursday at 11 a.m. at the John Evans Inn located on Route 14, two miles northwest of Route 31, across from the Crystal Lake Plaza. Reservations are due Monday by phoning 381-5503. Luncheon is $3.50.

Women Aglow in Christ is an independent, non-denominational Christian organization.

ARAB-AMERICAN WOMEN

Northwest Arab-American Women's Club will meet at 7:30 p.m. Monday in the home of Mrs. Sylvia Shihadeh and those wishing information or transportation may contact Marian Khayyata at 398-6585.

Plans for future events will be completed and members will be bringing possible fund raising handicrafts to the meeting. Alice Lufallah is president of the new group; Lorraine Elias is vice president; Lilly Baroud, treasurer; and Rowia Mughrabl, secretary.

All northwest suburban women with an interest in the Arab world are invited.

A weekly series about your lawn and garden.

It's time to sow perennials for next year's showy bed

You can beat inflation by raising hundreds of plants for the price you'd pay to buy just a few. Right now to late summer is the time to sow seeds for many different perennials, biennials, too, so you'll have lots of color for your garden next year. The sooner you start, the better. The longer the seedlings have to grow, the stronger they'll be to live over the winter for next season's bloom.

Exactly what is the difference between a biennial and perennial? Biennials such as Canterbury bells, foxgloves, and sweet Williams are started from seeds one year, flower the next, they usually die. Columbines, delphiniums, and Shasta daisies are good examples of perennials, which bloom the second season from seed, and for many years thereafter. Biennials and perennials often self-sow and new seedlings appear each year, but you can't count on this. These "bonus children" may be "ugly ducklings" compared to their parents — all the more reason to sow seeds for the color scheme you want.

A good place is a specially prepared seedbed, where you can give ideal conditions for germination and early growth. Choose a sunny, level, well-drained spot, preferably protected from strong winds. Spade the ground well to a depth of eight to twelve inches. If it is either very sandy, or heavy in clay, work in generous amounts of peat moss or compost. Pulverize the upper four inches. Sow seeds evenly and thinly in shallow drills 8 to 12 inches apart, label and cover until just hidden from view. Firm the soil but don't pack it hard. Water carefully with a fine spray. Watch to keep the bed evenly moist, but not soaked all the time. This is very important and may spell the difference between success and failure in getting a good stand of plants.

Sprouting seeds need a continuous supply of moisture. Let the ground dry out for a few minutes, especially on a hot windy day, and this can ruin germination, or "fry" tiny seedlings.

A helpful hint is to put burlap or newspaper over the bed to conserve moisture and prevent crusting of the soil.

Seeds for most biennials and perennials take two to three weeks to sprout. But they may fool you and pop up sooner, so be sure to remove or raise any covering the minute sprouts appear. A shading canopy which lets in light and air, but screens the searing sun, helps make seedlings grow stockier during hot weather.

Cold frame, lath house, or sunny yet protected open porch? These are also excellent places to start seeds, especially since you can "control" the weather better here. Sow the seeds in pots or flats filled with planting formula, or a porous mixture of two parts garden soil, one part sand, and one part compost. This mixture should be baked in a moderate (300 degree) oven about 1 1/2 hours then cooled before using.

An even easier way to fill containers almost to the top with sifted soil, then add a layer of planting formula, vermiculite or shredded sphagnum moss. The seeds sprout best in these sterile materials, but the roots quickly penetrate to the nourishing soil below. Seed starting kits, cubes and peat pellets are also very handy.

Of course, you can fill a cold frame directly with the soil mixture, if you prefer, and plant seeds in rows the same as for the outdoor seedbed. Take off or open the lid wide, except when you are shielding the seedlings from violent weather. If you don't get your seeds started until late summer, just leave the "babies" right in the cold frame, with the lid on, over the winter for better protection. Take a peek on bright days — the top may need to be raised for ventilation.

Whichever way you start your seedlings, you'll need to thin or transplant them. If they're in pots, flats or seedbed, water at least an hour ahead of time, then carefully lift each "baby" with a knife blade, pot label or trowel. Re-set in the seedbed at least six inches apart each way. Firm the soil gently around the roots and water thoroughly. Keep the seedlings shaded during the hottest part of the day until they take hold. Free from competition with big plants, by late summer the "babies" will be husky youngsters ready for the final move to the permanent place in the border. Give them ample room — one to two feet of space in all directions for tall varieties; six to twelve inches for smaller ones.

In the North in late fall, after the ground has frozen hard, cover (mulch) the plants with straw, salt hay or evergreen branches. Don't use leaves which pack down too tight and soggy. An airy covering prevents alternate freezing and thawing of the ground, and heaving that may damage roots. After a long winter's "sleep," the plants are ready to burst into a grand show of color from late spring to fall.

What are some of the easiest to grow, yet give big returns in flowers? Tall varieties in sequence of bloom from late May on include Canterbury bells, delphiniums, foxgloves, Oriental poppies, hollyhocks, and gloriosa daisies. For intermediate height choose columbines, lupines, pyrethrum, sweet William, coreopsis, Shasta daisies, gaillardia, and chrysanthemums. How about edgers? Lots of selection here, basket of gold (aureum), perennial candytuft (Iberis sempervirens), English daisies, violas and Dianthus.

Seeds for all these and many more may still be available at your local store.

Good vegetables need watering when rainfall is less than an inch

High-quality vegetables need a dependable source of water during the growing season. While rain is a fine source, you may need to water your garden during some of the dry spells.

Water plants once a week during weeks when you get less than an inch of rainfall. To prevent disease, water early enough in the day to permit moisture on the plants to dry off before dew appears.

Soak the soil thoroughly to a depth of at least six inches rather than sprinkling the garden lightly at more frequent intervals. The object is to get the water down into the plants' root zone.

Vegetables need about an inch of water a week, including rainfall. If you use sprinklers, you can measure amount of water applied by placing four or five cans in the area being irrigated. An inch of water in the cans means you've put about an inch of water on the garden.

Most gardeners apply water through sprinklers or perforated watering hoses. Try for even distribution of water over the garden area. On heavier soils and where the garden is nearly level or with a uniform slope, you can run the water through small furrows between the rows.

Prune, spray and feed trees to keep them attractive, alive

Every year more and more homeowners come to realize that the trees on their property represent a real investment. Whether this investment is aesthetic, financial or sentimental, every homeowner should do what he can to keep his trees in good health — beginning with proper feeding, pruning and spraying.

William A. Jeffers, Director of the Davey Institute of Tree Sciences, Kent, Ohio, points out that tree feeding does the most for a tree, followed by pruning and spraying as required. If trees are to grow and thrive, they must eat, drink and breathe. Nitrogen, phosphorus, potassium and some of the so-called trace elements commonly found in soil are especially essential. A lack of these essential food materials is a serious problem, but one that can be diagnosed and treated with dramatic results.

Vital food elements can be replenished by the "perforation or drill hole method" or by injecting liquid fertilizer into the ground which places supplemental nutrients in the immediate root zone.

In the drill hole method, holes approximately 18 inches apart are drilled to a depth of 10 to 18 inches over the entire root system. This usually conforms to the branch spread of the tree.

The tree food is placed in the holes which are then filled with loose soil or peat moss, leaving porous channels for air and water. "Homeowners can fertilize small trees using a punch bar to make the perforation holes," Jeffers said.

Trees need feeding periodically to replenish the food elements consumed in large amounts each year. The increased root growth which results from fertilization stimulates luxuriant foliage and finer color. Another benefit from feeding is a renewed vigor which aids trees in resisting the effect of drought, disease and insect attack.

Trees should be fed regularly, before they show signs of trouble.

Primarily, trees are pruned for beauty, health or safety reasons. If dead branches and stubs are not pruned out, decay can spread into the sound wood and cause large branches and even the trunk to become hollow, weak and dangerous.

Proper and regular pruning helps trees to better withstand adverse environmental conditions. In addition, properly pruned trees require less fertilizing, bracing and spraying to keep them healthy.

The removal of broken and dead limbs will not only improve the appearance of your trees, eliminate breeding sites for insects and diseases and help prevent pre-mature loss, but will reduce the risk of injury to people and property.

The Davey man said that pruning can be done at any time since it does not hurt the tree, if done properly.

If the purpose of pruning is to thin out branches to let more light through for lawn growth, it should be done when the leaves are on so the amount of thinning required can be visibly gauged.

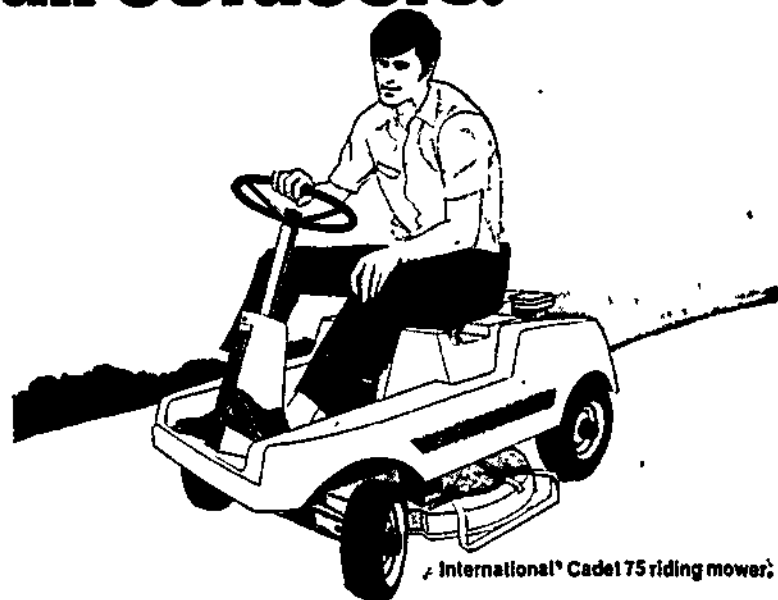

Timing is important for all spray operations. Insects are destructive to trees only during certain stages of their life cycles. Some fungi cause infection in the spring, others in late summer. Therefore, the exact type of spray materials and the proper timing of application depends upon the problem involved and is best determined by an expert.

The first step in spraying is to identify the problem, and then to check with a professional arborist for specific advice. The purpose of spraying for control of diseases is to prevent the disease from actually becoming established in the tree tissues. Generally, a disease cannot be eradicated by chemical means after it becomes firmly established within the tree.

In summer, a healthy tree stores away food in its branches, trunk and roots. When spring comes it draws heavily on these reserves to expand and open its buds to put out new foliage. Again in leaf, the tree once more is able to manufacture food for its needs — and some to replenish its stored reserves.

Tough as all outdoors.

International® Cadet 75 riding mower.

All riding mowers look good on the showroom floor. Including ours. But outdoors the real winners show their stuff.

Ours are winners. Automotive-type frame. Rugged fiberglass body. One-pedal convenience. Tight-turning maneuverability. Safety approved mower. The list goes on and on. And because they're built to take it, they keep going on, too, long after the grass stops growing. To remove snow. To feed, weed, seed, and roll. Even grading and landscaping.

Your choice: 5 or 7 hp. Both built to take the worst any year can throw at them. They're that tough.

A Child's Garden

You may be dealing with a scientist of world-changing magnitude of the year 2000. So give special attention to the young ones who are turned on by plants and experimentation. Let them graduate in their imagination, into careers in the horticultural sciences. The world has great need for their talent. Let them know about plant specialists — pomologists, agronomists, landscape horticulturists, specialists in vegetable production and breeding.

Adventurous young gardeners might like to try some things they have never seen on the dinner table.

"As red as a beet" doesn't apply to all beets. There's a white variety that's sweeter than regular beets: the tops are great for greens.

Sugar peas are eaten with pods on. Dwarf gray sugar pea grows only two-and-one-half feet high.

Lemon cucumber has yellow fruit that looks lemon-like. It has a mild flavor. Giant Verivian corn grows 15 feet tall. It's what corn nuts come from. If you are lucky a giant stalk may produce a giant ear.

"Big Red," a giant winter squash, grows up to three feet long and weighs 80 to 100 pounds.

There's a white tomato, low in acid.

Why not grow some of the vegetables prized in foreign lands?

Greek cucumbers and Armenian yard-long cucumbers are two ideas along with French golden radish, a fall and winter variety.

From the Orient, try small-fruited Japanese eggplant, Chinese white celestial radish (fall and winter) Chinese pachoy (like miniature Swiss chard), vegetable spaghetti (grows like squash).

Spanish cantaloupe de Cavillon is another suggestion, and from France try cantaloupe Radon.

Many of the fruits and nuts you buy to eat have seeds that you can raise into seedlings. If you have a squirrel around you know that nature has little trouble bringing along young walnut or oak trees.

Before sprouting, seeds of deciduous fruits and nuts need a period of moist winter chilling. This breaks their natural dormancy. You can supply the chill by storing them in the refrigerator at 40 degrees. Provide moisture by placing them in plastic bags with wet vermiculite. Length of chilling time needed for each fruit differs:

Almonds, four weeks; apple, two to three months; apricot, three to four weeks; grape, three months; peach, three months; pear, two to three months; walnuts, three months, and oranges, need no chilling.

Plant walnuts four to six inches deep, the others about three inches. Fruits and nuts you grow from store-bought produce are plants mainly to play around with. They can't be counted on to grow into productive trees. Orchard trees are not grown from seeds, but from carefully selected grafts and buds on seedling rootstocks. That is another story and could very well lead your budding scientists into all kinds of new discoveries.

OUT OF THE ecological and environmental revolution has arisen a desire for a return to the simple life, which has brought demand for single and daisy-type flowers. It was for this particular market that Marigold Red Wheels was bred. Entirely different in the French class, it has broad, red, overlapped petals to give a nice round three-inch flower centered with canary yellow. Compact plants 14 inches high bear profusely until frost.

Prices, satisfaction, exercise all figure in gardening boom

DALLAS (UPI) — In Dallas gardening is up 200 per cent over what it was last year and people who never before planted anything except flowers now are going in for vegetables. High prices, satisfaction and physical fitness all figure as reasons.

People even are raising vegetables in the flower beds. Texans, as gardeners everywhere, wonder how much they can expect from their plots, or from tomato plants kept in pots and cans.

"How much they can save on grocery bills, I wouldn't even hazard a guess," says County Agricultural Agent Steve Wheelhouse.

They're doing something better than guessing at the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station in Dallas County. They're conducting tests, hoping to come up with good answers to the questions about crop yield.

Listen to Benny Simpson, farm manager and horticulturist with the experiment station:

"In one of the center's gardens, a typical 50 foot by 40 foot size, we've planted potatoes, beets, radishes, turnips, broccoli, cabbage, onions, lettuce and spinach."

"We are trying to see how big a family this little garden will take care of. Intensive vegetable production means keeping the ground occupied with vegetables year 'round."

Simpson is conducting another experiment. He has obtained "old timey" vegetable seeds, that is seeds saved from season to season, sometimes for generations, from 50 persons from Mississippi to California.

He is growing them to determine whether they taste better than modern, upgraded varieties.

Some old folks think old timey vegetables taste better than hybrid varieties. Simpson thinks this may be because people don't taste things as well when they are older as when they are young. The taste buds aren't as lively.

Gladioli bloom with little care if watered during hot weather

Gladioli will supply you with a lot of enjoyment this summer if given a little care. Glads need plenty of water when the weather is hot and dry. A good heavy watering once each week is desirable, water long enough and slow enough for the water to penetrate to a depth of six to eight inches, says James E. Schuster, assistant extension adviser, Horticulture of the DuPage County Cooperative Extension Service.

Cultivate to keep weeds under control and to prevent soil crusting. When cultivating, do it shallowly to avoid root injury. A summer mulch of lawn clippings or other organic matter is a good way to reduce weed growth and soil crusting. It also conserves soil moisture.

Diseases need to be prevented. Since most glad diseases such as dry rot, scab and fusarium basal rot require pre-plant treatment, take note of any infestations that occur. Treat or discard bulbs before next year's planting.

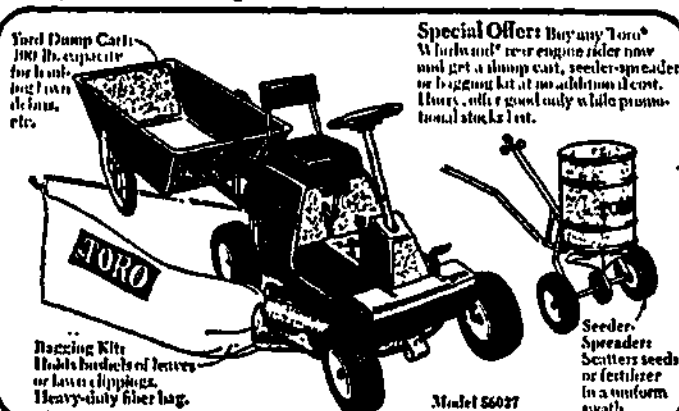

Hard rot disease can be treated by spraying foliage with a fungicide, but again it needs to be used on a preventive basis and not as a cure.

Thrips are a constant problem when growing glads. These tiny, slender black insects are usually 1/25 of an inch long. They usually are more troublesome under hot dry conditions. White or cream-colored immature forms often appear in lead sheaths. Attacks by thrips cause numerous white streaks on the leaves of glads says Schuster. Flowers become badly shaped and discolored and often fail to open. Spray as soon as insects are seen and follow all directions and precautions on the label advises Schuster.

The Toro Grassmaster. A rear bagger that's three mowers in one

The Grassmaster bags or mulches or disperses grass. It has a revolutionary new High-Torque™ engine and an ingenious "Quick-Change" rear bag. Read on.

The Grassmaster is a smorgasbord of engineering innovations. First, it has an exclusive High-Torque engine that delivers more cutting force with less noise.

A "Quick-Change" rear bag empties in seconds and holds up to 2 bushels of leaves or clippings.

For hard-to-mow spots, self-propelled models of the Grassmaster feature fixed blade speed control. The blade speed and drive speed operate separately. So you can slow the drive speed without slowing blade speed or mowing power. See the new 3-in-1 Grassmaster at your Toro dealer today.

Jesuit poverty vow varies in Watergate, Georgetown

"I vow poverty, chastity and obedience."

—First vows, Society of Jesus
In the slightly decrepit but venerable Quad Building of Georgetown University, overlooking the Potomac River, are the residences of the local community of the Society of Jesus (Jesuit Fathers).

One of these starkly furnished single rooms is a veritable cell, 10 by 13 feet, and painted a slightly billous green. It has a wash stand and closet, but no adjoining bath or toilet.

The occupant of this particular room is very probably the first Congressman in this century to reside in a single room without bath — and share a communal john.

U. S. Rep. The Rev. Robert Drinan, D-Mass., has similarly stark quarters at Boston College when he is at home in his district. He pays rent for both of these rooms, gives the rest of his salary to various service organizations, and turns in all of his speaking honorariums and writing royalties to the Jesuit Order.

EXACTLY ONE AND ONE-EIGHTH miles down the Potomac River lives one of Rev. Drinan's Jesuit seminary classmates, the Rev. John J. McLaughlin — who doesn't have to share his bathroom with anybody.

For there are no communal lavatories where Father McLaughlin lives — a less historic but now much better known edifice called Watergate West.

Father McLaughlin, a deputy special assistant to the President, lives in one of Watergate's one-bedroom apartments, No. 1009. This includes, according to one

by Rev. Lester Kinsolving

Watergate realtor, a living room, dining room and kitchen, as well. But these one-bedroom numbers sell for a mere $80,000.

Of course, if one wants something more appropriate to White House status, there are Watergate apartments available for as high as $250,000.

FATHER McLAUGHLIN is paid $30,000 a year to assist the President — originally as a speechwriter, but now, apparently, to be a speechmaker — on all the media that White House communications director Ken Clawson can arrange for him.

The President's Jesuit reached the pinnacle of White House chaplaincy, however, just after the release of the tape transcripts caused a national uproar over Nixon & Co. It was then that Father McLaughlin was trotted out to give his classic estimate that Mr. Nixon will be remembered as one of the "great moral leaders of this century." Father McLaughlin even disinfected the Presidential profanity — by describing it as "emotional drainage."

After being inundated with queries from all over the world (including, most notably, Rome) Father McLaughlin's Jesuit superior, the Rev. Richard Cleary of Boston, called a press conference to disassociate himself, the Jesuit Order and the Roman Catholic Church from what he termed Father McLaughlin's "many public pronouncements on various aspects of life and morality." Added Father Cleary, Jesuit Provincial of New England:

"I AM INDEED puzzled by his (McLaughlin's) publicly stated interpretation of his vows of poverty and obedience."

But only 10 days later, after meeting with Father McLaughlin in Boston, Father Cleary seemed no longer puzzled.

"Father McLaughlin's work with the government has certain unique aspects," observed Provincial Cleary in a subsequent statement, "which may require a degree of flexibility in his living. I am now satisfied that, although this flexibility is not normative, it is permissible given his special situation."

Whether President Nixon's close friend John Cardinal Krol, archbishop of Philadelphia and president of the U.S. Conference of Catholic Bishops, had anything at all to do with straightening out Father Cleary's puzzlement about poverty is not known. For Father Cleary's office in Boston says he will have no further comment on the matter.

Perhaps next December's Jesuit General Congress in Rome can iron out a more plausible explanation of holy poverty — in the Watergate apartments.

World of religion

Revivals a part of Americana

"Lord, send a revival." That prayer, in one form or another, has been on the lips of religious people since the psalmist lifted his voice to cry out, "Wilt thou not revive us again: that thy people may rejoice in thee?"

In America, revivalism started as early as the 1740s with what has been called the Great Awakening, touched off by the teaching of an itinerant English preacher, George Whitefield.

Whitefield was considered a dramatic preacher who knew how to hold a congregation by vividly depicting what waited for them in Hell, acting out the parts of God as well as that of a damned soul, bringing his congregation to the verge of hysteria.

REVIVALISM followed the growth of the country and there were successive waves of revivalism as the frontier spread — so many, in fact, that in some areas religious enthusiasm became religious exhaustion and the areas became known as "burnt-out districts."

In some parts of the country, however, revivalism became semi-institutionalized, a part of the on-going religious experience of the people.

One of those areas is Appalachia, where in towns such as Goose Gap, Pigeon Forge and Mucktown revivalists like the Rev. Pappy Gube Beaver, Elsie Prentiss and Joe Turner still pitch their tents and exhort their congregations that judgment is coming.

Contemporary revivalism in the Appalachian area has been documented in one of the most fascinating and potentially important pieces of religious social history in some time — Eleanor Dickinson and Barbara Benziger's "Revival!" (Harper & Row).

BUT "REVIVAL!" is much more than social history: It is a work of art and it was as a work of art that the book had its origins. Eleanor Dickinson began the revival project about seven years ago when she visited a tent revival near Knoxville, Tenn.

"The total engagement and highly charged passion of this revival meeting," according to Walter Hopps of the Smithsonian National Collection of Fine Arts, "was of such an impact to compel her, step by step, to absorb every aspect she possibly could of the phenomenon."

The absorption includes not only the figure drawings her reputation is built on, but some 200 hours of tape recording, numerous photographs and an immense collection of revival artifacts — handbills, signs, hymnals, fans and any other kind of transportable object connected with the revival experience.

First presented as a multimedia exhibit at Washington, D.C.'s Corcoran Gallery of Art, the exhibit has since toured much of the country.

THE EXHIBIT was organized much as a revival tent would be, with wooden chairs, a lectern with an open Bible, and such signs as "God is My Co-Pilot" and "Christ is the Answer."

"From a speaker system the authentic sounds of a revival meeting filled the gallery," Barbara Benziger wrote in her text that accompanies the drawings and photographs in the book. And, she noted, the crowds were always mixed: "Some came to look at the art work and others to worship."

Dickinson, in a note in Hopps' introduction to the book, notes that while Pentecostal religion "is steadily growing in the United States, every year there are fewer of the small revival tents. Many of the phenomena depicted may become extinct as they are now remote."

If that should be the case, Dickinson and Benziger deserve the gratitude of anyone interested in American religion for not only making this remote phenomenon available, but in giving it an integrity that lifts the project to the realm of art.

Don Robbins, 35, a successful electrical engineer, has found that he can manage "pretty well" without cluttering his life with the thought of "a God" — until the sudden illness and death of his wife.

There follow days of emptiness, confusion and despair. The distinctly Christian witness, simple yet profound, is heard on the lips of his 10-year-old son, who repeats with deep conviction what he has learned from Grampa, the devout father of his deceased mother.

Yesterday's Cryptoquote: THERE IS NO INSANITY SO DEVASTATING IN MAN'S LIFE AS UTTER SANITY. — WILLIAM ALLEN WHITE

© 1974 King Features Syndicate, Inc.

When the cheering stops — Steve Allen in his All-State days at Arlington (left) and as young businessman today in Champaign, Ill.

No more applause

A time to reflect for sports hero of the 1960s

by BARRY SIGALE

To a sports hero, the roar of the crowd is an inspiration. It is almost as much a part of his success as all the touchdowns he scores, the rebounds he grabs or the home runs he socks.

When the applause dies out, the silence can be most devastating, especially to someone who has grown accustomed to such fanfare.

Steve Allen was a hero. He was a schoolboy star at Arlington High School in the mid-60s. He was one of the most sought-after athletes in the country. He was a kid with the brightest of futures, to say the least.

This was Steve Allen. Long and lean. High cheekbones. Crewcut. All the boyish features one expects to see in a high schooler.

He was a do-everything jock. He could platoon passes in football, score with consistency in basketball. He did well in baseball. In tennis. He was a leader. As such, he ranked right up there among the finest athletes ever to come out of a Northwest suburban school.

Sports was his entire life. He was consumed with the challenge of competing, the art of succeeding and the thrill of winning. Play was a resounding first in his teenage years. That's all he ever thought of doing. And when things were going good they were very, very good.

But what followed his early string of seemingly unending accomplishments was a series of disheartening events — misjudgments, mistakes and accidents — that led to his finally quitting organized sports for good.

If it's true that sports is but another set of experiences along life's path then what happened to Allen during his post-high school days will last him a lifetime. "It seems a lot of bad things happened to me all at once," Allen, now 25 years old, summarized at the home he shares with a friend near the University of Illinois campus near Champaign.

Indeed, he has suffered through some bad times which eventually robbed him of the potentially brilliant career expected of him by his many followers.

He wound up at a school that wasn't his first choice. He decided to try football and basketball at the same time instead of concentrating on excelling in only one. He felt he was mishandled by his coaches. He was painfully injured, which brought about his giving up organized sports. He got married and divorced. He dropped out of school. He kicked around in odd jobs.

Mostly, though, he admitted he wasn't prepared for what occurred. "High school was a snap, but college was a challenge," he said. "I blame the fact (that he finally failed) on my immaturity and my inability to handle the situations as they came up."

Those who saw Allen play at Arlington from 1964 through 1968, say he was the best pure quarterback the suburb has ever produced. The teams he played on had outstanding records and some of the statistics he rolled up still stand as records.

Allen, voted to the all-state football team in his senior year, completed 177 passes in 389 attempts for 2,663 yards and 20 touchdowns in three years. In his final year he played his greatest game, completing 18 passes for 359 yards and four touchdowns against Palatine.

As a high school basketball player, Allen was one of only a few Arlington High Sophomores in history to break into the starting lineup. Described as being an excellent passer, a deadly jump shot artist from 15 to 20 feet and, above all, a team man, he earned all-conference honors and now is the seventh leading scorer in area basketball history with 1,124 points.

Despite the fancy numbers and the exaltation from the press, Allen says to this day he didn't think of himself as a high school star but as part of a team of fine athletes determined to be the best.

"We were so cocky then," he said. "When we were freshmen we were undefeated in football and basketball. We had the feeling we were going to be good. In high school everything went so good."

But the accolades came his way, anyway. "There was a misconception about me," he said. "I knew people looked up to me. I was aware people knew who I was. But I was shy with people. People who didn't know me thought I was conceited and stuck up. But I followed what my father (Al Allen, also his high school coach) always said: 'If you ever come into the (public) eye don't worry about what people say. You only have to answer to yourself.'"

Allen was recruited by 300 schools. He reduced the list to six or seven universities, including Illinois, Iowa, Kansas, Oklahoma, Colorado and Indiana, then chose Kansas because of several circumstances.

"I always wanted to come to Illinois," he said. "But it was the year of the slush fund scandal (1967) and they didn't considered by coaches in each sport. They wanted him to devote his full attention to their activities."

"When I got out of high school nothing could have been better. When I got to college two sports were too much for me to handle. I thought I could compete in both. But nobody could tell me which was my better sport, where my future lay. With time and if somebody would have stayed with me I could have made it."

But the coaches continued to discourage his idea. "The football people wanted me to put on weight (to build up his strength) and the basketball people complained that I came out six to eight weeks late (when the football season ended)."

For the multi-talented Allen, high school provided an opportunity for him to do just about anything he pleased on the field and court. But college is full of super-jocks with bulging scrapbooks. The competition, the rigorous conditioning program and demands for mental preparedness were tough to adjust to.

"College sports was a rude awakening for me," said Allen. "At Kansas they shove you into a room and see who survives. Kansas was hard work. It was a rewarding experience."

But he left Kansas after a year, disappointed. "I didn't like the idea that they (the coaches) didn't think I had a chance to make it in two sports." He was a member of the school's freshman basketball team which many considered among the finest in the country. His part was too small so he made up his mind to enroll at Illinois.

He sat out a year because of NCAA eligibility rules but worked out with both the football and basketball freshman squads until the 1969 season when more competition awaited him.

"I had a four day tryout," he said fa-

Will International move? Feature should stay here

A disturbing rumor circulated around the infield at Prospect High School when they held the International Prep Track and Field Invitational.

There was some talk about moving the high school extravaganza from Prospect to Dyche Stadium in Evanston, home of Northwestern University.

Let's hope it was just talk and nothing else. This is not the time to make any move.

There may be some advantages to holding the International on Northwestern's new track, with more room for the fans and some major college prestige thrown in, but the meet then would lose much of its appeal.

The Prospect High School track facilities may not be the ultimate, but they're certainly not that bad and they do provide an intimacy for the fan and athlete that makes this particular meet come alive. And they keep improving the facilities every year to accommodate the exceptional talents of the preps.

The fans would be lost at Northwestern. You can hear 7,000 fans at Prospect. Those same 7,000 fans, or even 10,000 if they're lucky, would be lost in Dyche Stadium.

Craig Virgin talked about the fans, the cheering, when he set the national two mile record at the International in 1973.

Michael Lederer of West Germany talked about the fans, the cheering, when he won the two mile at Prospect in 1974.

"Boy, was that crowd great, just great," Virgin said after running a spectacular 8:41.0 in blazing heat. "They really helped me all the way. They kept my morale up. A crowd gives you tempo."

"I was very happy to win in America," said Lederer, "especially with all the people shouting and screaming. We don't have anything like that in Germany."

You can hear the crowd at Prospect. The fans are right on top of the action, and they feel like they're a part of the action. The athletes respond to the enthusiasm generated by the fans.

If they held the International at Northwestern, they also would have to move some of the events outside the stadium, and if you're a hammer thrower or jav-

Bob Frisk

In man, for example, you would miss the rare opportunity to perform before a large crowd.

They always push these guys into the shadows, away from the spotlight, at track and field meets. Let them stay out in front of the crowd at the International — at Prospect.

Track fans in Illinois, the people who pay most of the money to see this International, do not get to see the javelin or hammer during the regular season. They get their chance to see these interesting events at the International — at Prospect.

They may talk about more prestige in having the International at a Big Ten school, but why should a Big Ten school, or any college for that matter, enjoy the king-sized recruiting plus of exposing its facilities to the finest trackmen in the country? And if you start switching it around among state colleges, it would just add to the overall confusion.

I personally like the high school atmosphere associated with the International, a high school meet, and would hate to see any college get involved to the point of eventually dictating policy.

There is a push to have the meet shown on ABC-TV's popular Wide World of Sports, and that's why some people apparently feel it would be a boost to have the meet at a college site. Baloney. Let Wide World show what a group of dedicated high school coaches can do at a high school site. Let's start publicizing some of our fine high school facilities in this country.

There is no question that some improvements can be made in the International.

The officials were concerned over the length of the 1974 program, but they promise to make changes in that direction for 1975. They're intent on giving the fans the best meet possible, and they realize they can't let the events drag out as they did at times this year. The program ran about an hour too long.

It's not easy organizing one of these meets. The men behind the International have profited by experience. They've learned from their mistakes and now have put together a superb package of track and field entertainment. The 1974 meet easily was the best of the three with the most appreciative crowd.

There has been so much done behind the scenes by people in Dist. 214 that it would be unfortunate to have the meet stripped away from the district now just when the serious problems had been solved. The men who run the meet know what to expect at the Prospect facility, and they're ready to meet any situation.

You arrive at such confidence in arrangement only through years of hard work, trial and error. The many minor problems have been solved. It would be like starting all over again at another facility, with new problems. The officials have suffered with the growing pains of the meet and deserve less headaches.

The International Prep Track and Field Invitational is identified with Prospect High School and Mount Prospect, and that identification just has to be important in any future promotion.

Track fans now are geared to that big June Saturday afternoon in Mount Prospect, and the school is centrally located in a mushrooming population area. It's also closer to the airport.

It's taken three years for the International to reach its current level of acceptance. It would be foolish to make any major changes now.

ONE OF THE many highlights at the International Prep Track and Field Invitational is the march of the entries in the opening ceremonies. Here the Illinois delegation parades in front of the stands prior to the recent International at Prospect. There is some talk of moving the meet to Dyche Stadium in Evanston. Bob Frisk examines that idea in today's column. (Photo by Dave Tonge)

Two railbirds appear in contention while the others can't bear to watch...

Racing's railbirds enjoy nine lives on daily basis

They say that cats have nine lives, but so do a certain species of birds.

Railbirds. Each of Arlington Park's nine daily races can either be an exercise in futility or a rejuvenation of the pocketbook.

There's no middle ground simply because there are no cashier's windows for horses that finish fourth, fifth, sixth or are still running.

But besides being billed as the Midwest's Racing Capital, the Arlington Heights-based facility is also a soap opera sideshow of human drama and emotion.

The fountain of youth... a new life... is born every 25 minutes between two and six o'clock. A loser in the first race can be expediently reincarnated by a winner in the second.

The short-term monetary investments, big or small, are riding on every twitch of the eyebrow, every bead of perspiration in the clenched fist, every note of the unharmonized vocal plea.

Railbirds are unique from wire to wire. A day in the fiberglass grandstand chairs at Arlington Park inevitably raises and lowers the curtain on one of the most well-produced, nine-act, comedy-tragedy plays to hit the stage.

The costumes are extraordinarily colorful. Acting is unrehearsed. Scripts are uncensored.

"Can you tell me what I must do to win the daily double?" a retired woman dressed for a sub-freezing blizzard peered as I took my sun-kissed seat at the conclusion of the first race.

"I wouldn't worry about it," I assured her. "The winner of the first race paid $44. He was really a longshot."

"I know that," the unnerved lady insisted. "I picked that seven horse. I always bet my age. I guess I should have just bet him to win the first race and not played the daily double, huh?"

Gulp. "In that case, the horse you picked in the second race must also win," I said while glancing at the infield toteboard to find that the lowest double payoff was a tidy $182 while the highest was a $1,320 windfall.

"Which horse did you play in the second race?" I wanted to know desperately without inquiring about her age. "Then I can tell you how much the double will pay if your horse wins."

"That's none of your business," she smoldered, halfway cocking her purse that had the appearance of a rock collection inside. "All I asked was a simple question."

It was even more difficult hand-capping the sixth race. The conversation from the adjacent party of four women broke my concentration.

"I like the two horse, but he weighs only 118 pounds," one of the gals said, mistaking the jockey's impost. "He looks heavier than that."

About a half-ton heavier.

After making a bet on a horse that was crucified by the girls because he wasn't an even number on the program, his tail was tied in a knot and his jockey's colors clashed. I made my way to the restraining fence at the finish line.

Next to me was a fidgety businessman who must have bet his paycheck when the race was due.

In his sweaty palm were a stack of large-denomination win tickets on the chalk in the race.

"What's happening?" I asked, hoping to strike a conversation.

"Close at 6-4-5, close at 6-10-5," he kept reiterating while his eyes focused on the even-money oddsboard choice.

Two minutes later, he stared unflinchingly at the red neon "photo" sign that delayed the answer as to whether his horse's nose was longer than my 8-1 shot that mirrored him at the wire.

"Who'd it look like to you?" he questioned, finally noticing my presence. His vice-like grip tightened around his tickets in an obvious search for the endorsement of his favorite.

"I don't know. That six horse (his) was really flying at the wire," I tried to encourage despite hoping my three horse held on.

It did, and when the "official" results were illuminated on the board with the three horse on top, he fired his program and powdered confetti of dead mutuels at the beaten favorite and whipped the rider all the way to the tunnel with a verbal barrage that must have made the jock's withers ache.

Meanwhile, in the winner's circle, the triumphant rider was accepting vocal bouquets from those who backed his surprisingly strong ride.

Life doesn't have to begin at 40. At Arlington Park, you get another chance in just 25 minutes. Nine lives a day.

... the horses hit the wire.

Rebels win two

Randy Cordova and Rick Peekel earned their first pitching victories of the season last Sunday as the Northwest Rebels swept a doubleheader from the Chicago Cardinals, 15-4 and 14-3. The games were played at Harper College.

The first game was a nine-inning affair but the second was stopped after seven.

Hitting stars included Bruce Eberle and Steve Scholten who each hammered one home run. Scholten had four hits and Eberle three on the day. Scott Day also collected three.

The Cardinals made eight errors in two games.

This weekend, the Rebels play 12:30 p.m. doubleheaders on Saturday at Maine South High in Park Ridge and Sunday at Recreation Park in Arlington Heights.

R. P. Coleman holds golf top spot

R. P. Coleman and Co. won only three points from Mount Prospect Savings and Loan but maintained their lead in the Monday night section of the Mount Prospect Twilight Golf League.

Low gross for the night went to Bill McGill with a 37. One of the lowest nets in years was recorded by Bob Ryan who carded a 38-12-26.

Charlie Kirchoff and Bill Swanson scored birdies on their first hole, Greg Streit on three and Carl Lenz and Walter Weber on the seventh. Bill Gruenes turned the trick on the ninth hole, as did Harry Rasmussen on 13, Cliff Rezny and celously of the chance he was given to make the Illinois football team as its starting quarterback. "But there were six other quarterbacks. I played there before and that's where my abilities were."

Ken Gruenes on 15, Stan Peterson on 16 and John Hamilton on the 17th.

Cheering stops for Steve Allen

But his experience and abilities as a defensive back on Kansas' freshman team prompted head coach Jim Valek to insert him into the starting lineup in the defensive secondary. He opened there when the season began. He lasted only four games.

The fourth game was against Northwestern at Memorial Stadium. The Wildcats ran a trap play and one of their backs caught Allen looking the wrong way. He hit him square in the shoulder and broke it.

It could have ruined his career then and there but after a rehabilitation program he returned to tryouts in 1970. "I got it back together," he said. "But I lasted only 10 practices and got hurt again." He was a fourth stringer now and out of the picture entirely for the first time ever.

"Then I lost interest. I couldn't subject myself with what was happening within me. It seemed like I was beating my head against a brick wall. All of a sudden I had an attitude problem. One afternoon I went to Valek and told him I'd had it. It was the first time in my whole life I ever quit. I regret it had to happen the way it did."

In the meantime Allen got married, a match that lasted seven months and contributed to the pressure he was feeling on the field and in his heart. After dissolving the marriage and leaving school, Allen lived in Mount Prospect for six months, working and, as he put it, "getting myself back together."

Allen, six-foot-four, 185 pounds, still resembles the high school athlete that showed such great promise. He sports a mustache and long, neat hair, two symbols of manhood.

He is a man-child, torn in different directions still because his whole existence depended on his abilities in athletics. He knows now he must get on with the business of pursuing whatever career it is he chooses (he's going to sell insurance for his father) and that it's time to leave sports behind.

Along with other athletes, though, Allen manages to play touch football in the fall, basketball in a winter park district league and softball and other sports in the summer.

He still loves the competition, the enjoyment that comes with knowing that some of the old skills are there, that despite his somewhat painful college years he and other former athletes can bump heads as they did in the past.

He knows, also, that trying out for a team just beginning like the Chicago Fire, with its opportunities, would be a mistake. It would take too much out of him. The edge is gone. The desire isn't there. Probably even the talents to perform on that level are gone too.

Through it all, Allen said, he learned a lot, though it certainly would have been a lot better to learn and succeed than to learn and fail. But the experiences he's had have not left him bitter and he hoped that his fans who knew him in his better days understand the twists life sometimes takes just when it appears the future has good things in it.

"I learned some lessons," said Allen. "I hope I didn't disappoint anyone. I was worried for awhile about what people thought about what happened to me. I'm not bitter, that's what I want people to know."

Then he put it simply. "I made myself," he said wistfully, "and I broke myself."

For Steve Allen, there is no more applause.

Mitterwald to visit North West Federal

George Mitterwald, Chicago Cub catcher, will make a special appearance in the lobby of North West Federal Savings, 4901 W. Irving Park Rd., Chicago, on Friday, June 21, from 6:30 p.m. to 8:00 p.m.

Mitterwald was the top defensive catcher in the American League last season in addition to having an impressive year at the plate. He committed only six errors in 122 games for a .992 fielding percentage. At the same time, he slammed a career season high of 18 home runs and drove in a career season high of 64 runs.

North West Federal's sports director, Bob Elson, will be on hand to interview George and ask him questions about Cubs' hopes in 1974. The public is invited to stop in and meet Mitterwald.

If you are unable to stop in Friday evening, tune in to "Speak Out on Sports" Saturday, June 22, to hear a tape of Elson's interview with him. "Speak Out on Sports" can be heard every Saturday morning, from 11:00 a.m. to 11:30 a.m., on WLTD radio, 1590 on the AM dial.

Herb Rose Associates doesn't have much breathing room over Century Tile & Supply after the latest action in the Mount Prospect Friday Night Twilight Golf League.

The Herb Rose squad, composed of Robert Bracken, William Motiweller, Richard Mack and Jim Nelson maintain a 41.6-35 lead over their closest pursuers.

In individual scoring, Chuck Lynch of Clayton Court Apartments had low gross with a 37. Al Gilso of G & R Masonry, Orville Kron of FBK and Howard Foster of Bainbridge Apartments all tied for low net with 33.

Bracken recorded a birdie on the fifth hole, as did Kron and Jim Johnson on nine, Foster on 10 and 12 and Lynch on the 13th, while Warren Collier turned the trick on the 13th and 15th holes.

Wheeling, Mount Prospect land league wins

by MIKE GARBUS

A few years back, the Beatles had a big hit in the song "With a Little Help from My Friends."

Well, Wheeling got help from some friends Wednesday evening in the persons of the Logan Square Lions whose five errors contributed to five unearned runs and a 6-4 setback at the St. Vitor diamond.

The setback left Logan Square still winless after three Ninth District outings and 4-8 overall, while Wheeling boosted its overall and district slate to an unblemished 4-0.

Single tallies by Wheeling in the fourth and seventh innings proved to be the margin starter Willie Kozel needed to survive two-run homers by Dave Nalchewicz and Paul Obuchowski in the fifth and sixth stanzas, respectively.

Until Nalchewicz's blast, Kozel had been cruising along on a yield of just three hits. Wheeling's opening salvo in the second produced three runs against Lion starter Brian Nelson as the visitors batted around.

After two were out, Kozel singled, and all hands were safe when Jim Bucaro threw high to second trying for a force after fielding Ron Henrick's grounder. Jeff Brisson then drew a pass, one of the eight issued by Nelson. Ken Margalski singled for one run, and Henricks scampered across when left fielder Kevin Kelley juggled the ball. Two more walks, the latter to Paul Groot, forced home the last run of the frame.

Bob Burke reached on another boot to open the third and after two were retired, Henricks and Brisson laced consecutive safeties to chase home Burke.

Another glaring miscue handed Wheeling its decisive fourth inning run. George Kaage walked and went all the way to third when Nelson's errant pickoff attempt skidded into foul ground. Kaage then counted on Groot's sacrifice fly.

Wheeling's final insurance run, the only one "earned," came when Burke singled and pinch runner Jeff Hanisch scored two walks later on another one-base rap by Henricks.

Kozel surrendered seven hits while whiffing six and walking but one. Nelson gave up eight hits and fanned seven.

Rich Haaning's teammates on the Mount Prospect Legion team didn't produce the support worthy of two hit pitching, so the big lefty from Forest View took it upon himself to win Wednesday night's game against Des Plaines with a two-run homer in the seventh.

Haaning gave up two more hits in the bottom of the seventh then made an outstanding defensive play to seal his team's 3-2 victory.

Prospect's lack of hitting in key situations was most apparent through the first three innings. Each inning a runner advanced at least as far as second base. Yet no Prospect hitter could produce a run scoring hit and five men were left on base. They left eight on for the game.

Prospect finally got on the board in the fifth when Mike Quade ripped a triple to deep centerfield and came home on Ken Butzen's single. The run trimmed Des Plaines' lead to 2-1.

Prospect had two hits, singles by Don Stevens and John Strybel, in the sixth but again, left both on base.

That left it up to Haaning to win the game the next inning, driving in Butzen, who had singled ahead of him.

With one out in the seventh and men on first and third, Des Plaines' shortstop Rick Sidor hit a high hopper back to the mound. Haaning grabbed it, checked the runner at third and threw to Quade to force the runner at second.

Quade threw to first but Sidor beat out the double play. Joe Riplinger, the runner on third, broke for the plate but Don Stevens' throw was waiting when he arrived for the final out.

Arlington Tennis Club drops four to Hinsdale

The Arlington Tennis Club had the misfortune of opening their season against Hinsdale, a tennis hotbed and home of the perennial state champions.

The results were predictable, Arlington lost all four matches. Only two victories in the Men's "A" bracket and a victory on the Women's team averted a complete sweep for Hinsdale.

The Men's "A" team fell 3-2 as Arlington's Jon Paczkowski stopped Fritz Balentine in the No. 1 singles match, 2-6, 6-4, 6-2. John Gardner collected the other point in No. 4 singles by clipping Tom Jacobs, 6-3, 6-3.

The Men's "B" team and the Junior team fell by identical 5-0 counts, each team failing to win even a single set.

On the Junior level John Wallner and Pete Burkhardt had the dubious distinction of meeting up with the Starn brothers, Ed and Ted. Both outstanding, there is the feeling among some that the two will face each other next year for the state singles title.

Wallner ran into the older of the two, Ed, who has been state singles runnerup the past two years, in the number one singles and fell 6-0, 6-1.

Burkhardt lost to Ted in the number two pairing, 6-2, 6-0.

Fat Rittle collected the only point in the Women's competition, nudging Nancy Prentiss 3-6, 7-5, 6-1.

Standings shuffled in twilight league

Some strong team efforts have shaken up the latest standings of the Arlington Heights Twilight Golf League.

Binzel Industries rolled up 39 points and Arlington Structural accumulated 32½ out of a possible 52 leaving the former just two points behind league-leading Koops Mustard.

Structural rose from 11th to eighth place, while Service Stampings took the biggest tumble, slipping from eighth to 12th. A stellar effort by Control Equipment jumped them from 10th to seventh.

In individual performances, Davis Whitlier and Paul Witowski turned in identical low nets of 35. Cecil Jamison, Dr. Gordon Ward, John Coffey, Paul Kalamar and Al Dvorak all had low nets of 37.

TEAM STANDINGS

Hoffman Estates soccer report

DIVISION I BOYS

The Panthers came out ahead in their game today with the Hotspurs on the two goals by Bill Baird. Rick Hirschman also had a goal. The two goals for the Hotspurs were by Ray Powell one of which was a penalty shot.

DIVISION II BOYS

The Kickers clinched their hold on 1st place in their division by a whopping 14 to 0 in a game dedicated to the Panthers. Rick Russo had one goal as did Ralph Thoren. Jerry Espino, defensive fullback scored a goal from 30 yards out. Jim Plisk had two. Don Graham had six for a fantastic day. Steve Haer had a hat trick for the remaining goals. Bob Sloops really deserves credit as the goalie in the shutout efforts.

Leeds 10, Bath Rovers 1 The other half of the Champion second division was also seen up today with the Leeds winning over the Rovers. It was also high scoring with Jim Connell and Steve Haer scoring three goals apiece. Larry Mead had two and Eric Deers and Dennis Steinhoff each had one apiece. These two teams will meet for the Championship of Division II on June 30th.

Sparta 1, Rangers 0 The Sparta goal was scored by Richard Milke to break the Rangers and Kickers tie for first place.

DIVISION III

The Eintracht goals were scored by Mark Fitzgerald and by Ben Manibog. Blackpool got their goal on a kick by Tim Conitt.

Newcastle 3, Italia 1 Doug Steinhoff was hot for the Newcastle this week with two goals. Steve Humphreys scored a goal on a penalty kick which gave the Newcastle their win.

DIVISION I GIRLS

The Shannon Rovers won handily today over Atlanta. Michan Foster scored one goal for the Rovers and Beth Birzer had the other two.

Clyde 0, Citystars 1 The Citystars continued their winning ways remaining the only undefeated team in the league. Their goals were scored by Jamie Linsner with two and Tricia Hucking with one.

Hearts 6, Vikings 0 On June 20 at 2 p.m. there will be a playoff game to determine the champion of Division II Boys. The other divisions will play their final game that day to determine champions of their own division. Also on July 4th, the HEAA will sponsor a Point, Pass and Kick Competition at Chino Park at 11:00 a.m. for ages 8-14. At 3 p.m. the first and second place 8-12 year old girls will play an exhibition game and at 4:00 the 13-17 year old boys will play an exhibition soccer game.

Local entry wins second straight

The Des Plaines Tennis Club won its second consecutive Intersuburban League match with a victory over LaGrange last Saturday.

The men's A team swept to a 4-1 win with first-seeded Steve Wild taking sets of 4-6, 6-2 and 6-2. Laddie Birgo, Ron Klein and Lindsey Franks also came out on top in singles competition. William Kopach and Al Valliquet lost in doubles play 6-3 and 7-6.

Des Plaines' men's B team of Roger King, Dave Siegel, Bill Salisbury, Art Schalk and Merlin Schultz posted a 5-0 conquest, as did the women's team composed of Chris Canar, Gory Ryak, Cindy Gernhofer and Ginny Mordren.

The junior boys sustained the Club's only loss in a 3-2 heartbreaker. Don Kopach in No. 4 singles and Robert Lee and Norm Peterson in doubles play were the two winners.

Tomorrow the Club will take on a strong Arlington contingent at the Maine West High School courts.

July 4-7 the Chicago area's top players will converge on Des Plaines to compete in the annual Des Plaines Open Championships.

Playoffs for the Intersuburban League's West Division crown will be held on August 3.

Nostalgia prevailed at Lion game

Dear Fans Forum:
May we take this opportunity to add a few footnotes to Mike Garbus' fine article in the June 14 Herald about the Lions vs. Old Timers game. These are things that probably wouldn't come to Mike's attention, but are quite important to a long-time Lion fan.

True, some of the "Logan Square Lions of seasons past" appeared with "faces adorned with mustaches and beards," but they represented some of the greatest teams ever to appear on St. Vitor's diamond.

Nostalgia prevailed when the "old timers" started with Brian Rooney pitching and Jim Kenny catching. What a combination they were five years ago! Jim had come in from Bettendorf, Ia., where he is a sales representative for Thomas & Betz Electrical Supplies and had to leave the game at 7:30 in order to catch a plane. Brian came in from Manteno, Ill. where he is a staff psychologist at the state hospital.

George Glasco, recently graduated from Regis College in Colorado, was there, and as usual, again was the team "spark plug."

Jim Hynes, John Wendell, Mike O'Donnell, Steve Smith, Mark Rossi, Pat

Donahue, Ken Martin, Ed Collins were the other "old timers" and Chapman, Garbus and Hake were the new "old timers." Missing and missed were Dan Myksta, Dan Collins, Mike Pettenazzo and, of course, Philadelphia Phillie Phanatic star Greg Luzinski who got his break while playing with the Lions.

Of course, we can't write about the Lions without mentioning Coach Larry Nomellini. How much he has done for the young baseball players in this area can never be measured, but we may rest assured it has had a far-reaching effect. Congratulations on a wonderful evening, coach, let's make this an annual affair!

Jim, you are making life exciting for this retired female. Saw the Lipizans performing at Arlington Park last week and working out on their home grounds this week. Am going ballooning next week! And I got to kiss the pilot both before and after. Muchas gracias, merci beaucoup, danke schon. And slainte to you.

STUCK IN OMAHA

Dear Fans Forum,
Since the College World Series is now

history and Southern Illinois University took third place, it may be a little late to bring this up. But maybe next year something can be done about it. Why do they always play it in Omaha, Neb.? Does that town have some kind of monopoly? If they moved it around a little, they might generate some more interest in it.

SUBS HAVE THEIR DAY

Dear Editor,
I'd like to register my thoughts on the high school baseball substitution rule which allows each player in the lineup to be removed for a hitter or runner once during the game. At first, I didn't like it since it was confusing, and, of course, it was a break from tradition. But now it seems to be a good idea for several reasons. It gives more kids a chance to play, it provides more excitement, and it gives the managers the opportunity to really manage. I think that the high school sub rule is better than the designated hitter rule now used in the American League. It lets the pitcher hit, but it makes the manager choose when he wants to use a sub.

PLANNED USE REPORT

GENERAL REVENUE SHARING

General Revenue Sharing provides federal funds directly to local and state governments. The law requires each government to publish a report of its plans for the use of these funds to inform its citizens and to encourage their participation in deciding how the money ought to be spent. Within the purposes listed, your government may change this spending plan.

Little League day set by West Park

On June 23 West Park will celebrate Little League Day starting at 12:30 p.m. All Little League players are urged to attend and must be in uniform to participate in the activities.

Featured will be a karate exhibition. There will be an accuracy throw, relay races, rope pull, distance throw and batting contest for all age groups and prizes will be awarded to the winners.

This is a family day and all parents, brothers and sisters of Little League boys are urged to attend. There will be a clown for children under nine years of age and games and prizes will be furnished for all the children.

The refreshment stand will remain open until 5 p.m. Families are welcome to bring blankets and picnic lunches.

Would you please print a picture of Dirk Benedict and give me some information on him?

C.S.
Arlington Heights

Dirk Benedict

The role of Gil Foley on CHOPPER ONE is only the second professional TV role Dirk has had. He actually entered show business on a dare from his fellow classmates while he was attending Whitman College. They challenged him to audition for a local (Walla Walla, Wash.) production of "Show Boat." He not only won the leading role, but, after receiving his liberal arts degree, he wanted more training in acting fundamentals. He studied two years with the Seattle Repertory Theatre and one in summer stock in Ann Arbor, Mich.

Dirk has appeared on stage as well as in a couple of films, including "SSSSSSSS" and "W." Because his agent told him to find a substitute for his real name (Niewoehner), Dirk began looking for a new name. He happened to read a luncheon menu and his eyes lighted upon eggs benedict. He not only ate them, he also became Dirk Benedict, actor! Ladies--Dirk is single!

Please put a picture of Lee Majors in your column. Would you tell me if he is married? If he is, does he have any children? Where could I write to him? Could I have an autographed picture of him?

S.B.
Schaumburg

We suggest that you request an autographed picture when you write to Lee in care of ABC-TV, 5141 Prospect Avenue, Hollywood, Calif. 90027, since we are unable to send any picture.

It was just last year on the 28th of July that Lee married actress Farrah Fawcett! Native to Wyandotte, Mich., Lee was raised by relatives in Middlesboro, Ky., after the death of his parents. As a star athlete in high school, Majors was given an athletic scholarship to the University of Indiana, and he later switched to Eastern State College for his senior year and was graduated with teaching credentials. On medical advice, he turned down an offer from the St. Louis Cardinals.

A job with the Los Angeles Park Department supported Lee while he studied acting with Estelle Harmon and at the MGM acting school. His first series, THE BIG VALLEY, brought him to national prominence. His next series was THE MEN FROM SHILOH, then OWEN MARSHALL: COUNSELLOR AT LAW, and of course, THE SIX MILLION DOLLAR MAN. In addition, the 6' actor has made films, several of which have been made for TV viewing.

I would like to know how old is Paul McCartney. Where may I write to him?

M.M.
Hoffman Estates

Thirty-two year old Paul may have his mail sent to him in care of Capitol Records, 1750 N. Vine St., Hollywood, Calif. 90028.

How old is Jeannette Nolan? I think she is great as DIRTY SALLY.

Rolling Meadows
Jeannette Nolan was born 63 years ago in Los Angeles, Calif. One can certainly see the wonders a make-up artist can do by comparing the real Jeannette looks to that of DIRTY SALLY!

Rose Marie

Are we correct in assuming that Rose Marie appears on the screen sans lower dentures?

L.G.
Des Plaines

Rose Marie appears, cum (with) her lower dentures!

What is Fonzie's real name? He is on HAPPY DAYS. Where may I write him?

P.Z.
Elk Grove Village
Henry Winkler is the man.

He seems to be as popular as the star of the series! Write him in care of ABC-TV, 5141 Prospect Avenue, Hollywood, Calif. 90027.

Would you please publish a photo of Yul Brynner? Can you tell me if he is married? Does he have any kids? How old is he?

P.P.
Palatine

Yul has two children by two previous marriages, a grown son, Yul II, and a daughter, Victoria. He and his wife Jacqueline live on a farm in Normandy, France, where Brynner raises pigeons and has extensive collections of books, art and rare stamps.

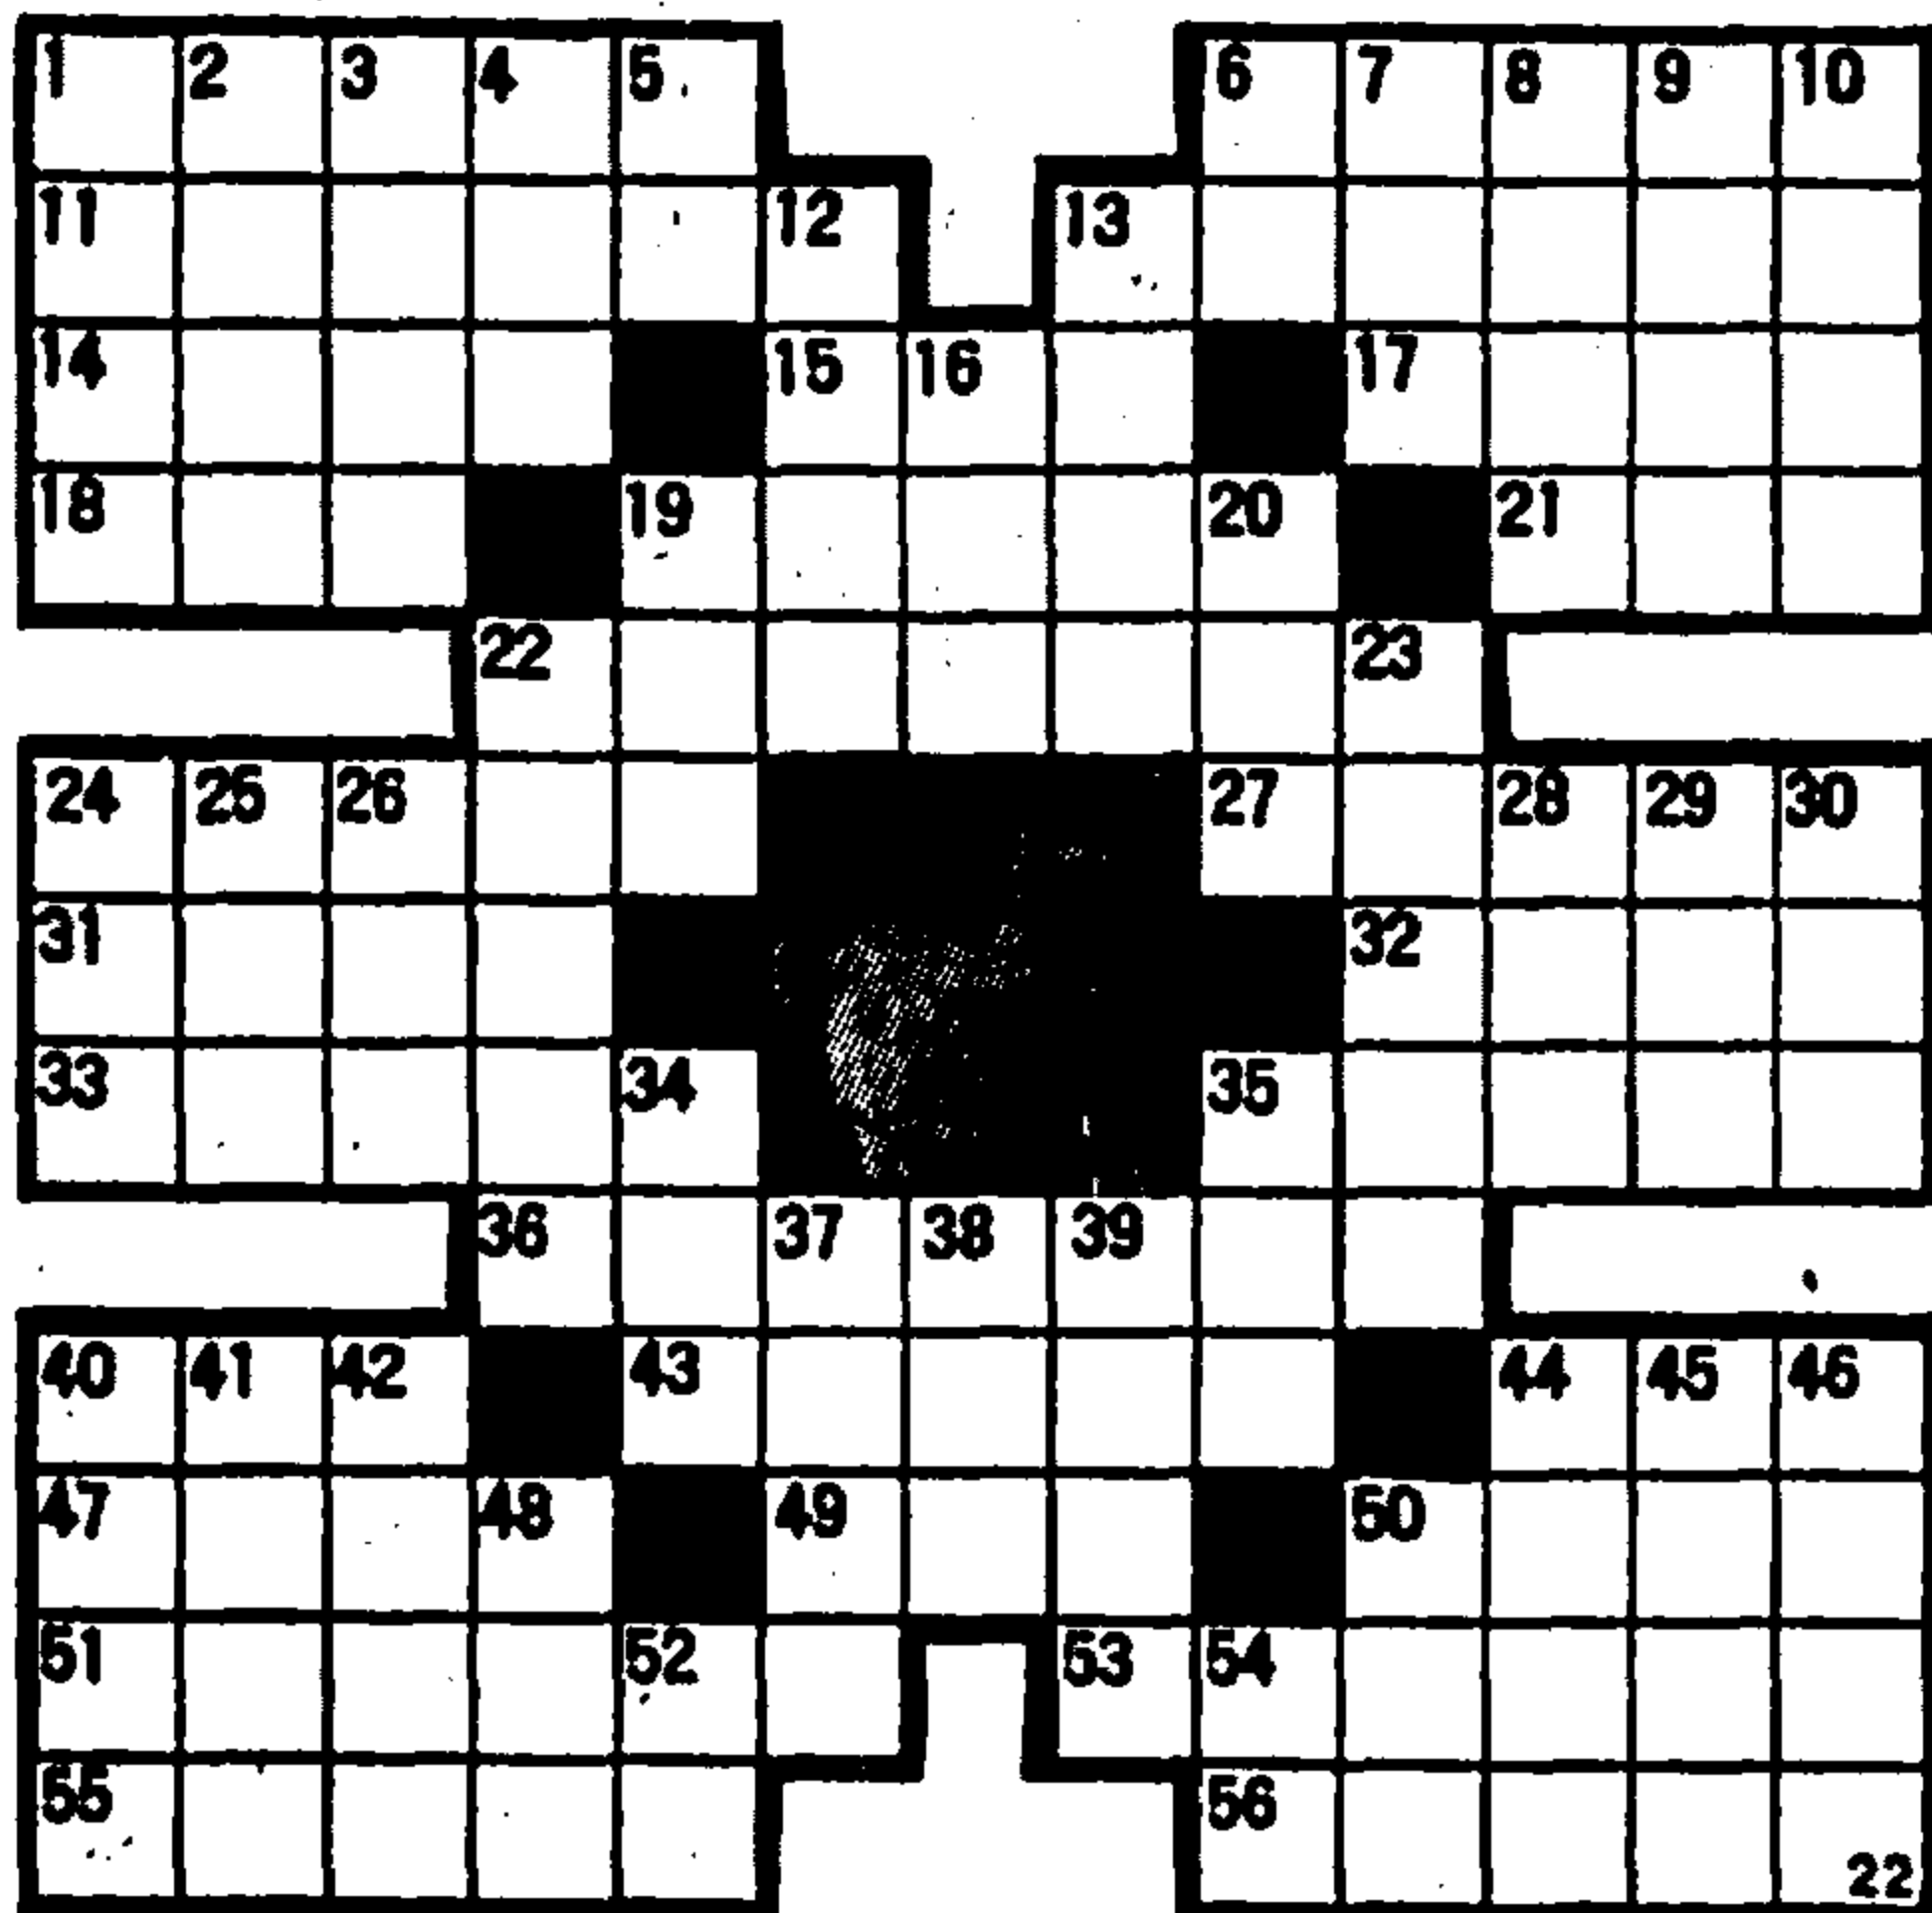

Brynner was born July 11, 1920 on Sakhalin Island, north of Japan. He spent his first ten years in China, then went to Paris for his education. He later worked with a Paris repertory company as a stage manager and actor while studying philosophy at the Sorbonne. Two years after receiving his B.S. degree, he came to America with a touring company of "Twelfth Night." In 1946, he made his Broadway debut opposite Mary Martin in "Lute Song" and his show business career was firmly established!

Power to the pound?

A well-rounded view of what it means to be fat in today's weight-conscious America is the subject of "The Fat of the Land," a "Wide World: Special" to be presented on the ABC Television Network, Wednesday, June 26.

The program, according to its host, hefty William Conrad, is the first television show which exposes, so to speak, all sides of fat.

The views range from those of a woman, who after flunking many diets, was so determined to lose weight she had her mouth wired shut, to members of a group called the Fat Underground, who feel they have a perfect right to be happily fat and are seriously annoyed by what they consider oppression and exploitation of fat people.

The "Wide World: Special" opens with Conrad promising viewers he will tell them more about this "too, too solid flesh." And he does.

Among the features of the show are:

An interview with entertainer-designer Nancy Austin, who is perfectly happy being fat. She designs colorful and classy dresses for women and does not allow a size under 16 in her line. "The sizes start at 16," she says, "but we don't mention sizes. From 16 to 20 is petite."

Interviews with doctors who discuss diets, behavior modification, the bypass operation and other methods of combating the problem of being overweight.

An interview with comedian Avery Schreiber who has recently lost 40 pounds and tells how his level of weight affects his comedy.

Violent storms lash NW suburbs, blackouts numerous

A Herald staff report
Wind, hard-driving rain and the threat of tornadoes struck the Northwest suburbs Thursday night, but caused only minor property damage. At least 20,000 customers of Commonwealth Edison Co. were without electricity at some time in the evening.

During the height of the rainstorm three persons were injured in a fiery crash on Algonquin Road near Goebbert Road in Arlington Heights. An Arlington Heights woman, Elsie Sander, 85, and two Colorado residents were passengers in a car which burst into flames after being struck in the rear by a car driven by a Park Ridge man, Michael Sellsberg. Mrs. Sander was reported in serious condition at Northwest Community Hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Landmeier of Grand Junction, Colo. were also taken to the hospital. Landmeier was in the intensive care unit suffering from burns. Mrs. Landmeier also was treated for burns.

BUT FOR THAT accident, power outages caused the most immediate effect on suburban families. Reports from area fire departments showed loss of electricity in a wide area and encompassing every community — but not every neighborhood — in the Northwest suburbs.

Among the storm damage reports:
• Reports of tornadoes were numerous but there were no reports of any funnel clouds touching ground. Reports of tornadoes touching down at Rand and Ill. Rte. 63 near Randhurst and at Rand and Ill. Rte. 53 were unfounded.

• Des Plaines sounded the weather alarm at 7:20 p.m. and within five minutes had 75 calls pouring into the fire and police departments inquiring about the alarm. Firemen reported large tree limbs down, power out on the north side at Wolf and Central and a transformer out at Maple and Touhy.

• In Arlington Heights and Mount Prospect traffic signals were not operating along Northwest Highway at some locations and police were dispatched to direct traffic.

• Mount Prospect police said high winds knocked down a tree onto a home on the 200 block of Mount Prospect Road, and firemen reported lightning hit a home at 316 N. Emerson. Numerous electrical wires were down.

• A spokesman at Palwaukee airport

reported power lines down in that area and runway lights were knocked out in the southeast section of the airport.

• Most of Hoffman Estates was reported out of power at 8:45 p.m. Police received at least five reports of electric power lines down and the switchboard was swamped with calls concerning weather conditions. There were no reports of serious damage in Schaumburg; no reports of flooding and no reports of wind damage.

• In Elk Grove Village and Rolling Meadows virtually no storm damage was reported.

• Buffalo Grove Police reported no serious damage, but there were scattered power outages in the village. A police spokesman said a tornado touchdown was reported north of Berkshire Trace in the village but said the report proved unfounded.

• In Wheeling, police said there was some wind damage. Residents called police to report tornado sightings, but none of the funnels touched ground.

• A Commonwealth Edison Co. spokesman said late Thursday night that power failures in the area were "fairly widespread."

Trustees criticize Larson for 'secret' consultant meet

by JOE FRANZ

Several members of the Buffalo Grove Village Board have criticized Village Mgr. Daniel Larson for not notifying the public of a special meeting last Tuesday.

It is the second time in three weeks the village has failed to notify the public of such a meeting.

In holding the meetings without notification, the village board violated a state statute, making the meetings illegal. The state law requires some representative of the village to notify the public, which includes the press, 24 hours in advance of all special meetings.

ALTHOUGH TUESDAY'S meeting was an executive session (closed door) which the public and press could not have attended, the law states they still should have been notified.

The special session was called to consider hiring a consulting firm to plan the village's proposed town center. The entire board was supposed to attend, but only Trustees Clarence Rech and Edward Osmon were present.

Village Pres. Gary Armstrong and trustees Thomas Mahoney and Mrs. Rech said Thursday Larson should have notified the press of the meeting.

Larson said Thursday he did not notify the press because he was not given instructions to do so by the board. He said he believes he should only take such action when given specific instructions.

"He (Larson) knows what he's supposed to do. He doesn't need me to tell him," Armstrong said. "I will talk to him today (Thursday) and make sure it doesn't happen again."

Trustee Mahoney said he either was not told about the meeting or forgot about it and therefore did not attend.

"I AGREE WITH YOU 100 per cent on this," he told The Herald. "It's a technicality but you should have been notified. I think he (Larson) should get his knuckles rapped because it's his job to do that."

Mrs. Rech agreed, saying, "That's his (Larson's) office's responsibility to notify the press. I had no way of knowing the press hadn't been notified." She said it is "nonsense" for Larson to assume he needs specific instructions from the board in order to notify the press.

Trustee James Shirley said he was aware of the meeting, but was unable to attend because of business commitments. "I agree with you on this. I don't know why you're not being told," he told The Herald.

"I take it the press is being notified, but they weren't two weeks ago and weren't this week again," Shirley said. "I'll see what I can do."

Trustee Randall Rathjen said he recalls that an executive session was called, but was unaware that it took place last Tuesday. He said, however, even if he had known about it, he would not have attended.

"THEY CALLED THAT meeting to consider a contract to hire a consulting firm which I don't think is a legitimate reason for an executive session," he said. The matter, he said, should be considered at an open meeting.

Village Clerk Verna Clayton said she also was not informed of Tuesday's meeting. Osmon could not be reached for comment.

The village conducted an illegal meeting June 1 to discuss proposed salary increases for the village administrative staff. That meeting was attended by all the elected officials except Rathjen and Mrs. Clayton.

Besides not notifying the public, the meeting was in conflict with a recent opinion issued by Illinois Atty. Gen. William Scott. The opinion states that closed door meetings only can be called for hiring and firing and not merely under the broad heading of "personnel." Thus, according to Scott, salary increases are not a legitimate topic for a closed meeting.

Administrators, parents to meet

Lake County schools to clarify music plan

by JILL BETTNER

A meeting between School Dist. 96 administrators and parents is planned for Monday night to clear up rumors and misinformation surrounding the school board's recent decision to revise the music program in local schools.

The session is scheduled for 8 p.m. at Twin Groves School, 1072 Ivy Hall Ln., Buffalo Grove.

The school board two weeks ago directed the Dist. 96 administration to change the focus of the music program to center more on general music education, rather than teaching students to play instruments. Accordingly, the music instruction staff will be reorganized next fall at Twin Groves School and there may be some cutbacks in band programs.

Dist. 96 Supt. William Hitzeman said the reasons for the changes are both economic and philosophical.

"We're basically taking a look at the whole music program and we see that there are some inequities in placing more emphasis on the instrumental component of the program versus the vocal,"

he said. "We see two teachers dealing with 250 instrumental students and one teacher dealing with 600 vocal students. It just isn't equitable."

The numbers will be reversed next September, with one teacher assigned to instrumental students and two instructors assigned to vocal or general music students. Hitzeman said he wants parents to understand the educational reasons for revising the program.

"People are upset that we're cutting the band program, and by cutting the staff in half, it's true that we are, but in the middle school philosophy, the emphasis is supposed to be on general music — studying music, writing music, playing music — covering the wide spectrum of music we want students to have," he explained.

THE SUPERINTENDENT added that teachers in all academic areas will also be encouraged to integrate more music into classroom work. For example, students will study the music of a particular period in history along with other aspects of life at that time, he said.

Currently, there are four bands at Twin Groves including a beginning band basically for fourth graders and older children just learning to play instruments, cadet band for fifth graders and an honor band made up of musically proficient students through the eighth grade.

Plans are to eliminate the beginning fourth grade and next fall.

"Looking down the pike we see Kildeer reopening in the fall of 1975 with kindergarten through fourth grade along with Willow Grove having kids in kindergarten through fourth grade. It would be difficult to have two beginning bands then, so we'll be starting kids out from now on at the fifth grade at Twin Groves. If we continued the fourth grade band next year, it would probably necessitate hiring at least one half-time person if not a full-time teacher and we just can't afford that," the superintendent explained.

Besides dropping the fourth grade band, Hitzeman said there is a chance that one or more of the other bands will be eliminated. That decision, he said, will be made next September by the music teachers.

COMMENTING on some of the rumors Hitzeman said he has heard are circulating among parents, the superintendent said.

• The band and chorus program will definitely not be eliminated.

• Band and chorus students will be given a period from 8:25 to 9:15 a.m. daily to practice as well as some opportunities before and after school when necessary.

• The band will continue to wear its uniforms.

• Students will be permitted to participate in the district music contest and if they do well, be allowed to go on to the state music contest.

"We'll be discouraging other outside performances, although we will judge requests on their individual merit," he said. "We think the band is primarily for students and we'll encourage more in-house performances for students and their parents."

HITZEMAN SAID he believes the band students will get enough competition in the district music contest.

"It's not our intent to give them competition. We're trying to develop ability and skill. The same philosophy can be achieved in school performing in front of their peers," he said.

The superintendent added that he would like to see the band participate in more athletic pep rallies, possibly perform at school basketball games and stage short monthly concerts.

Hitzeman said the changes in the music program are not being made because the school board or administration is dissatisfied in any way with the current program.

"We're not displeased with the band program or the band instructors," he said. "It's a matter of economics and employing a philosophical approach in what we're trying to do with kids."

'Sought Stavros' help

Valenza says Hart in on conspiracy

by LYNN ASINOF
Former Wheeling Trustee Michael Valenza Thursday testified that his ex-business partner William Hart initiated a conspiracy attempt against Bernard Wasmer, owner of the Duo-Sign Co. in Wheeling.

Valenza said he and Hart went to James Stavros, former Wheeling Township Democratic Committeeman, and asked him to talk to Wasmer about cancellation of an agreement between Hart and Wasmer.

Wasmer had paid $3,000 for Hart's agreement that he would not open a sign business within 75 miles of Wheeling.

The agreement was signed in September, 1970, when Hart sold his company to Wasmer and went to Florida.

HART IS CHARGED with conspiring with Stavros and former Wheeling Building Director William Bleber to commit extortion against Wasmer by trying to force the cancellation of that agreement. Hart, who had just returned from Florida, wanted to reenter the sign business in Wheeling.

Valenza said Stavros told both he and Hart in early January, 1972, "Oh, don't worry about it, fellows. I can take care of it for you. It can be handled."

According to Valenza, Hart said that he expected Stavros to first talk to Wasmer "in a gentlemanly fashion." Valenza said that if Wasmer didn't agree to cancel the agreement, "he (Stavros) would use the tactics he would normally use, which was screaming, yelling and cajoling." He said these tactics also included actual threats of harm.

VALENZA SAID HART became apprehensive in December, 1972, that Wasmer would not pay him due interest money because he had violated the agreement on non-competition.

The government plans to use this testimony to show that Hart wanted the agreement with Wasmer canceled, despite the fact that he received legal advice that the agreement was not binding.

Hart, Stavros, Bleber and Valenza are among six former and present Wheeling and Cook County officials indicted January 31 following a federal grand jury probe into shakedowns of Wheeling developers. Stavros and Bleber are no longer defendants in the case against Hart, having already pleaded guilty to charges against them.

During cross-examination, Hart's attorney, John Coughlan, did not question Valenza on the substance of his conversations with Hart and Stavros. Instead, he concentrated on Valenza's previous history of lying before the federal grand jury.

IN EARLIER COURT proceedings, Coughlan challenged the testimony of government witness Seymour Manual Kramer, president of Hollywood Builders. On Wednesday, Kramer testified that he cut off all new business to Duo Sign Co. after receiving a threatening phone call from Stavros.

Coughlan presented more than a dozen invoices which showed that Hollywood Builders gave Duo Sign more than $9,000 of new business following the phone call.

Kramer said the work he had cut off included "anything that would be obvious and would put me in an awkward position with Mr. Stavros." He said the $9,000 of work was not visible to Stavros.

Government prosecutors plan to call a final witness at 2 p.m. today. They will question Dan Ahern, Wasmer's attorney.

Coughlan said he plans to put Hart on the witness stand to testify in his own defense. The rest of the defense will rely on character witnesses.

Library plan activities for children, adults

Activities for both children and adults are planned this summer by the Wheeling Public Library District.

The library, which serves Wheeling and Buffalo Grove, will be known as the Indian Trails Public Library District after July 1.

Heading the list of activities is a series of family films to be shown at the Buffalo Grove Park District building, 150 Raupp Blvd., each Friday in July.

The film schedule includes "Bedknobs and Broomsticks," July 5; "Hans Christian Andersen" with Danny Kaye, July 12; "The Bellboy" with Jerry Lewis, July 19, and "Finian's Rainbow," July 26.

Among children's activities planned are a "Powwow puppet show" at 1:30 p.m., Tuesday, July 9, at the Wheeling library, 850 Jenkins Ct. A "powwow sports day" is set for Tuesday, Aug. 13 at the library extension at St. Mary's School in Buffalo Grove and a "powwow celebration and library open house" is scheduled for Saturday, Aug. 17, at the Wheeling library.

SEVERAL SPECIAL series programs will be offered for youngsters entering kindergarten through the eighth grade next fall.

Multimedia storytimes will be conducted for children in kindergarten, first and second grades July 16, 23, 30 and Aug. 6. Morning and evening sessions will be at the Wheeling library and afternoon sessions will be at the St. Mary's School summer extension library.

Third, fourth and fifth grade students may sign up for craft classes that offered July 17, 24 and 31 and Aug. 7. Again, morning and evening sessions will be at the Wheeling library and afternoon sessions at the St. Mary's School extension.

The techniques of making cartoon films may be explored by students who will enter the sixth, seventh and eighth grades next fall in afternoon sessions scheduled for July 18, 25 and Aug. 1 and 8 at the Wheeling library.

Registration for all special series programs will begin July 5 at the Wheeling library.

Valenza gets 60-day stay

Stavros starts prison term Tuesday

James Stavros, former Wheeling Township Democratic committeeman, will report Tuesday to a federal prison at Sandstone, Minn., to begin serving a four-year term.

Stavros will serve at least three years of the sentence under current parole policies. According to prison officials, he will likely remain at the Sandstone facility unless it is determined another prison could provide better rehabilitation.

The man who allegedly ran Wheeling politics from behind the scenes for more than 15 years pleaded guilty April 30 to extorting $92,000 from three Wheeling developers and filing a false income tax return. As part of an agreement with the U.S. Attorney's Office, the guilty plea came after eight other counts against Stavros were dropped.

Among the eight counts were charges of extorting an additional $91,250 from Wheeling builders.

BESIDES THE prison sentence handed down June 4 by U.S. District Court Judge Hubert Will, Stavros also received a $25,000 fine. He was granted six months to pay the fine.

Meanwhile, Michael Valenza, former Wheeling trustee and admitted felon, will not go to jail for at least 60 days.

Valenza received a delay in the start of his nine-month prison term from U.S. District Court Judge Bernard Decker Thursday morning. Valenza, who confessed guilt in a conspiracy to commit extortion, was to start his prison sentence Monday.

According to government officials, Va-lenza was given the extension because he has to get his personal affairs in order. They said he was unable to do this while cooperating with the federal prosecutors after pleading guilty to charges against him.

Valenza admitted to conspiring to extort $5,000 worth of furniture from Wickes Inc. in August, 1971. He was sentenced May 24 and at that time given 30 days to get his affairs in order before going to prison.

He was indicted Jan. 31 along with Stavros and four other former Wheeling and Cook County officials. William Bieber, former Wheeling building director is awaiting sentencing.

Another former trustee, William Hart, is currently on trial before U.S. District Court Judge Abraham Lincoln Marovitz. Two other Cook County officials, Nicholas Phillips and Ira Colitz were to start their trial Monday, but due to Phillips' attorney's illness, the trial was postponed until Sept. 23.

Panel OKs site plan for fire station

The final site plan for the Buffalo Grove Fire Department's $462,000 station on Dundee Road has been approved by the plan commission.

The commission, however, has not reviewed the final plat of survey, which must be approved before the matter is forwarded to the village board.

Wheeling Township Rural Fire Protection District officials asked the plan commission Wednesday night for permission to obtain a building permit prior to submitting the final plat. Members of the commission, however, said a village ordinance requires final plat approval first and that they do not have the power to waive the requirement.

Fire district officials plan to ask the village board to issue a building permit, pending final plat approval. Fire Chief Wayne Winter said the request was made so the start of construction is not delayed. By starting the station earlier, he said, an increase in construction costs might be avoided.

SINCE THE WHEELING fire district is a taxing body independent of the village, the fire station does not require approval of the village. Winter said the fire district is allowing the village to approve the plans as a courtesy.

The fire station will be located on the south side of Dundee Road, west of Kingswood United Methodist Church. The fire district paid $52,000 for the two-acre site and plans to spend an additional $412,000 for construction of the station.

The fire department recently has initiated a series of cutbacks so the station does not necessitate a tax increase for Wheeling district residents. Winter said he is hopeful future tax receipts will be enough to pay for the new station.

The new station will have a capacity for six vehicles and will become the new headquarters for the fire department when it is completed, probably early next year.

After the new facility is built, a pump and ambulance will remain in the present fire station, below the village hall, 50 Raupp Blvd. That equipment will be used to answer calls in the northern end of the district.

Cement strike delays Schoenbeck Rd. work

Resurfacing and widening of Schoenbeck Road between Rand and Palatine roads in Prospect Heights has been delayed due to the area-wide cement truck drivers' strike.

Officials in the Cook County Highway Department, in charge of the project, said the road is scheduled for repaving and widening to 26 feet. The work was authorized recently by the Cook County Board.

Although signs have been placed along Schoenbeck announcing the forthcoming improvements, officials said no work can begin until the cement drivers' strike is over because materials are not available. Officials also could give no indication how long the work would take to complete.

Violent storms lash NW suburbs, blackouts numerous

A Herald staff report

Wind, hard-driving rain and the threat of tornadoes struck the Northwest suburbs Thursday night, but caused only minor property damage. One serious accident was linked to the storm.

During the height of the rainstorm three persons were injured in a fiery crash on Algonquin Road near Goebbert Road in Arlington Heights. An Arlington Heights woman, Elsie Sander, 85, and two Colorado residents were passengers in a car which burst into flames after being struck in the rear by a car driven by a Park Ridge man, Michael Selligren. Mrs. Sander was reported in serious condition at Northwest Community Hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Landmeyer of Grand Junction, Colo. were also taken to the hospital. Landmeyer was in the intensive care unit suffering from burns. Mrs. Landmeyer also was treated for burns.

BUT FOR THAT accident, power outages caused the most immediate effect on suburban families. Reports from area fire departments showed loss of electricity in a wide area and encompassing every community — but not every neighborhood — in the Northwest suburbs.

Among the storm damage reports:
• Reports of tornadoes were numerous but there were no reports of any funnel clouds touching ground. Reports of tornadoes touching down at Rand and Ill.

Rte. 83 near Randhurst and at Rand and Ill. Rte. 53 were unfounded.

• Des Plaines sounded the weather alarm at 7:20 p.m. and within five minutes had 75 calls pouring into the fire and police departments inquiring about the alarm. Firemen reported large tree limbs down, power out on the north side at Wolf and Central and a transformer out at Maple and Touhy.

• In Arlington Heights and Mount Prospect traffic signals were not operating along Northwest Highway at some locations and police were dispatched to direct traffic.

• Mount Prospect police said high winds knocked down a tree onto a home on the 200 block of Mount Prospect Road, and firemen reported lightning hit a home at 318 N. Emerson. Numerous electrical wires were down.

• A spokesman at Palwaukee airport reported power lines down in that area and runway lights were knocked out in the southeast section of the airport.

• Most of Hoffman Estates was reported out of power at 8:45 p.m. Police received at least five reports of electric power lines down and the switchboard was swamped with calls concerning weather conditions. There were no reports of serious damage in Schaumburg; no reports of flooding and no reports of wind damage.

• In Elk Grove Village and Rolling Meadows virtually no storm damage was reported.

• Buffalo Grove Police reported no serious damage, but there were scattered power outages in the village. A police spokesman said a tornado touchdown was reported north of Berkshire Trace in the village but said the report proved unfounded.

• In Wheeling, police said there was some wind damage. Residents called police to report tornado sightings, but none of the funnels touched ground.

• A Commonwealth Edison Co. spokesman said late Thursday night that power failures in the area were "fairly widespread." Faced with widespread power failures, the spokesman could give no immediate estimate of the number of homes affected.

Railroad ordered to pay one-third

Soo Line seeks new hearing on crossing-gate expenses

by JOHN MAES

The Soo Line R.R. is petitioning the Illinois Commerce Commission to reconsider a recent decision that the railroad assume one-third of the cost of crossing gates at the treacherous Mannheim Road-Touhy Avenue grade crossing in Des Plaines.

Soo Line is asking the ICC for a rehearing on the matter and a possible amendment to its decision ordering the cost of the gates. The gates are expected to exceed $38,500 and be equally divided between the city, the railroad and the state division of highways.

The gateless crossing has been the scene of at least one fatal train-car accident since 1964 and another accident this week that hospitalized two persons. The crossing is considered by police to be one of the city's most hazardous.

DES PLAINE'S officials learned about a week ago of the ICC order to install the gates and have initiated efforts to secure the city's share, about $12,830 from state motor fuel tax funds.

The city council Monday unanimously agreed to appropriate the funds to help finance the project.

City Corporation Counsel Robert DiLeonardi said he does not feel installation of the gates will be held up due to the Soo Line petition. "The commerce commission hearing examiner recognizes the urgent need for the gates to be installed," he said.

"The railroad admits there is a need, also. It's only a question of who pays and I don't think there will be a delay based upon the sharing of the cost."

The ICC order gives the railroad a year to put up the gates. DiLeonardi also said the city may file a written response to the petition.

WHILE THE Soo Line petition does not object to the installation of the gates, the company contends that dividing the cost of the project equally is unfair. In the past, according to the petition, railroads have been assessed for only 10 per cent of the cost on such projects by the ICC and the public has been ordered to pay the other 90 per cent.

The petition referred to the ICC decision to divide the cost as an "arbitrary and capricious attempt to deviate from its established practice in this matter."

During hearings on the crossing gate, ICC officials said it was "fair and reasonable" that Soo Line, the city and the state each pay one-third of the cost.

Installation of the gates is for the "sole benefit of the public" and the money of a private corporation should not be used for a public improvement, according to the petition.

The commission also has ordered the railroad to pay the expected $2,100 yearly cost of maintaining the gates.

THE ICC ORDER comes as a long-awaited relief to city and police officials. Police Lt. Mike Clark praised the decision and said, "What it will do is that we're hopeful that it will be reflected in fewer train-car accidents and serious injury accidents."

While the wrecks involving trains colliding with cars have not been numerous, Clark said the ones that occur there "have been the most ferocious."

Crossing gates were in operation at Touhy and Mannheim until 1964 when the crossing consisted of two tracks. When one track was removed, they received permission from the ICC to take out the gates.

A man and a woman were hospitalized from injuries they suffered when their auto was struck by a northbound freight train at the intersection Tuesday. In Lutheran General Hospital Thursday were Ralph Gibbs, 62, of 1107 Pratt, Chicago, and a Des Plaines woman, Diana Zelig, 40, of 2614 Estes Ave.

Mikva reveals net worth

Former Congressman Abner J. Mikva, running for a seat in the 10th Congressional District, has released a detailed public statement of his current net worth.

The statement shows Mikva's net worth at $89,200, including stocks and bonds, equity in pension funds and cash in bank accounts.

In a prepared release, Mikva said that candidates for public office "must be prepared to live in a financial fishbowl."

"When the people know about a public official's business interests, they can determine for themselves whether or not that official is concerned about the public interest or his private interests," he said.

THE NET WORTH statement shows equity of $36,000 on Mikva's $80,000 house with a $44,000 mortgage; cash in banks totaling $3,000 — $1,500 at Continental Illinois, $1,000 at American National Bank and $500 at Exchange National Bank; Pension Fund equity totaling $19,000 — $5,000 from the State of Illinois and $14,000 from the U.S. Congress; a $500 balance due on the mortgage from sale of a home; and cars, furniture and other items valued at $10,000.

Mikva's stock and bond holdings total $25,200 including Ero Manufacturing Co., 2,600 shares for $3,000; Searle Co., 120 shares for $2,700; Inland Steel Co., 100 shares for $3,300; Skyline Co., 111 shares for $2,000; U.S. Gypsum, 100 shares for $2,000; Universal Oil Products, 100 shares at $1,500; Exchange National Bank, 351 shares at $3,000; Fission Limited, 100 shares at $1,000; State of Israel Bonds, $4,000; Harper Court, $100; HIF debenture, $200; and Executive House debenture, $400. Payments to stock broker Harris Upham total $4,500 making the net worth of stocks and bonds $20,700.

Earlier this year, Mikva released his income tax return for 1973 and copies are available for public inspection at his campaign office, 3415 Church St., Skokie.

AS PART OF HIS campaign for Congress, Mikva has promised full disclosure — along with a continued practice of limiting campaign contributions to $3,000, allowing only one committee to accept funds for his campaign and disclosing the name of every contributor.

Pat Healy, a press aid for U.S. Rep. Samuel Young, R-10th, Mikva's opponent, said the congressman has "discussed" releasing his net worth.

"He was considering it about a month ago but he got sidetracked," said said. "Congressman Young has been extremely busy with legislation, including the campaign reform law."

Miss Healy added that a record of Young's congressional expenditures is open for public inspection at the congressman's Skokie office.

C&NW fined for noise violations

by FRAN SLIMMER

The Chicago and North Western Ry. was convicted Thursday on 18 charges of violating Des Plaines' anti-noise ordinance and was fined $560 plus $100 court costs.

The city and the railroad met in Cook County Circuit Court for a jury trial Thursday. This is the second time Des Plaines has charged North Western with violation of its anti-noise ordinance. In Thursday's case, the city charged the railroad with 27 separate violations of its 55-decibel noise limit. The court found the North Western guilty on 18 of those counts.

The maximum fine that could have been imposed for each offense was $500 — for a $13,500 possible total.

Corporation Counsel Robert DiLeonardi said the city is "reasonably satisfied with the results." This is the second case Des Plaines has won against the North Western, and DiLeonardi said he hoped these decisions in favor of the city would persuade the railroad to take the necessary steps to curb the noise.

WHEN RAILROAD representatives testified Thursday, they said North Western is doing what it can to muffle the noise and is expecting a shipment of muffling devices within a month or two.

The city hopes the devices will be effective, DiLeonardi said.

The city argued for a higher fine, but has found the courts are reluctant to impose the maximum penalty in such cases, he said. Also, the court probably took into consideration good faith shown by the railroad as far as its attempts to muffle the noise, he added.

The city gave evidence showing on certain dates "the noise levels at residential boundary lines reached beyond the tolerance levels of the ordinance," DiLeonardi said. This happened on consecutive days and the court probably considered that fact in their decision, he said.

AREA RESIDENTS have complained of noise from locomotives entering and leaving the railroad yard. The yard is adjacent to primarily residential areas located northeast of the Wolf Road-Thacker Street intersection on the city's northwest side.

The railroad uses the yard to store equipment, including the locomotives used in the company's commuter operation.

The city adopted the anti-noise ordinance after residents near the yard petitioned the city council to take action against the railroad operations. Residents complained that for more than three years, the railroad had been starting locomotives as early as 4 a.m. each day.

City inspectors conducted tests at the railroad facilities and determined the operation exceeded the noise limits set in the ordinance.

When the first complaint was filed last year, railroad attorneys argued that the city could not impose its ordinance on the company.

They stated that federal regulations on noise pollution superceded the city's ordinance. However, a circuit court judge denied the railroad's request to dismiss the case on those grounds. The city won its case and the railroad was fined $80.

City to stop taking sidewalk applications

The city will stop taking applications for the 50/50 cooperative sidewalk program July 5.

The move was made because of the strike of the Ready-Mix concrete truck drivers strike, now in its fifth week, which has caused a huge backlog of concrete work and a delay in completion of the project.

Each year the city contracts with residents to pay 50 per cent of sidewalk repairs. This year the council allocated nearly $10,000 for their share of the cost.

Ald. Richard Ward (8th) said Monday 54 jobs have already been completed and 144 are still waiting to be done. Work has been halted by the concrete truck drivers strike, he said.

The city has already committed $14,000 to the program, according to Ward. Another $5,967 is left in the budget and can still be pledged to sidewalk repairs requested by residents.

'Officer Friendly' program in fall

An Officer Friendly Program, sponsored by the Sears Foundation in conjunction with local police departments, will begin this fall.

The program, designed for kindergarten through third-grade students, is designed to help youngsters learn about their local police departments and develop a better rapport with law enforcement officials.

Workbooks for each grade level have been developed and will be revised to make them more local. Revisions will include substituting the Mount Prospect Police Department patch and the words "Mount Prospect Police Department" in places where they are applicable.

The Sears Foundation finances the program and will pay for the workbooks and any demonstration equipment used by Officer Friendly when he appears before students.

River Trails painting OK'd

The school board Tuesday approved expenditures for painting at River Trails Junior High and for the purchase of a utility truck for use by the maintenance department.

Bricker Decorating Co. of Mount Prospect was awarded a contract to do extensive painting at the junior high at a cost of $8,450. Classrooms, the library, the gym and exterior portions of the building will be painted. The school has not been painted since its construction in 1965.

A 1974 Chevrolet truck was purchased from Lattor Moore Sales Co. of Arlington Heights at a cost not to exceed $4,000.

2 per cent milk for schools

The board agreed to readvertise for bids for milk for the coming school year. Bids will be sought for 2 per cent milk rather than whole milk, a move which is expected to reflect a lower price. While it is less expensive than whole milk, 2 per cent milk has the same nutritional quality, administration officials said.

Bids had been received on whole milk several months ago but none were accepted in order to give the administration time to investigate the possibility of purchasing 2 per cent milk.

By a 6-1 margin, the board voted to delete payment of $12,000 to K. E. Unteet and Associates from the bills to be paid. The architectural firm is handling life safety code work at several district schools.

The vote to delete payment was made after the board voted 5-2 in favor of paying all bills including the Unteet payment. Several board members objected to the payment because they felt the money should be withheld to insure completion of all work.

Board member Ted Wattenberg did not go along with the majority in calling for the withholding of payment because he felt the administration's recommendation to pay the bill should be followed. Wattenberg also said the board should have questioned the payment prior to the meeting rather than during the meeting.

In voting to withhold payment the board decided to revise the payment figure downward to insure completion of the work.

Salary hangup for school budget

by LINDA PUNCH

The Dist. 63 Board of Education is studying a proposed 1974-75 budget of $2.2 million, which cannot be completed until a settlement is reached in salary negotiations with teachers.

Dist. 63 Business Mgr. James Bowen said there is no way to estimate the final budget since salaries "make up 70 per cent" of the expenditures. He said the tax rate of $2.79 per $100 per assessed valuation may drop because of an increase in assessed valuation.

The $2.2 million budget is a 19.9 per cent increase from this year's expenditures of $1.9 million in the same areas. Salaries for 1973-74 totaled $3,272,445.

THE DIST. 63 BOARD met Wednesday night to hear questions from the public on the tentative budget. More than 30 people attended the meeting.

Dist. 63 Supt. G. Allan Gogo said the proposed budget includes plans for expanding the professional staff to include learning resource teachers and social workers for the nine elementary schools, resource teachers and physical education teacher aides for Apollo Junior High School and a reading coordinator and classroom teacher for Gemini Junior High School.

The proposed budget also calls for two full-time district resource teachers to work under the assistant superintendent in implementing curriculum.

Board members and Gogo came under criticism from parents and teachers last spring when the board cut 32 of 350 teaching positions in the district. Parents of junior high students later charged the

That's right... teeter-totter 'top priority'

Board members studying the proposed 1974-75 budget for Dist. 63 were surprised to see a teeter-totter listed as a top priority for Ballard School, Niles.

Ballard School officials had listed the playground equipment as third priority for the school under the district's new budgeting procedure based on need. Supt. G. Allan Gogo, however, jumped the teeter-totter to the first priority category.

When questioned by board members, Gogo said an inspection of the teeter-totter caused him to give the request more weight.

"Everytime the kids get off the teeter-totter they take a little wood with them," he said. "It's either get a new one or do without."

Cutbacks forced the schools into new programs that eliminate team teaching and individualized attention for students.

THE 1974-75 BUDGET provides for $1,267,978 in educational spending, exclusive of teacher's salaries. The education fund is used for professional salaries, program improvements, services, equipment and supplies.

Expenditures totaling $769,035 are budgeted in the operations, building and maintenance fund, a 14.6 per cent increase from this year. Bowen said there is a decrease in maintenance fund due to completion of Life Safety improvements at district schools which cost the district $150,000 in 1973-74.

The 1974-75 budget also includes $147,318 for transportation, a 7.7 per cent increase from this year. More than $128,000 of the fund is spent on transportation of special education students.

Copies of the proposed budget may be examined by the public at the Dist. 63 administration office, 8320 Ballard Rd., Niles.

Township introducing employe 'hotline'

The Maine Township Hotline is introducing a new service for bringing employers and prospective employees together.

Industrial and commercial firms with full- or part-time positions available or families needing help should call the Hotline, 825-0860, between 4 p.m. and midnight. The job board will relay information about job openings to job seekers, who will then contact the prospective employers directly.

The Hotline already has received a number of calls from young people seeking a variety of jobs ranging from retail sales and general office work to housecleaning and lawn care.

4-hour Superparade makes return visit

Superparade has returned.

The four-hour parade that wound its way through Des Plaines last year and was billed as the longest parade in the northwest suburbs, will return tonight at 7:30 p.m.

The parade is sponsored by the Illinois Veterans of Foreign Wars and is part of this year's convention, being held in Rosemont.

The parade will begin at Forest and Lee streets, go north on Lee to downtown Des Plaines turning east of Ellinwood to River Road. Streets in the parade area will be closed to all traffic, including residents, at 8:30 p.m.

Free Hearing Tests Set For Senior Citizens

Electronic hearing tests will be given at Beltone Hearing Aid Service offices on Monday and Tuesday.

Factory-trained hearing aid specialists will be at all of the offices listed below to perform the tests.

Anyone who has trouble hearing or understanding is welcome to have a test using the latest electronic equipment to determine his or her particular loss. Diagrams showing how the ear works and some of the causes of hearing loss will be available.

Everyone should have a hearing test at least once a year if there is any trouble at all hearing clearly. Even people now wearing a hearing aid or those who have been told nothing could be done for them should have a hearing test and find out about the latest methods of hearing correction. The hearing test will be given Monday and Tuesday. If you can't get there on Monday or Tuesday, call one of the numbers below and arrange for an appointment at another time. Shut-in service is available in your home. Just phone the Beltone Hearing Aid Service nearest to you.

Swim pools open

The Des Plaines Park District pools are now open to the public. The use of the four park district pools is offered from 1 p.m. to 5 p.m. and from 7 to 9 p.m. Monday through Saturday, and from 1 to 5 p.m. on Sundays and holidays, subject to weather conditions.

The following general admission prices are available to residents and nonresidents alike: child, 75 cents, grade school and high school; adult, $1.25, over high school age.

Through a cooperative agreement with the Mount Prospect Park District, the Des Plaines season passes will be valid for admission into all of the Mount Prospect swimming pools. For information concerning season passes or the swimming pools in general, contact the park office at 296-6106.

Swim club begins practice

The Des Plaines Park District learn-to-swim program will begin Monday at the four park district pools. Classes for all age groups will be conducted by certified instructors. All classes will meet every weekday morning through July 12. A second session will be offered beginning July 15 continuing through Aug. 2. Classes in junior and senior lifesaving will be taught at Rand Park pool on Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays, from 10 a.m. to noon.

Several class openings are available, particularly at the district's Maine West pool. For information, contact the Park District office at 296-6106.

Softball draws pro athletes

A softball game featuring professional sports stars will highlight the Third Maryville Chuck Wagon Day Sunday afternoon at Maryville Academy, 1150 N. River Rd., Des Plaines.

The softball game, which pits senior boys of Maryville against the professionals, will run from 1 to 3 p.m. Pro stars expected to attend the game include past and present Chicago Bears Ric Coody, Glen Holloway, Doug Buffone, Mike Pyle, George Connors, Bill De Correvant, Wayne Mac, Bob Newton and Bob Ascher; Jay Berwanger, recipient of the First Heisman Trophy; Chicago Fire player Virgil Carter; Chicago City Chief player George Seals; Chicago Bull general manager John Kerr and player Tom Boerwinkle; ex-major league pitcher Johnny Klippstein; Blackhawk's Stan Mikita and Cliff Koroll; Chicago Cougar Reg Fleming; and pro-stars Jess Curchin, Johnny Johnson, John Latner, and Vic Schwall.

Small group tours of the Maryville grounds will be conducted every half hour from 1 to 3 p.m. Entertainment, ranging from a carnival for youngsters to a rock session and dancing for adults, will be from 3 to 10 p.m. Music will be provided by Kokomo Wellington, the Dynatones, Joe Kelly, Paul New, Adolph's Trio, Tony Smith and the Aristocrats and the Malcolm X 16 Brass Band.

The $25 per person donation also includes an unlimited supply of roast beef, ham, hot dogs and beverages. All proceeds will go to the children of Maryville.

River Trails citizens' building panel to meet

The Dist. 26 citizens' committee looking into building needs at district schools will meet at Bond School, 350 Wolf Rd., Mount Prospect, Monday at 7:30 p.m.

Bond School will be the second building to come under discussion by the committee, which is holding its meetings at each district school as it is discussed. Park View School in Mount Prospect was the first building on the committee's agenda.

The 13-member committee, which includes representatives from each of the district's six schools, has been charged with the duty of examining and recommending needed building changes to the board of education.

Joy Daskal, committee secretary, said the group has decided to discuss each school in general before tackling specific problems related to each building.

The committee plans to make specific recommendations to the board about design needs at each school, including equipment needs. With this in mind the committee has decided to make recommendations which will provide each school with the opportunity for options of having both open and self-contained classrooms.

The committee, chaired by former Dist. 26 board member Marsha Lupton, has set a tentative October deadline for presenting its findings to the board.

Three youths caught in yard here charged with burglary

Two youths and a 16-year-old juvenile were arrested after they reportedly burglarized the home of a Des Plaines resident and were hiding out in some bushes in back of the house when they were caught.

Police said Thursday they arrested Frank Marcus, 17, of 1520 Mount Prospect Rd. and a Mount Prospect youth, Dennis Jackson, also 17, of 746 W. Dempster St. The 16-year-old was identified only as being from McHenry County.

According to reports, they burglarized the home of Richard Pospiech, 232 Westmore Rd., late Wednesday evening and took a clock and a radio valued at a total of $45.

Police said when Pospiech's daughter returned home from work she saw a rear door ajar and heard noises come from some bushes outside the house and summoned police.

Jackson was apprehended as he attempted to run from police and another patrolman discovered the other two in the bushes in the backyard.

Jackson and Marcus later admitted their part in the burglary while the unidentified youth acted as a lookout, according to police.

The allegedly stolen radio and clock were recovered in the Pospiech yard.

Burglary charges were placed against Jackson, who was released on $5,000 bond Thursday morning and Marcus who was taken to the Cook County House of Corrections. Both are scheduled for a July 18 appearance in the Des Plaines branch of Cook County Circuit Court.

The 16-year-old was turned over to local juvenile authorities pending a conference.

Violent storms lash NW suburbs, blackouts numerous

A Herald staff report
Wind, hard-driving rain and the threat of tornadoes struck the Northwest suburbs Thursday night, but caused only minor property damage. At least 20,000 customers of Commonwealth Edison Co. were without electricity at some time in the evening.

During the height of the rainstorm three persons were injured in a fiery crash on Algonquin Road near Goebbert Road in Arlington Heights. An Arlington Heights woman, Elaine Sander, 35, and two Colorado residents were passengers in a car which burst into flames after being struck in the rear by a car driven by a Park Ridge man, Michael Selligren. Mrs. Sander was reported in serious condition at Northwest Community Hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Landmeier of Grand Junction, Colo. were also taken to this hospital. Landmeier was in the intensive care unit suffering from burns. Mrs. Landmeier also was treated for burns.

BUT FOR THAT accident, power outages caused the most immediate effect on suburban families. Reports from area fire departments showed loss of electricity in a wide area and encompassing every community — but not every neighborhood — in the Northwest suburbs.

Among the storm damage reports:

- Reports of tornadoes were numerous but there were no reports of any funnel clouds touching ground. Reports of tornadoes touching down at Rand and Ill. Rte. 53 near Randhurst and at Rand and Ill. Rte. 53 were unfounded.
- Des Plaines sounded the weather siren at 7:20 p.m. and within five minutes had 75 calls pouring into the fire and police departments inquiring about the alarm. Firemen reported large tree limbs down, power out on the north side at Wolf and Central and a transformer out at Maple and Touhy.

- In Arlington Heights and Mount Prospect traffic signals were not operating along Northwest Highway at some locations and police were dispatched to direct traffic.
- Mount Prospect police said high winds knocked down a tree onto a home on the 200 block of Mount Prospect Road, and firemen reported lightning hit a home at 316 N. Emerson. Numerous electrical wires were down.
- A spokesman at Palwaukee airport reported power lines down in that area and runway lights were knocked out in the southeast section of the airport.

- Most of Hoffman Estates was reported out of power at 8:45 p.m. Police received at least five reports of electric power lines down and the switchboard was swamped with calls concerning weather conditions. There were no reports of serious damage in Schaumburg; no reports of flooding and no reports of wind damage.
- In Elk Grove Village and Rolling Meadows virtually no storm damage was reported.

- Buffalo Grove Police reported no serious damage, but there were scattered power outages in the village. A police spokesman said a tornado touchdown was reported north of Berkshire Trace in the village but said the report proved unfounded.
- In Wheeling, police said there was some wind damage. Residents called police to report tornado sightings, but none of the funnels touched ground.
- A Commonwealth Edison Co. spokesman said late Thursday night that power failures in the area were "fairly widespread."

Faulty units may leak deadly gas

1,700 '65, '67 furnaces in violation of local codes

by BOB GALLAS

Furnace installations in an estimated 1,700 village homes built in 1965 and 1967 apparently violated Elk Grove Village building codes in effect at that time.

A check of village codes by Building Director Thomas Rettenbacher Thursday showed that typical furnace installations in those two years violated at least two code requirements.

Rettenbacher said he believes the violations may exist in all of the 1,700 homes involved because furnaces were installed by the same company using the same specifications.

The Herald disclosed Tuesday that defective furnaces that may be leaking deadly fumes are installed in the 1,700 Centex Corp.-built homes.

ONE VIOLATION found in the installations involves the air-intake grille on the door of furnace rooms. The grille, according to village code, does not have enough "net-free area" for venting. Although the vents are large enough to meet codes, the openings for admitting air are not.

Undersized vent connectors for furnaces and hot water heaters are a second violation, with some documented as being one inch smaller in diameter than they should be. Vent connectors are pipes leading from the furnace and water heaters to chimney pipes.

A third violation involves rooftop vent pipes which may be too short. According to codes at the time, pipes had to extend at least two feet above the highest point on the roof line. Only pipes with special "wind tested" covers are exempt from this requirement.

EXAMPLES OF the violations were documented in an engineer's report to the furnace manufacturer more than a year ago. The report, however, did not blame the violations for the heat exchanger failures.

Rettenbacher said village inspectors will "make a thorough inspection from the ground up" of furnace installations in the area to make sure they are in compliance with the building codes as soon as a metallurgical report from an independent testing firm is complete.

The problem furnaces were manufactured by Johnson Corp. of Bellevue, Ohio. A large number of heat exchangers have been cracking and corroding, allowing toxic fumes to escape into heated air going into the homes.

The village sent two faulty heat exchangers in for complete testing in an effort to determine exactly what is causing the heat exchanger failure.

More than 50 residents seek immediate furnace checks

Village officials have received more than 50 calls from residents who want their furnaces checked immediately.

The calls have come in response to a village offer of free inspections that came after the Herald disclosed that an estimated 1,700 or more defective furnaces that may be leaking deadly fumes are in Elk Grove Village homes.

In addition to the 50 calls received at village hall, local heating contractors also report numerous inquiries. One woman called The Herald to report that she once passed out from furnace fumes that had leaked into her home.

"I'll put the whole building department on inspections if the calls increase," said Building Director Thomas Rettenbacher.

RETTENBACHER SAID he has assigned one inspector, Robert Callahan, to check furnaces full time. Callahan has worked with village officials investigating the cause of defects suspected in as many as 1,700 furnaces for two years.

Rettenbacher said he has received more than 50 calls since Tuesday when The Herald disclosed the widespread incidence of cracked and corroded heat exchangers in an area of the village bounded by Salt Creek, Keswick Road, Devon Avenue and the western village limits.

Callahan said of the nine homes he has been able to inspect so far, two have defective heat exchangers, three have no problems and four were termed "Doubtful."

"I told everybody to be sure to have their heating system checked out before the next heating season," said Callahan. He explained that he wasn't able to determine if the four "doubtful" furnaces

TWO VILLAGE HEATING contractors have repaired more than 150 heat exchangers over the past three years. According to Rettenbacher, the number of faulty heat exchangers which haven't been detected yet, plus those repaired by contractors outside the village probably will put the number substantially higher.

Servaire-Metropolitan Service Co. of Berwyn has installed virtually all of the heating systems in Elk Grove Village, including those in the area where heat exchanger failure has been most prevalent.

The area is bounded by Salt Creek on the east, Devon Avenue on the south, Keswick Road on the north and the western edge of the village.

Robert Curran, president of Metropolitan-Servaire, told The Herald Tuesday that furnace installations were checked and approved by Federal Housing Administration inspectors. The approval is evidence that the installations were proper, according to Curran.

WHEN REACHED BY telephone by The Herald Thursday, Curran refused to comment.

Homes in the problem area were inspected by the FHA since the village did not have building inspectors at that time. John Wanner, director of the Chicago office of the Department of Housing and Urban Development, said earlier this week that to his knowledge, the furnaces were approved because they met the standards. He said he will attempt to search out reports for that year.

WHEN ASKED HOW a violation of building codes would get by his inspectors, Wanner said that FHA thoroughly inspects heating systems by approving the plans, not the actual system. FHA field inspectors are "generalists, not specialists," according to Wanner, and give the actual installations only a cursory inspection.

"If there was a violation, then Northern Illinois Gas should not have hooked up the system — they're the experts," said Wanner.

Wanner said that the FHA would not have told Servaire-Metropolitan that the installations were correct, but would basically approve the plans for the installations only.

Wanner added that there could possibly be an oversight on the part of the heating contractor putting in different equipment than the plans called for.

'Cat' busy in many areas?

by TOM VON MALDER

Arlington Heights police Thursday said they have linked the suspected Elk Grove Village cat burglar to 42 burglaries in their village. The burglaries date to January, 1973, police said.

Meanwhile, Elk Grove Village police are preparing at least 10 burglary charges against the man, Robert E. Williams Jr., 20, of 29 Grange Pl., Elk Grove. Elk Grove police said they believe Williams may be responsible for as many as 15 burglaries and seven attempts during the last two months in Elk Grove Village.

Mount Prospect police, who arrested Williams early Wednesday and charged him with four burglaries, said they have discovered a fifth burglary in the same 1101 Hunt Club Rd. apartment building and have linked Williams to it. In addition, Mount Prospect police are investigating eight other burglaries which they believe Williams committed during the past few weeks.

Arlington Heights Police Capt. Irvin McDougall said his department allegedly has oral statements from William that links him to the 42 burglaries. According to McDougall, two Arlington Heights police detectives drove Williams around that village pointing out various burglary locations and having him either say he had or had not committed burglaries at each location.

WILLIAMS IS BEING held by Mount Prospect police on $100,000 bond, pending an appearance Wednesday in the Mount Prospect branch of Cook County Circuit Court. He was to have been sent to the Cook County Jail late Thursday.

The Herald also learned Thursday that Elk Grove Village police are seeking a second man in connection with the burglaries in that village. The second arrest is "imminent," according to Lt. William Kohnke.

The man sought by Elk Grove Village police, an area resident, was linked to the case by a 16-year-old girl, who was found in Williams' car by Mount Prospect police shortly after his arrest.

According to the girl, who is a "walk-away" from the Nichoff Pavilion psychiatric ward of Alexian Brothers Medical Center, the second man allegedly helped Williams in several of the Elk Grove Village burglaries, police said. Police added the girl, who is not being charged by either police department, confessed to being involved in one break-in.

Police also said Williams allegedly would take money from stolen purses and wallets and then hide them under

Trailer park could face MSD lawsuit

An Elk Grove Township trailer park was threatened with a lawsuit Thursday by the Metropolitan Sanitary District.

The MSD board voted to give the Lehman Trailer Park, 500 W. Touhy Ave., until June 28 to stop dumping improperly treated sewage into Higgins-Willow Creek or face a lawsuit.

Sanitary district officials said negotiations with park owner Betty Lehman began last summer. The MSD said a treatment plant operated at the trailer park fails to remove as much of the pollutants from the sewage as required by law before the effluent is emptied into the creek.

The sanitary district board order requires bi-weekly samples from the treatment plant to be submitted to the district.

The threatened suit would seek an injunction banning the pollution and a fine of between $100 and $1,000 for each day of violation of the MSD order.

garbage, according to the girl. Purse and wallets were among the cat burglar's most favored items, police said.

WHEN WILLIAMS was arrested, police said they recovered a gold Buddha statue, four watches, a set of keys, three lighters, a mirror in a green case, a blue cloth cigarette case and a gold pill box. All these items allegedly are linked to burglaries in Elk Grove Village, where a total of 15 burglaries and seven attempts have been credited to the same cat burglar and his accomplices.

From the four Mount Prospect burglaries, with which Williams is charged, police said they have recovered three wallets, a purse, checkbook, pocketbook and beer.

Mount Prospect police said the other eight burglaries that might be linked to Williams mainly occurred at the Alpine and Mount Shire apartment complexes.

Elk Grove Village police Thursday confirmed they had recovered much of the property stolen from that village in an apartment at 2842 Montrose Ave., Chicago. They said the apartment was leased to Williams. The recovered items included hand calculators and stereo equipment.

According to Arlington Heights police, Williams was convicted of a burglary in Arlington Heights about three months ago and is on five years' probation.

Owner of dog that attacked girl fined

by STIRLING MORITA
A judge pointed to a 5-year-old Hanover Park girl with facial scars, a reminder of 60 stitches used to close cuts from a dog attack, and said he felt sorry for her.

Associate Cook County Circuit Court Judge Albert LaPlante made the comments Thursday after convicting Dennis Tresidder, 7018 Hawthorne Ln., Hanover Park, of harboring and maintaining a vicious animal. Tresidder was fined $100.

Patricia Kirby, daughter of Patricia Kirby, 7028 Hawthorne Ln., testified before LaPlante with her hair pulled back to show the scars. She was accompanied by her mother, 10 adults and 10 young neighbors.

TRESIDDER TOLD the court he had his Dalmatian destroyed last month at an animal hospital. Mrs. Heidrun Schwarz, of 7011 Hawthorne Ln., who also testified, said upon leaving the courtroom that destruction of the animal was all the neighbors had wanted and that they had not wanted the Tresidders to be fined.

Three other children were attacked by the Tresidder dog since last November. One family has moved from the area.

Mrs. Schwarz testified she was watching her 7-year-old daughter walk to school on the sidewalk when the child was jumped from behind by the dog.

Nine-year-old Julie DeNotto told the court she was playing in the Tresidder home when the dog bit her on the arm.

LaPLANTE SAID the laws governing harboring a vicious animal are the easiest to understand and noted that the law did not necessarily pertain to dogs with "muzzles," but dogs with "propensities" to attack people.

The judge said he loves animals, but that as he has grown older, he has noticed the differences between human beings and animals have become larger.

LaPlante asked Tresidder why he did not try to resolve the incidents earlier.

Tresidder replied, "I didn't think it was a vicious dog."

Free Hearing Tests Set For Senior Citizens

Electronic hearing tests will be given at Belton Hearing Aid Service offices on Monday and Tuesday. Factory-trained hearing aid specialists will be at all of the offices listed below to perform the tests.

Anyone who has trouble hearing or understanding is welcome to have a test using the latest electronic equipment to determine his or her particular loss. Diagrams showing how the ear works and some of the causes of hearing loss will be available.

Everyone should have a hearing test at least once a year if there is any trouble at all hearing clearly. Even people now wearing a hearing aid or those who have been told nothing could be done for them should have a hearing test and find out about the latest methods of hearing correction.

The hearing test will be given Monday and Tuesday. If you can't get there on Monday or Tuesday, call one of the numbers below and arrange for an appointment at another time. Shut-in service is available in your home. Just phone the Belton Hearing Aid Service nearest to you.

have problems and recommended a heating contractor be called in.

"I can't take each of the furnaces apart and make a completely thorough inspection. That's why I told each of these people to be sure they have the units checked again."

"I talked to one woman on the phone and determined she might have a slight problem. I told her to get a serviceman in right away," he added.

CALLAHAN SAID two of the homes he inspected were in the newest section of the village built west of Ill. Rte. 53. "These were brand new homes and had no problems at all."

Another problem-free home was that of Police Chief Harry Jenkins, inspected Thursday. "His home is in the problem area and the unit has been in service for 11 years. It's a drum type unit and it was very clean," Callahan said.

Rettenbacher said residents can use their central air conditioning without fear of carbon monoxide fumes.

Rettenbacher has asked residents to wait three weeks before calling the village for inspection, until a consulting engineer's report, pinpointing the cause of furnace problems is received.

William Staats of Polytechnic Institute, which has been hired to research the problem, explained a metallurgical analysis of the heat exchangers should determine what is causing the corrosion — whether it is the nature of the furnace, an installation problem or something else.

SEVERAL RESIDENTS who have contacted The Herald tell of years of problems with their furnace heat exchangers.

One, Mrs. Saul Cohen, said she passed out in her bedroom three years ago from fumes that apparently came through the heating system from a defective heat exchanger.

Mrs. Cohen said she woke up that morning and then passed out. Her oldest son also passed out in the hallway of their two-story home and two younger children complained of stomach aches.

"My husband opened all the windows and called my dad, who is a heating man. He said to turn off the furnace and go outside. We did and it took us two or three days to get back to normal."

The Cohens contacted servaire-Metropolitan Service Co. of Berwyn, which installed the furnace, and found their heat exchanger was rusted out. A new heat exchanger was supplied free by the manufacturer, Johnson Corp., and the family paid a $125 labor charge.

"Two years later we had the same problem. We called Johnson and they had another exchanger put in. This time we didn't have to pay for anything," said Mrs. Cohen.

LAST OCTOBER the Cohens had their annual furnace check made by a local contractor and the heat exchanger was again rusted out. In June, when they had a serviceman out to check their air conditioning unit they were told the exchanger had to be replaced again.

"We contacted Johnson and the last we heard was June 4, when we got a carbon of a letter Johnson sent to the distributor around here. They were asking the serviceman what needed to be done to rectify the situation."

"We can use the air conditioning in the house now but we've been told we can't use the furnace in the winter," she continued.

Mrs. Cohen said the heat exchangers installed in October had a modification that was supposed to prevent the constant corroding. "Apparently it didn't work," she said.

Planners review flood-control bill

The first draft of a proposed flood-control ordinance underwent explanation and questioning at an Elk Grove Village Plan Commission meeting Thursday night.

The ordinance was presented by the flood-control commission, a subcommittee to the plan commission.

The goal of the proposed ordinance is to store stormwater for as long as possible without causing inconvenience and to release the water at such a rate as to prevent flooding.

"IF EVERY PARCEL of land in DuPage and Cook counties were developed according to this ordinance, there would be no uncontrolled flooding," said John Lindley, consulting engineer working with the flood commission.

He explained the proposed ordinance and answered questions raised about it by plan commission members and trustees present at the meeting.

Lindley said this proposed ordinance puts a proportionately equal amount of responsibility for stormwater retention and elimination on everyone.

Basically the ordinance:

- Gives broader recognition of the flood problem and additional preventative measures beyond regulation for building on flood plains.

- Suggests the village hire consulting hydraulic engineers to do continuous topography contour mapping.

- Provides for channel, floodway and street design for subdivision and improvements.

- Holds the village and developers responsible for providing reservoirs and dry retention basins in areas on new construction.

- Provides for regular maintenance programs of flood-control devices.

- Recognizes that the health, building, park and public works departments must work together for effective flood control.

THE PROPOSED ordinance was modeled after a flood-damage-prevention ordinance of the Northeastern Illinois Plan Commission.

The meeting was called as an attempt to generally inform village officials of what is included in the ordinance.

Flood Commission member Bart Dill said there will probably be more meetings on the ordinance before the plan commission makes a final decision and sends it to the village board.

Violent storms lash NW suburbs, blackouts numerous

A Herald staff report
Wind, hard-driving rain and the threat of tornadoes struck the Northwest suburbs Thursday night, but caused only minor property damage. At least 20,000 customers of Commonwealth Edison Co. were without electricity at some time in the evening.

During the height of the rainstorm three persons were injured in a fiery crash on Algonquin Road near Goebbert Road in Arlington Heights. An Arlington Heights woman, Elsie Sander, 85, and two Colorado residents were passengers in a car which burst into flames after being struck in the rear by a car driven by a Park Ridge man, Michael Selligren. Mrs. Sander was reported in serious condition at Northwest Community Hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Landmeier of Grand Junction, Colo. were also taken to the hospital. Landmeier was in the intensive care unit suffering from burns. Mrs. Landmeier also was treated for burns.

BUT FOR THAT accident, power outages caused the most immediate effect on suburban families. Reports from area fire departments showed loss of electricity in a wide area and encompassing every community — but not every neighborhood — in the Northwest suburbs.

Among the storm damage reports:
• Reports of tornadoes were numerous but there were no reports of any funnel clouds touching ground. Reports of tornadoes touching down at Rand and Ill. Rte. 83 near Randhurst and at Rand and Ill. Rte. 53 were unfounded.

• Des Plaines sounded the weather alarm at 7:20 p.m. and within five minutes had 75 calls pouring into the fire and police departments inquiring about the alarm. Firemen reported large tree limbs down, power out on the north side at Wolf and Central and a transformer out at Maple and Touhy.

• In Arlington Heights and Mount Prospect traffic signals were not operating along Northwest Highway at some locations and police were dispatched to direct traffic.

• Mount Prospect police said high winds knocked down a tree onto a home on the 200 block of Mount Prospect Road, and firemen reported lightning hit a home at 316 N. Emerson. Numerous electrical wires were down.

• A spokesman at Palwaukee airport

reported power lines down in that area and runway lights were knocked out in the southeast section of the airport.

• Most of Hoffman Estates was reported out of power at 8:45 p.m. Police received at least five reports of electric power lines down and the switchboard was swamped with calls concerning weather conditions. There were no reports of serious damage in Schaumburg; no reports of flooding and no reports of wind damage.

• In Elk Grove Village and Rolling Meadows virtually no storm damage was reported.

• Buffalo Grove Police reported no serious damage, but there were scattered power outages in the village. A police spokesman said a tornado touchdown was reported north of Berkshire Trace in the village but said the report proved unfounded.

• In Wheeling, police said there was some wind damage. Residents called police to report tornado sightings, but none of the funnels touched ground.

• A Commonwealth Edison Co. spokesman said late Thursday night that power failures in the area were "fairly widespread."

Zoners given plans for 18-acre shopping center

Architectural, traffic and landscaping plans for an 18-acre shopping center at the intersection of Northwest Highway and Hicks Road were presented to the Palatine Zoning Board of Appeals Thursday night.

The shopping center is only part of the plans for the 66-acre Old Madrid highrise condominium-apartment complex.

Stewart Bossell of Bossell, Pape and Associates, the commercial developer, presented plans for a Woolco Department store, a P & P supermarket, a variety of small retail shops, a restaurant and bank in the shopping center called Baldwin Plaza.

Land use of the 18 acres would be approximately four acres for buildings, 12 acres for parking and drives and two acres of open land.

THREE MAIN entrances to the shopping center are proposed, one off Hicks Road and the other two from Northwest Highway. Turn bays and traffic signals are proposed off both streets to aid traffic flow.

Traffic improvements would be paid by the state and the developer.

The development of the shopping center and an adjacent eight-acre office complex to the west is already permitted under the approved plans which place no restriction on the commercial development except that it comply with village building codes.

Last week the zoning board heard revised plans for the development of the other 48 acres. The plans included:

- Construction of nine condominium buildings with a total 421 units.
- An eight-acre commercial office complex.
- Construction of a 10-acre commercial and recreation complex.

THE PROPOSED condominium-apartment buildings would range in height from five to seven stories. The condominium buildings would be built instead of three 14-story apartment buildings which already have been approved by the village board.

The 14-story Old Madrid apartment building already is built and occupied. Owner James Sellergren has requested a liquor license for use in a public restaurant and lounge on the 14th floor.

THE BARRICADES still stand on Palatine Road as the cement drivers' strike has work on the long idled widening project at a standstill. Completion of the project is approximately nine months away and will turn Palatine Road from Northfield through Palatine into a junior expressway when finished.

Cement driver strike halts road project

The cement drivers' strike has kept progress on the Palatine Road widening project between Winston and Williams drives in Palatine at a standstill.

James Fruit, project manager for Peabody Petersen Construction Co. of Rosemont, said the forms for the widening are set and the company will start pouring concrete as soon as the strike ends.

But completion of the widening project is approximately nine months away, according to Fruit, which means another winter of barricades in the area.

Peabody Petersen Construction Co. was awarded the widening project this spring by a New York bonding company after the original contractors for the job, Engelhardt Construction of Mundelein, defaulted on the project because of financial problems.

Engelhardt had completed 30 per cent of the widening project before defaulting.

The $1 million widening project when completed will make Palatine Road west of Ill. Rte. 53 four lanes with traffic and walk lights, left turn lanes and a median strip at Winston Drive. Cost of the project is being split between the state and federal government.

School district workers to get 10% pay hikes

Salary increases averaging about 10 per cent were approved for Palatine-Rolling Meadows Dist. 15 custodians, clerks and secretaries.

The new salaries, accepted by the board Wednesday night, will go into effect July 1, the beginning of the new fiscal year for the school district.

The custodial, head custodial and maintenance salaries will total approximately $607,000, an increase of $72,000 more than the actual amount spent on salaries this year.

The base salary for a beginning custodian has been raised from $7,000 to $8,000. After two years in the district, a custodian will receive $9,500, the highest step on the new salary schedule.

UNDER THE OLD program, a custodian received $8,000 annually after two years' experience. However, the old salary schedule continued up to four years' experience, with $8,750 being the highest annual salary.

The lowest salary for head custodians will be $9,845, compared to $9,850 offered this year. The highest salary is $10,850, up from this year's $9,800.

The lowest maintenance salary will be $10,230. It was $9,200. The highest salary in the maintenance classification will be $10,845. This year it is $9,850. Maintenance men perform repairs on Dist. 15 buildings, such as plumbing.

Secretarial and clerical salaries total $212,000, and increase of $25,000 over last year's actual amount spent on salaries. The new salary schedule has nine categories, based on number of hours worked daily and number of months worked each year. It was revised this year and brought into line with salaries offered in other school districts and industry, according to William Colburn, assistant superintendent for business.

"We have prepared a salary schedule that we felt would meet the needs of our district as compared to industry and other districts," Colburn said.

School lunch cost to go up 5 cents

Students in Palatine-Rolling Meadows Dist. 15 will be paying 5 cents more for each lunch they buy next fall.

The Dist. 15 board of education Wednesday night increased the daily cost to 60 cents because of higher food prices and higher labor costs.

William Colburn, assistant superintendent for business, said the cafeteria program would be studied throughout the next year to determine if the cost increase is really necessary.

School officials say the district has been keeping lunch costs down because of a new centralized system started at Palatine Hills Junior High School last fall. Under the system, all meals are cooked at the junior high school and then transported to the 20 individual schools in the district.

The centralization has been a financial success, according to board member Otto Ellering. This year's cafeteria deficit is only $852.81, according to reports.

Colburn said the deficit, under several separate lunch programs for different schools, was higher. "The deficit at one time was $20,000," he said.

who works seven hours a day during the 10-month school year is $3,640 annually. Last year's comparable salary was $3,557.42.

The highest salary, paid to a secretary who works 7 1/4 hours a day for 12 months a year is $8,671. Last year's comparable salary was $8,200.

Well, I'll be -- those things look like bees!

Lillian Wytowner of Arlington Ziprint, 740 E. Northwest Hwy., Palatine, was more than surprised when "a couple hundred bees invaded her office" Wednesday.

The bees came into the office about 4:30 p.m. from a nest between the front office wall and outside brick. Wytow, her staff, and a customer in the office at the time attempted to "swat the bees dead" before Wytow called Palatine police for assistance, she said.

The police called an exterminator who sprayed the outside of the office and sealed the inside crack to keep the bees from returning. No one was stung.

Plum Grove grads receive Legion awards

Two Plum Grove School graduates recently received American Legion awards, and both made the award a family tradition.

Mary Gross, 1014 Blackburn, Inverness, received the award this year. Her older brother Bill also won the award in 1968.

Mark McIntosh, 173 Inverness, Inverness, is the third member of his family to win the award. His brother Bruce won it in 1960 and his sister Kathy won it in 1963.

The award is given to one boy and one girl, selected for loyalty, citizenship, honor and patriotism by the school staff.

Family fun day at St. Joseph Home

A family fun day will be held Sunday from noon to 7 p.m. at the St. Joseph Home for the Elderly, 80 W. Baldwin Rd., Palatine.

Games and craft booths will be featured and a spaghetti dinner at $1.25 per plate will be available throughout the day. St. Joseph Home for the Elderly is maintained by Little Sisters of the Poor.

Summer school bus fee schedule set

Summer school bus service for special education youngsters in Palatine-Rolling Meadows Dist. 15 will be $10 per youngster, the same amount being charged other summer school students.

The Dist. 15 Board of Education approved the charge Wednesday night, after discovering that a new ruling put out by the Office of the Superintendent of Public Instruction prevented them from offering free transportation.

Transportation costs for special education students in past years were paid by the school district and reimbursed through the state.

Media internships approved

Four media interns will start work in Palatine-Rolling Meadows Dist. 15 next fall, at a salary of $3,200 each for the 1974-75 school year.

The internships were approved by the Dist. 15 Board of Education Wednesday night. Assistant Supt. for Instruction Marion Omiatek told the board that the intern's salary is the same as that of a part-time teacher aide. However, each intern will be working full-time in the district and taking night classes through Harper College in Palatine.

The interns, Eastern Illinois University students working on their masters degrees, will be making visual displays, films, slide presentations, video tapes and working on other school-media related activities in the district. All four interns will have teaching degrees.

This is the second year the district has taken part in the media intern program. "The results are very favorable," Omiatek said of the past year.

School lease funds OK'd

The Palatine-Rolling Meadows Dist. 15 board approved a payment of $124,000 to the Capital Development Board for the lease of Central Road, Carl Sandburg, Winston Churchill and Willow Bend Schools.

The schools were built with funds from the state's Capital Development Board and the district is required to pay an annual fee for their use.

Funding resolution approved

A request for additional funds to pay music teachers for the time after school spent working with vocal groups was referred to the budget committee by the Palatine-Rolling Meadows Dist. 15 board.

The increase per school would be as much as $520 a year, though not all of the money would necessarily be spent. Presently, groups such as chorus and vocal ensembles are considered clubs and each club receives $80 a year to compensate their sponsor or sponsors, if the teachers apply for the compensation.

"The general music activities have grown really rapidly in the last three or four years," Omiatek told the board Wednesday night. "The number of hours were really very large in comparison to the amount of compensation," he added.

Teacher luncheon approved 18 ital -

Funding request received

The Palatine-Rolling Meadows Dist. 15 board approved a resolution requesting full funding for all Illinois school districts for the 1973-74 school year.

The full funding would mean an additional $70 million tacked on to Gov. Daniel Walker's originally proposed budget. The resolution was requested by the Illinois Assn. of School Boards. A bill for full funding is now in the Illinois General Assembly.

Local church service broadcast Sunday

A worship service by the First Baptist Church of Palatine, 1023 E. Palatine Road, Palatine, will be featured on the "Chicagoand Church Hour" Sunday from 9:45 to 10:30 a.m. on WGN television, Channel 9.

The service will be conducted by Dr. G. W. Schweer, pastor of the congregation. He also will deliver a sermon on the "New Life." The members of the church's adult choir, directed by Orville Bang, will provide the music during the service.

Railroad fined for Des Plaines noise offenses

by FRAN SLIMMER

The Chicago and North Western Ry. was convicted Thursday on 18 charges of violating Des Plaines' anti-noise ordinance and was fined $300 plus $100 court costs.

The city and the railroad met in Cook County Circuit Court for a jury trial Thursday. This is the second time Des Plaines has charged North Western with violation of its anti-noise ordinance. In Thursday's case, the city charged the railroad with 27 separate violations of its 55-decibel noise limit. The court found the North Western guilty on 18 of those counts.

The maximum fine that could have been imposed for each offense was $500 — for a $13,500 possible total.

Corporation Counsel Robert DiLeonardi said the city is "reasonably satisfied with the results." This is the second case Des Plaines has won against the North Western, and DiLeonardi said he hoped these decisions in favor of the city would persuade the railroad to take the necessary steps to curb the noise.

WHEN RAILROAD representatives testified Thursday, they said North Western is doing what it can to muffle the noise and is expecting a shipment of muffling devices within a month or two.

The city hopes the devices will be effective, DiLeonardi said.

The city argued for a higher fine, but has found the courts are reluctant to impose the maximum penalty in such cases, he said. Also, the court probably took into consideration good faith shown by the railroad as far as its attempts to muffle the noise, he added.

The city gave evidence showing on certain dates "the noise levels at residential boundary lines reached beyond the tolerance levels of the ordinance," DiLeonardi said. This happened on consecutive days and the court probably considered that fact in their decision, he said.

Library will close at noon Saturdays

During the summer months, the Rolling Meadows Library will be open from 9 a.m. until noon on Saturdays.

The library is generally open from 9 a.m. until 5 p.m. on Saturdays. The longer Saturday session will be reinstated after Labor Day, according to acting library director Gene Good. No other time changes have been made.

AREA RESIDENTS have complained of noise from locomotives entering and leaving the railroad yard. The yard is adjacent to primarily residential areas located northeast of the Wolf Road-Thacker Street intersection on the city's northwest side.

The railroad uses the yard to store equipment, including the locomotives used in the company's commuter operation.

The city adopted the anti-noise ordinance after residents near the yard petitioned the city council to take action against the railroad operations. Residents complained that for more than three years, the railroad had been starting locomotives as early as 4 a.m. each day.

City inspectors conducted tests at the railroad facilities and determined the operation exceeded the noise limits set in the ordinance.

When the first complaint was filed last year, railroad attorneys argued that the city could not impose its ordinance on the company.

They stated that federal regulations on noise pollution superseded the city's ordinance. However, a circuit court judge denied the railroad's request to dismiss the case on those grounds. The city won its case and the railroad was fined $80.

MARIANNE BARTMANN was one of a dozen Palatine women working on decorations and gifts for—believe it or not—Christmas. The women were part of a park district sponsored Christmas in July program.

Early birds get July head start on Christmas

A dozen Palatine women are getting a head start on Christmas shopping and decorating this summer.

The women are enrolled in a Palatine Park District summer program entitled "Christmas in July" to make certain Christmas doesn't catch up with them this year.

Thursday, the first of the four weekly sessions of the class, Diane James was carefully cutting out partridge in a pear tree and sighed. "I feel so relieved taking this course. For once I really feel organized and like I'm going to be one jump ahead of the game this year."

Some of the other women were learning how to pin beads, spangles and ribbon onto Styrofoam shapes to make Christmas tree ornaments. Other women were cutting out felt shaped bells and trees that would be decorated and attached to a green felt tablecloth. All of the women had learned to make transparent tree ornaments from wooden drape rings and plastic drying solution.

WOMEN 16 AND older can register for the course at the park district administration center, 262 E. Palatine Rd., from 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. daily. The fee is $8 for residents and $10 for nonresidents.

Dori Schneider, an Arlington Heights mother of six and an artist, teaches this and other arts and crafts classes for area park districts and service organizations. She has been making homemade Christmas decorations for 20 years and has found it not only "fun but economical."

Schneider pointed out that paper weights and three-dimensional wall hangings can be made easily for 75 cents and usually cost "at least four dollars in a gift store," she said. Schneider is also teaching the women how to make quilted pillows, wreaths, and advent calendars for Christmas gifts.

Arlington youth chosen for seminar

A 17-year-old Arlington Heights resident has been selected to attend a week long governmental seminar beginning Saturday at Eastern Illinois University.

Gordon Jennings, 410 W. Victoria Ln., will be sponsored by Rolling Meadows American Legion Post 1251 to attend the Premier Boys State event next week. The week will include activities in which boys from throughout the state will participate in running a mock state government system.

Pleasant Hill School reports garbage fire

A fire was started Wednesday in the garbage dumper at the Pleasant Hill Elementary School, 434 W. Illinois, Palatine.

Palatine police discovered the fire and extinguished it when it was reported by phone by a nearby resident. No one was apprehended, and no damage was reported.

Swim lessons at park pool start Monday

Swimming lessons for residents of the Salt Creek Park District will be held beginning Monday at the Rolling Meadows Park District pool.

Both the first and second swim sessions which will run through July 19 will be held at the sports complex pool at 3000 Owl Dr. Salt Creek residents will be charged $10 a session, which is higher than the $6 they would have been charged in the district's own program, but less than the $16 out-of-district Rolling Meadows rate.

The arrangement has been worked out between the two districts as a result of a decision late last month by the Arlington Park Towers Hotel to discontinue allowing the Salt Creek district use of the hotel pool.

THE UNEXPECTED decision came only several weeks before the district planned to open its summer swim program, one of its most successful yearly programs.

Salt Creek district officials were unable to negotiate for the use of pools at either the Baybrook condominiums at Palatine Road and Winston Drive or the Willow Creek apartments at Northwest Highway and Rohlwing Road.

The district has no pool of its own but always has been allowed use of the hotel pool.

The Rolling Meadows district offered use of its pool to Salt Creek residents by allowing them to enroll in lesson programs at a lower out-of-district price.

The Salt Creek district still may purchase a temporary above ground pool to accommodate future swim programs

James DeVos, director of parks and recreation, said Thursday.

THE TEMPORARY outdoor pool would cost about $5,000 but DeVos said it probably would not be available for possibly as long as six weeks after an order is placed. Purchase of a pool would not be authorized without approval of the Salt Creek Park Board of Commissioners, but DeVos said the estimated $5,000 cost probably could be provided in the district budget.

"I've recommended it to the board for next year," DeVos said of purchasing the approximate 20-foot-by-40-foot pool. He added the purchase could be considered for this year because early approval might mean the pool could be utilized late this summer.

Lessons at the Rolling Meadows pool Monday will begin at 10 a.m. and end at noon. Half-hour sessions will be held for beginners through swimmers groupings.

State funds may reduce school taxes slightly

Taxpayers in Palatine-Rolling Meadows Dist. 15 may find their 1974 school taxes slightly lower.

Though the Dist. 15 Board of Education approved a 2-cent levy for special education Wednesday, it also approved cutting the tax income by $159,632, the amount the state Capital Assistance Program is giving to the school district to help pay off old construction debts.

This could mean a decrease of almost 5 cents per $100 assessed valuation, according to William Colburn, assistant superintendent for business. No specific figures on the effect of the decrease are available because the school district does not have the new assessment figures, Colburn said.

The special education levy of 2 cents per $100 assessed valuation is the same levy that showed up on last year's tax bills.

The money is used to develop the school district's special education facilities. Colburn said it would probably be used for the special education area at Palatine Hills Junior High School, special education at the new buildings being planned for the district and renovating old classrooms into special education facilities.

No specific plans for the money have been made. No referendum is necessary to levy the tax.

The Capital Assistance Program, which is indirectly lowering local school taxes, was started by the state last year to help pay off old and new construction debts in school districts. Dist. 15 will receive the $159,632 to pay for some of their old debts and has applied for money to pay off part of the cost of a new school in the Winston Knolls area.

Owner of dog that attacked, scarred child fined $100

by STIRLING MORITA

A judge pointed to a 5-year-old Hanover Park girl with facial scars, a reminder of 80 stitches used to close cuts from a dog attack, and said he felt sorry for her.

Associate Cook County Circuit Court Judge Albert LaPlante made the comments Thursday after convicting Dennis Tresidder, 7016 Hawthorne Ln., Hanover Park, of harboring and maintaining a vicious animal. Tresidder was fined $100.

Patricia Kirby, daughter of Patricia Kirby, 7028 Hawthorne Ln., testified before LaPlante with her hair pulled back to show the scars. She was accompanied by her mother, 10 adults and 10 young neighbors.

TRESIDDER TOLD the court he had his Dalmatian destroyed last month at an animal hospital. Mrs. Heidrun Schwarz, of 7011 Hawthorne Ln., who also testified, said upon leaving the courtroom that destruction of the animal was all the neighbors had wanted and that they had not wanted the Tresidders to be fined.

Three other children were attacked by the Tresidder dog since last November. One family has moved from the area.

Mrs. Schwarz testified she was watching her 7-year-old daughter walk to school on the sidewalk when the child was jumped from behind by the dog.

Nine-year-old Julie DeNotto told the court she was playing in the Tresidder home when the dog bit her on the arm.

LaPLANTE SAID the laws governing harboring a vicious animal are the easiest to understand and noted that the law did not necessarily pertain to dogs with "muzzles," but dogs with "propensities" to attack people.

The judge said he loves animals, but that as he has grown older, he has noticed the differences between human beings and animals have become larger.

LaPlante asked Tresidder why he did not try to resolve the incidents earlier.

Tresidder replied, "I didn't think it was a vicious dog."

Violent storms lash NW suburbs, blackouts numerous

A Herald staff report
Wind, hard-driving rain and the threat of tornadoes struck the Northwest suburbs Thursday night, but caused only minor property damage. At least 20,000 customers of Commonwealth Edison Co. were without electricity at some time in the evening.

During the height of the rainstorm three persons were injured in a fiery crash on Algonquin Road near Goebert Road in Arlington Heights. An Arlington Heights woman, Elsie Sander, 65, and two Colorado residents were passengers in a car which burst into flames after being struck in the rear by a car driven by a Park Ridge man, Michael Selligren. Mrs. Sander was reported in serious condition at Northwest Community Hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Landmeier of Grand Junction, Colo. were also taken to the hospital. Landmeier was in the intensive care unit suffering from burns. Mrs. Landmeier also was treated for burns.

BUT FOR THAT accident, power outages caused the most immediate effect on suburban families. Reports from area fire departments showed loss of electricity in a wide area and encompassing every community — but not every neighborhood — in the Northwest suburbs.

Among the storm damage reports:

- Reports of tornadoes were numerous but there were no reports of any funnel clouds touching ground. Reports of tornadoes touching down at Rand and Ill. Rte. 83 near Randhurst and at Rand and Ill. Rte. 53 were unfounded.
- Des Plaines sounded the weather alarm at 7:20 p.m. and within five minutes had 75 calls pouring into the fire and police departments inquiring about the alarm. Firemen reported large tree limbs down, power out on the north side at Wolf and Central and a transformer out at Maple and Touhy.

- In Arlington Heights and Mount Prospect traffic signals were not operating along Northwest Highway at some locations and police were dispatched to direct traffic.
- Mount Prospect police said high winds knocked down a tree onto a home on the 200 block of Mount Prospect Road, and firemen reported lightning hit a home at 316 N. Emerson. Numerous electrical wires were down.
- A spokesman at Palwaukee airport reported power lines down in that area and runway lights were knocked out in the southeast section of the airport.

- Most of Hoffman Estates was reported out of power at 8:45 p.m. Police received at least five reports of electric power lines down and the switchboard was swamped with calls concerning weather conditions. There were no reports of serious damage in Schaumburg; no reports of flooding and no reports of wind damage.
- In Elk Grove Village and Rolling Meadows virtually no storm damage was reported.

- Buffalo Grove Police reported no serious damage, but there were scattered power outages in the village. A police spokesman said a tornado touchdown was reported north of Berkshire Trace in the village but said the report proved unfounded.
- In Wheeling, police said there was some wind damage. Residents called police to report tornado sightings, but none of the funnels touched ground.
- A Commonwealth Edison Co. spokesman said late Thursday night that power failures in the area were "fairly widespread."

School district workers voted 10% pay increases

Salary increases averaging about 10 per cent were approved for Palatine-Rolling Meadows Dist. 15 custodians, clerks and secretaries.

The new salaries, accepted by the board Wednesday night, will go into effect July 1, the beginning of the new fiscal year for the school district.

The custodial, head custodial and maintenance salaries will total approximately $807,000, an increase of $72,000 more than the actual amount spent on salaries this year.

The base salary for a beginning custodian has been raised from $7,000 to $8,000. After two years in the district, a custodian will receive $9,500, the highest step on the new salary schedule.

UNDER THE OLD program, a custodian received $8,000 annually after two years' experience. However, the old salary schedule continued up to four years' experience, with $8,750 being the highest annual salary.

The lowest salary for head custodians will be $9,845, compared to $8,950 offered this year. The highest salary is $10,890, up from this year's $9,900.

The lowest maintenance salary will be $10,230. It was $9,300. The highest salary in the maintenance classification will be $10,943. This year it is $9,950. Maintenance men perform repairs on Dist. 15 buildings, such as plumbing.

Secretarial and clerical salaries total $212,000, and increase of $25,000 over last year's actual amount spent on salaries. The new salary schedule has nine categories, based on number of hours worked daily and number of months worked each year. It was revised this year and brought into line with salaries offered in other school districts and industry, according to William Colburn, assistant superintendent for business.

"We have prepared a salary schedule that we felt would meet the needs of our district as compared to industry and other districts," Colburn said.

School lunch cost to go up 5 cents

Students in Palatine-Rolling Meadows Dist. 15 will be paying 5 cents more for each lunch they buy next fall.

The Dist. 15 board of education Wednesday night increased the daily cost to 50 cents because of higher food prices and higher labor costs.

William Colburn, assistant superintendent for business, said the cafeteria program would be studied throughout the next year to determine if the cost increase is really necessary.

School officials say the district has been keeping lunch costs down because of a new centralized system started at Palatine Hills Junior High School last fall. Under the system, all meals are cooked at the junior high school and then transported to the 20 individual schools in the district.

The centralization has been a financial success, according to board member Otto Ellering. This year's cafeteria deficit is only $382.81, according to reports.

Colburn said the deficit, under several separate lunch programs for different schools, was higher. "The deficit at one time was $20,000," he said.

who works seven hours a day during the 10-month school year is $3,640 annually. Last year's comparable salary was $3,557.42.

The highest salary, paid to a secretary who works 7 1/2 hours a day for 12 months a year is $8,671. Last year's comparable salary was $8,208.

GUNSLINGER AL Miles entertained Motorola employees at the Schaumburg facility plan for themselves. Miles is a resident of Hoffman Estates.

Well, I'll be -- those things look like bees!

Lillian Wytowner of Arlington Ziprint, 740 E. Northwest Hwy., Palatine, was more than surprised when "a couple hundred bees invaded her office" Wednesday.

The bees came into the office about 4:30 p.m. from a nest between the front office wall and outside brick. Wytow, her staff, and a customer in the office at the time attempted to "swat the bees dead"

before Wytow called Palatine police for assistance, she said.

The police called an exterminator who sprayed the outside of the office and sealed the inside crack to keep the bees from returning. No one was stung.

State funds may reduce school taxes slightly

Taxpayers in Palatine-Rolling Meadows Dist. 15 may find their 1974 school taxes slightly lower.

Though the Dist. 15 Board of Education approved a 2-cent levy for special education Wednesday, it also approved cutting the tax income by $159,632, the amount the state Capital Assistance Program is giving to the school district to help pay off old construction debts.

This could mean a decrease of almost 5 cents per $100 assessed valuation, according to William Colburn, assistant superintendent for business. No specific figures on the effect of the decrease are available because the school district does not have the new assessment figures, Colburn said.

The special education levy of 2 cents per $100 assessed valuation is the same levy that showed up on last year's tax bills.

The money is used to develop the school district's special education facilities. Colburn said it would probably be used for the special education area at Palatine Hills Junior High School, special education at the new buildings being planned for the district and renovating old classrooms into special education facilities.

No specific plans for the money have been made. No referendum is necessary to levy the tax.

The Capital Assistance Program, which is indirectly lowering local school taxes, was started by the state last year to help pay off old and new construction debts in school districts. Dist. 15 will receive the $159,632 to pay for some of their old debts and has applied for money to pay off part of the cost of a new school in the Winston Knolls area.

Commissioned as Ensign

Joseph A. Conroy Jr., 2205 Oak Lane, was commissioned as ensign when he graduated June 5 from the Coast Guard Academy in New London, Conn.

He also received a bachelor of science degree, and will report to Miami for his first duty assignment.

Conroy is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph A. Conroy Sr., and graduated from Forest View High School in 1970. He entered the academy in June 1970.

Summer school bus fee schedule set

Summer school bus service for special education youngsters in Palatine-Rolling Meadows Dist. 15 will be $10 per youngster, the same amount being charged other summer school students.

The Dist. 15 Board of Education approved the charge Wednesday night, after discovering that a new ruling put out by the Office of the Superintendent of Public Instruction prevented them from offering free transportation.

Transportation costs for special education students in past years were paid by the school district and reimbursed through the state.

Media internships approved

Four media interns will start work in Palatine-Rolling Meadows Dist. 15 next fall, at a salary of $3,200 each for the 1974-75 school year.

The internships were approved by the Dist. 15 Board of Education Wednesday night. Assistant Supt. for Instruction Marion Omiatek told the board that the intern's salary is the same as that of a part-time teacher aide. However, each intern will be working full-time in the district and taking night classes through Harper College in Palatine.

The interns, Eastern Illinois University students working on their masters degrees, will be making visual displays, films, slide presentations, video tapes and working on other school-media related activities in the district. All four interns will have teaching degrees.

This is the second year the district has taken part in the media intern program. "The results are very favorable," Omiatek said of the past year.

School lease funds OK'd

The Palatine-Rolling Meadows Dist. 15 board approved a payment of $124,000 to the Capital Development Board for the lease of Central Road, Carl Sandburg, Winston Churchill and Willow Bend Schools.

The schools were built with funds from the state's Capital Development Board and the district is required to pay an annual fee for their use.

Funding resolution approved

A request for additional funds to pay music teachers for the time after school spent working with vocal groups was referred to the budget committee by the Palatine-Rolling Meadows Dist. 15 board.

The increase per school would be as much as $320 a year, though not all of the money would necessarily be spent. Presently, groups such as chorus and vocal ensembles are considered clubs and each club receives $80 a year to compensate their sponsor or sponsors, if the teachers apply for the compensation.

"The general music activities have grown really rapidly in the last three or four years," Omiatek told the board Wednesday night. "The number of hours were really very large in comparison to the amount of compensation," he added. Teacher luncheon approved 18 ital.

Funding request received

The Palatine-Rolling Meadows Dist. 15 board approved a resolution requesting full funding for all Illinois school districts for the 1975-76 school year.

The full funding would mean an additional $70 million tacked on to Gov. Daniel Walker's originally proposed budget. The resolution was requested by the Illinois Assn. of School Boards. A bill for full funding is now in the Illinois General Assembly.

Local church service broadcast Sunday

A worship service by the First Baptist Church of Palatine, 1023 E. Palatine Road, Palatine, will be featured on the "Chicagoand Church Hour" Sunday from 8:45 to 9:30 a.m. on WGN television, Channel 9.

The service will be conducted by Dr. G. W. Schaefer, pastor of the congregation. He also will deliver a sermon on the "New Life." The members of the church's adult choir, directed by Orville Bang, will provide the music during the service.

Railroad fined for Des Plaines noise offenses

by FRAN SLIMMER

The Chicago and North Western Ry. was convicted Thursday on 18 charges of violating Des Plaines' anti-noise ordinance and was fined $500 plus $100 court costs.

The city and the railroad met in Cook County Circuit Court for a jury trial Thursday. This is the second time Des Plaines has charged North Western with violation of its anti-noise ordinance. In Thursday's case, the city charged the railroad with 27 separate violations of its 55-decibel noise limit. The court found the North Western guilty on 18 of those counts.

The maximum fine that could have been imposed for each offense was $500 — for a $13,500 possible total.

Corporation Counsel Robert DiLeonardi said the city is "reasonably satisfied with the results." This is the second case Des Plaines has won against the North Western, and DiLeonardi said he hoped these decisions in favor of the city would persuade the railroad to take the necessary steps to curb the noise.

WHEN RAILROAD representatives testified Thursday, they said North Western is doing what it can to muffle the noise and is expecting a shipment of muffling devices within a month or two.

The city hopes the devices will be effective, DiLeonardi said.

The city argued for a higher fine, but has found the courts are reluctant to impose the maximum penalty in such cases, he said. Also, the court probably took into consideration good faith shown by the railroad as far as its attempts to muffle the noise, he added.

The city gave evidence showing on certain dates "the noise levels at residential boundary lines reached beyond the tolerance levels of the ordinance," DiLeonardi said. This happened on consecutive days and the court probably considered that fact in their decision, he said.

Library will close at noon Saturdays

During the summer months, the Rolling Meadows Library will be open from 9 a.m. until noon on Saturdays.

The library is generally open from 9 a.m. until 5 p.m. on Saturdays. The longer Saturday session will be reinstated after Labor Day, according to acting library director Gene Good. No other time changes have been made.

AREA RESIDENTS have complained of noise from locomotives entering and leaving the railroad yard. The yard is adjacent to primarily residential areas located northeast of the Wolf Road-Thacker Street intersection on the city's northwest side.

The railroad uses the yard to store equipment, including the locomotives used in the company's commuter operation.

The city adopted the anti-noise ordinance after residents near the yard petitioned the city council to take action against the railroad operations. Residents complained that for more than three years, the railroad had been starting locomotives as early as 4 a.m. each day.

City inspectors conducted tests at the railroad facilities and determined the operation exceeded the noise limits set in the ordinance.

When the first complaint was filed last year, railroad attorneys argued that the city could not impose its ordinance on the company.

They stated that federal regulations on noise pollution superseded the city's ordinance. However, a circuit court judge denied the railroad's request to dismiss the case on those grounds. The city won its case and the railroad was fined $80.

Owner of dog that attacked, scarred child fined $100

by STIRLING MORITA

A judge pointed to a 5-year-old Hanover Park girl with facial scars, a reminder of 80 stitches used to close cuts from a dog attack, and said he felt sorry for her.

Associate Cook County Circuit Court Judge Albert LaPlante made the comments Thursday after convicting Dennis Treslender, 7016 Hawthorne Ln., Hanover Park, of harboring and maintaining a vicious animal. Treslender was fined $100.

Patricia Kirby, daughter of Patricia Kirby, 7028 Hawthorne Ln., testified before LaPlante with her hair pulled back to show the scars. She was accompanied by her mother, 10 adults and 10 young neighbors.

TRESLENDER TOLD the court he had his Dalmatian destroyed last month at an animal hospital. Mrs. Helmut Schwarz, of 7011 Hawthorne Ln., who also testified, said upon leaving the courtroom that destruction of the animal was all the neighbors had wanted and that they had not wanted the Treslenders to be fined.

Three other children were attacked by the Treslender dog since last November. One family has moved from the area.

Mrs. Schwarz testified she was watching her 7-year-old daughter walk to school on the sidewalk when the child was jumped from behind by the dog.

Nine-year-old Julie DeNitto told the court she was playing in the Treslender home when the dog bit her on the arm.

LaPLANTE SAID the laws governing harboring a vicious animal are the easiest to understand and noted that the law did not necessarily pertain to dogs with "muzzies," but dogs with "propensities" to attack people.

The judge said he loves animals, but that as he has grown older, he has noticed the differences between human beings and animals have become larger.

LaPlante asked Treslender why he did not try to resolve the incidents earlier.

Treslender replied, "I didn't think it was a vicious dog."

'Cat' burglar hit at least 4 suburbs: police

by TOM VON MALDER

Arlington Heights police Thursday said they have linked the suspected Elk Grove Village cat burglar to 42 burglaries in their village. The burglaries date to January, 1973, police said.

Meanwhile, Elk Grove Village police are preparing at least 10 burglary charges against the man, Robert E. Williams Jr., 20, of 29 Grange Pl., Elk Grove. Elk Grove police said they believe Williams may be responsible for as many as 15 burglaries and seven attempts during the last two months in Elk Grove Village.

Mount Prospect police, who arrested Williams early Wednesday and charged him with four burglaries, said they have discovered a fifth burglary in the same 1101 Hunt Club Rd. apartment building and have linked Williams to it. In addition, Mount Prospect police are investigating eight other burglaries which they believe Williams committed during the past few weeks.

Arlington Heights Police Capt. Irvin McDougall said his department allegedly has oral statements from Williams that links him to the 42 burglaries. According to McDougall, two Arlington Heights police detectives drove Williams around that village pointing out various burglary locations and having him either say he had or had not committed burglaries at each location.

WILLIAMS IS BEING held by Mount Prospect police on $100,000 bond, pending an appearance Wednesday in the Mount Prospect branch of Cook County Circuit Court. He was to have been sent to the Cook County Jail late Thursday.

The Herald also learned Thursday that Elk Grove Village police are seeking a second man in connection with the burglaries in that village. The second arrest is "imminent," according to Lt. William Kohnke.

The man sought by Elk Grove Village police, an area resident, was linked to the case by a 16-year-old girl, who was found in Williams' car by Mount Prospect police shortly after his arrest.

According to the girl, who is a "walk-away" from the Niehoff Pavilion psychiatric ward of Alexian Brothers Medical Center, the second man allegedly helped Williams in several of the Elk Grove Village burglaries, police said. Police added the girl, who is not being charged by either police department, confessed to being involved in one break-in.

Police also said Williams allegedly would take money from stolen purses and wallets and then hide them under garbage, according to the girl. Purses and wallets were among the cat burglar's most favored items, police said.

WHEN WILLIAMS was arrested, police said they recovered a gold Buddha statue, four watches, a set of keys, three lighters, a mirror in a green case, a blue cloth cigarette case and a gold pill box. All these items allegedly are linked to burglaries in Elk Grove Village, where a total of 15 burglaries and seven attempts have been credited to the same cat burglar and his accomplices.

From the four Mount Prospect burglaries, with which Williams is charged, police said they have recovered three wallets, a purse, checkbook, pocketbook and beer.

Mount Prospect police said the other eight burglaries that might be linked to Williams mainly occurred at the Alpine and Mount Shire apartment complexes.

Elk Grove Village police Thursday confirmed they had recovered much of the property stolen from that village in an apartment at 2842 Montrose Ave., Chicago. They said the apartment was leased to Williams. The recovered items included hand calculators and stereo equipment.

According to Arlington Heights police, Williams was convicted of a burglary in Arlington Heights about three months ago and is on five years' probation.

Another try for petunia plant Saturday

The Rolling Meadows recycling, ecology and beautification committee Saturday will again attempt to plant petunias along the south side of Kirchhoff Road in the city's business district.

The beautification project was postponed previously because of poor weather. Committee chairman Evelyn Drummond said Thursday the committee will go ahead with the planting Saturday unless severe weather occurs.

The planting will take place in the morning. Plants of varying colors will be used and will be placed in geometric designs. Persons interested in helping with the planting are invited to participate and meet at the Kirchhoff-Meadow area at 9 a.m.

The project is one planned by the committee as part of the beautification efforts for the city.

European Mission director to speak

Robert Evans, the founder and European director of Greater European Mission, will speak at Sunday's 8:15 and 10:45 morning worship services at the Meadows Baptist Church, 2401 Kirchhoff Rd., Rolling Meadows.

Speaking at the 6:30 p.m. Sunday meeting will be Don Bunge, missionary with the Awana Youth Assn. in the Iowa and Nebraska area.

Violent storms lash NW suburbs, blackouts numerous

A Herald staff report
Wind, hard-driving rain and the threat of tornadoes struck the Northwest suburbs Thursday night, but caused only minor property damage. At least 20,000 customers of Commonwealth Edison Co. were without electricity at some time in the evening.

During the height of the rainstorm three persons were injured in a fiery crash on Algonquin Road near Goebbert Road in Arlington Heights. An Arlington Heights woman, Elsie Sander, 85, and two Colorado residents were passengers in a car which burst into flames after being struck in the rear by a car driven by a Park Ridge man, Michael Selligren. Mrs. Sander was reported in serious condition at Northwest Community Hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Landmeier of Grand Junction, Colo. were also taken to the hospital. Landmeier was in the intensive care unit suffering from burns. Mrs. Landmeier also was treated for burns.

BUT FOR THAT accident, power outages caused the most immediate effect on suburban families. Reports from area fire departments showed loss of electricity in a wide area and encompassing every community — but not every neighborhood — in the Northwest suburbs.

Among the storm damage reports:

- Reports of tornadoes were numerous but there were no reports of any funnel clouds touching ground. Reports of tornadoes touching down at Rand and Ill. Rte. 83 near Randhurst and at Rand and Ill. Rte. 53 were unfounded.
- Des Plaines sounded the weather alarm at 7:20 p.m. and within five minutes had 75 calls pouring into the fire and police departments inquiring about the alarm. Firemen reported large tree limbs down, power out on the north side at Wolf and Central and a transformer out at Maple and Touhy.

- In Arlington Heights and Mount Prospect traffic signals were not operating along Northwest Highway at some locations and police were dispatched to direct traffic.
- Mount Prospect police said high winds knocked down a tree onto a home on the 200 block of Mount Prospect Road, and firemen reported lightning hit a home at 316 N. Emerson. Numerous electrical wires were down.
- A spokesman at Palwaukee airport reported power lines down in that area and runway lights were knocked out in the southeast section of the airport.

- Most of Hoffman Estates was reported out of power at 8:45 p.m. Police received at least five reports of electric power lines down and the switchboard was swamped with calls concerning weather conditions. There were no reports of serious damage in Schaumburg; no reports of flooding and no reports of wind damage.
- In Elk Grove Village and Rolling Meadows virtually no storm damage was reported.

- Buffalo Grove Police reported no serious damage, but there were scattered power outages in the village. A police spokesman said a tornado touchdown was reported north of Berkshire Trace in the village but said the report proved unfounded.
- In Wheeling, police said there was some wind damage. Residents called police to report tornado sightings, but none of the funnels touched ground.
- A Commonwealth Edison Co. spokesman said late Thursday night that power failures in the area were "fairly widespread."

Judge OKs vote

August referendum slated on fire district transfer

by NANCY COWGER

A referendum will be held Aug. 3 in the section of Hoffman Estates north of the Northwest Tollway seeking voter approval of transfer from Palatine Rural to Hoffman Estates fire protection districts.

Cook County Circuit Court Judge Harry Comerford authorized the referendum Thursday in a hearing in the Chicago Civic Center, after receiving a petition with 37 signatures. The referendum is an initial step in forming a village fire department in Hoffman Estates by Dec. 1.

Although it was rumored a Palatine Rural district representative would appear Thursday to oppose the transfer, no objectors were present. A written consent to the referendum by Palatine Rural was presented.

One of the next steps in the process of establishing the municipal department is a meeting scheduled at 8 p.m. Tuesday with members of the Winston Knolls Homeowners Assn. Winston Knolls is the most populous section of the area to be transferred, and is the only portion of the village in that area that is developed. The Windemere subdivision, outside village limits, also is to be transferred to prevent leaving a pocket of land split off from the Palatine district.

DEPUTY FIRE CHIEF Edward Kalasa and Village Trustee Doyle Rathman will ask association members Tuesday to form a force of volunteer firemen to work out of a new fire station to be built on property in Westbury, a 500-acre project west of Winston Knolls in which development is starting this summer. Paid firemen also will work out of the station.

The village has written a $250,000 letter of credit to build the Westbury fire station and to purchase equipment for it. This week, the village board approved a resolution making $50,000 available to provide a temporary fire station, if necessary, until the Westbury station is constructed.

Only brief testimony was presented at the hearing by Melvin Timmons, village trustee; Helen Wozniak, village clerk; George Longmeyer, village manager, and Chief Carl Selke of the Hoffman Estates fire district. Timmons verified the authenticity of the petition signatures, which he obtained, and Mrs. Wozniak states she had crosschecked the names with village voter registration, and all persons were listed.

SELKE TESTIFIED that the Hoffman district would be able to serve the transferring property, and the change in responsibility would not harm the Palatine district.

Longmeyer was the only witness questioned by Arthur Zimmerman, attorney for the Hoffman Estates district. Longmeyer said the village is prepared to financially support the fire district, and knows the district would be unable to serve the area without financial aid. He also said he knows the Hoffman Estates district would not want the territory if a village department were not formed, and the district continued as the fire protection agency in the village.

The district this week asked the village for almost $250,000 in aid, and received a commitment for only about $53,000. Almost 20,000 is to finance pay raises firemen received last fiscal year, and $33,000 is to finance raises of 9 per cent per man for 1974-75, which started May 1. The other money sought by the district included $150,000 to pay salaries of 10 firemen to man a third station, under construction, and cover other 1973-74 deficits.

by STIRLING MORITA

There just aren't enough minutes in the day for Ellsworth Meineke of Schaumburg, and most of them are wrapped up in accomplishing his dream — the Spring Valley Nature Sanctuary.

The retired beekeeper, a known naturalist, has been busy with collecting plant, land and geological information, directing cleanups and establishing an advisory council for the planned nature center since the Schaumburg Park District last year passed a $700,000 bond issue for land acquisition.

Actually, Meineke, a former village official, started laying the groundwork for the project more than two years ago. However, negotiations for a majority of the 200 acres planned for the nature area between Meacham and Plum Grove roads and south of Schaumburg Road have become bogged down.

Despite the unanticipated, lengthy negotiations, the work has been "picking up momentum," Meineke said. Two acres of land have been donated by developer Jack Pritzker, and the area was named Pritzker Goove.

MEINEKE STARTED talking about a Spring Valley area about five years ago, and three years later, after conversations with Mayor Robert O. Atcher, a village committee was formed to look into the project.

Now village and park district officials have slated the work on the project to coincide with the nation's 200th birthday. About $90,000 in federal revenue sharing funds has been earmarked for the nature area.

A busy Meineke day might consist of spending time at the state geologic survey office and learn the original glacier patterns and about fossils in the area.

ABOUT 200 OF the more than 800 varieties of plants planned for the area cannot be purchased through commercial markets, he said. Meineke may spend a few days searching along old railroad right-of-ways or in abandoned cemeteries for seeds for some of the vegetation that once dotted the Spring Valley area.

"When you have to try to collect seeds (unavailable through commercial markets) for 20 acres, you're got a big job," Meineke pointed out, noting some seeds have to be treated differently than others.

Dream sanctuary keeps beekeeper naturally busy

tions in the area. After a heavy rainfall, Meineke is out in Spring Valley to check the effects of the rain.

Educational and soil conservation projects will check silt runoff into the tributary streams of Salt Creek, study development effects on a flood plain and see how high the water in the area will rise. The high-water mark is important, he contended, because seeds of some plants will not germinate in flooded conditions.

THE AIM OF THE project is to restore the area to the same conditions it was 200 years ago when the forefathers were busy fighting the British.

Certain areas have been planned to be forests, marshes, ponds and prairies. Trails will line the area, he said.

There will be something for almost everyone — a path where one can tell the type of plant by its fragrance or by its touch. Blinds will be available for observation.

Structures will probably be left standing to display some of the old craftsmanship of constructing walls with fieldstone, Meineke said.

He hopes to collect for educational purposes the types of rocks once brought into the area by glaciers. Hopefully, most of the residents will have planted their own plants in the area as part of the community project.

If it isn't a meeting tonight, Meineke might be able to find some free time about 10 p.m. to settle down and watch television.

Spring Valley has almost taken up his life — one that has never been without work.

Mount Prospect man found dead

A 55-year-old Mount Prospect man was found dead — shot in the head — Thursday morning at his place of business in Chicago.

A spokesman for Chicago Police Area 4 Homicide Investigators said Louis Spivak was found dead by employees of the Standard Automotive Parts store, 3601 W. Cermak Rd., about 8:05 a.m. Spivak, 1813 Locust Ln., Mount Prospect, was the owner of the store, according to police.

Police investigations were being conducted Thursday and police would not say why or how Spivak was shot.

'Humneo' performs Sunday

The singing group "Humneo," which is Greek for "to sing praise," will perform Sunday at the 8, 9:45 and 11 a.m. services at Prince of Peace Lutheran Church, 830 W. Higgins Rd., Hoffman Estates.

The group from La Habra, Calif., consists of 50 high school and college youth from Emanuel Lutheran Church of La Habra.

Their program, under the direction of the Rev. Stephen J. Kelly, includes contemporary Christian music, folk ballads and some original numbers written by members of the group.

Student to visit Denmark

Junior Kathy Craig from Schaumburg High School has been selected for the school's cultural exchange program and will travel to Denmark this month.

The program is new this year at Schaumburg. Funded by the school's student involvement group, Kathy will spend two months with a family in Denmark. She leaves Friday.

Students hope this first exchange will be the beginning of a more advanced foreign exchange program where students are sent abroad regularly in exchange for foreign students who visit here.

Easement bike path refused

Use of a natural-gas pipeline easement for a bicycle pathway in Schaumburg has been denied, a planner for Babbins and Associates Inc. said Thursday.

The Natural Gas Pipeline Co. of America has turned down the request for the use of the 80-foot easement for the pathway which would extend from Archer Park into western Elk Grove Village, said Chuck Kmen of Babbins.

Kmen said apparently some residents in the area had talked to the gas company and officials decided use of the easement should not be for the benefit of a

3-year fireman fails test; no full-time status

Hoffman Estates Fire Protection District trustees have turned down a request by firefighters to waive written test results for volunteer Scott Sutherland so he can become eligible for full-time status.

In a letter, the firefighters said Sutherland was a dedicated volunteer who often took a turn at night sleeper duty, and performed well in fire and emergency situations. He has worked with the fire department for about three years, said Fire Chief Carl Selke. Sutherland did not pass the written portion of the firefighter tests.

Arthur Zimmerman, district attorney, told firemen Wednesday night to grant the request would be illegal, but noted the firemen could ask the board to look at changing the point requirements for eligibility for future tests.

Board Pres. William Brilliant said it would be unfair to the other persons who took the tests to make an exception and it would be impossible to retest all the candidates.

In other business, Selke told the board he did not know when the third fire station would be completed. Holding up the final stage of construction is elimination of curbing in front of the driveway and the recent cement truck drivers' strike.

The fire district has recently asked the village for $150,000 so 10 men could be hired to man the station when it is opened.

'Y' Pathfinders trips plan

The Twinbrook YMCA Pathfinders Y-Fun Club schedule for the Aug. 5-9 session for youngsters in grades 1-3 includes a variety of trips.

Monday the group will visit Brookfield Zoo. The group will go to the Hinsdale Health Museum, Landing Forest Preserve and the Old Grau Mill Tuesday and to Pioneer Park in Aurora Wednesday. A trip to the Crabtree Nature Center and Deerfield Grove is set for Thursday morning with the afternoon spent learning how to make hamburgers at McDonalds in Hanover Park.

The group will go on a guided tour of the Field Museum Friday morning and will visit the Farm-in-the-Zoo at Lincoln Park in the afternoon.

The session costs $39 which includes transportation, meal, beverage, insurance and counselors.

Einstein contract may be terminated

Ranko Cimo Construction Co.'s contract to build Einstein School will be terminated if its work is not completed by July 10.

Upon recommendation of Guy Fishman, architect for Einstein, the Schaumburg Township Dist. 54 Board of Education approved a formal notice to the company that its contract will be terminated if construction is not completed by the July date.

A representative from Ranko stated its construction will be completed by that date if weather permits the company to finish the roofing. Einstein, located on Laurie Lane in Hanover Park, was to be finished by December, 1973. However, the company's financial situation has delayed construction.

EINSTEIN IS scheduled to open this September. After construction is completed the interior must be finished.

Construction cost for Einstein is about $800,000. Included in the contract is a $100 per day fee starting from December of last year for liquidated damages.

In other board action, Gordon Thoren, board president, apologized and took responsibility for the board's procedures at the June 6 meeting. He noted he had received several letters from people who had attended the meeting complaining about its length and the general conduct demonstrated by board members.

AT THE BEGINNING of that meeting, a 90-minute closed executive session was held. The meeting lasted until 2 a.m. with two hours spent discussing the lunch program for next year.

"It was my fault," Thoren said, adding he had not anticipated the lengthy executive session and will try to schedule such sessions at the end of future meetings. Also, he said he will try to conduct more orderly meetings.

Blood given this Sunday won't last long

Schaumburg residents who participate in Sunday's community blood drive may find it surprising to learn that their donation will be ready for distribution to a Chicago-area hospital within 24 hours.

The blood drawing will be held from 9 a.m. to 2 p.m. at Schaumburg High School. A goal of 275 units has been established for each community drive held this year, said Mary Nagy, blood drive chairman.

Blood collected Sunday will be immediately rushed to the Red Cross Blood Processing Center on Chicago's Near South Side, she explained, estimating total processing time for each 100 units at about 3 1/2 hours.

The blood center, adjacent to Michael Reese Hospital, has a staff of five technicians who handle blood processing which begins with placing the material in quarantine from the time it arrives until it is released for hospital use.

MRS. NAGY, a registered nurse, who assumed blood drive responsibilities last year, explained that samples, attached to each donor bag containing one unit of blood, are then spun down in an auto-analyzer capable of handling 120 units each hour.

"In the analyzer, each unit is checked for antibodies, tested to determine if the donor may have suffered from hepatitis and then typed and RH factor is determined," she continued.

If the blood gets this far into processing, labels are then attached by technicians who prepare the fluid for distribution. "Labels contain all information essential to that unit of blood, meaning the type, RH factor, sensitivities or rare antibodies it contains," she said.

Now the blood is ready for hospital use by the center who has its own delivery service. "Most blood collected here is used in the Chicago area since there is such an acute need for it here," Mrs. Nagy noted.

BLOOD NEEDS OF all Schaumburg residents are ensured under the Red Cross Community Replacement Program, adopted by the village 15 months ago, provided a minimum of 4 per cent of the community donates one unit of blood annually.

Close family members including parents and parents-in-law are also insured even though they do not live in the community, Mrs. Nagy said.

For information or to schedule an appointment on Sunday contact Mrs. Nagy, 529-1245.

Violent storms lash NW suburbs, blackouts numerous

A Herald staff report
Wind, hard-driving rain and the threat of tornadoes struck the Northwest suburbs Thursday night, but caused only minor property damage. At least 20,000 customers of Commonwealth Edison Co. were without electricity at some time in the evening.

During the height of the rainstorm three persons were injured in a fiery crash on Algonquin Road near Goebbert Road in Arlington Heights. An Arlington Heights woman, Elsie Sander, 85, and two Colorado residents were passengers in a car which burst into flames after being struck in the rear by a car driven by a Park Ridge man, Michael Sellergren. Mrs. Sander was reported in serious condition at Northwest Community Hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Landmeier of Grand Junction, Colo. were also taken to the hospital. Landmeier was in the intensive care unit suffering from burns. Mrs. Landmeier also was treated for burns.

BUT FOR THAT accident, power outages caused the most immediate effect on suburban families. Reports from area fire departments showed loss of electricity in a wide area and encompassing every community — but not every neighborhood — in the Northwest suburbs.

Among the storm damage reports:
• Reports of tornadoes were numerous but there were no reports of any funnel clouds touching ground. Reports of tornadoes touching down at Rand and Ill. Rte. 83 near Randhurst and at Rand and Ill. Rte. 53 were unfounded.

• Des Plaines sounded the weather alarm at 7:20 p.m. and within five minutes had 75 calls pouring into the fire and police departments inquiring about the alarm. Firemen reported large tree limbs down, power out on the north side at Wolf and Central and a transformer out at Maple and Touhy.

• In Arlington Heights and Mount Prospect traffic signals were not operating along Northwest Highway at some locations and police were dispatched to direct traffic.

• Mount Prospect police said high winds knocked down a tree onto a home on the 200 block of Mount Prospect Road, and firemen reported lightning hit a home at 316 N. Emerson. Numerous electrical wires were down.

• A spokesman at Palwaukee airport

reported power lines down in that area and runway lights were knocked out in the southeast section of the airport.

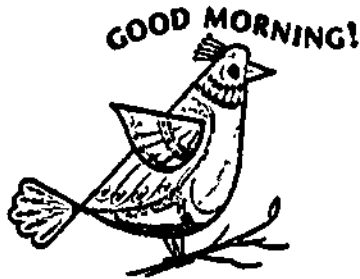

• Most of Hoffman Estates was reported out of power at 8:45 p.m. Police received at least five reports of electric power lines down and the switchboard was swamped with calls concerning weather conditions. There were no reports of serious damage in Schaumburg; no reports of flooding and no reports of wind damage.

• In Elk Grove Village and Rolling Meadows virtually no storm damage was reported.

• Buffalo Grove Police reported no serious damage, but there were scattered power outages in the village. A police spokesman said a tornado touchdown was reported north of Berkshire Trace in the village but said the report proved unfounded.

• In Wheeling, police said there was some wind damage. Residents called police to report tornado sightings, but none of the funnels touched ground.

• A Commonwealth Edison Co. spokesman said late Thursday night that power failures in the area were "fairly widespread."

Some wanted referendum

'Mini-survey' says residents support new public library

by MARCIA KRAMER

Residents of Mount Prospect polled in a mini-survey by The Herald Thursday expressed support for a new public library, though some voiced objections to not having been consulted beforehand through referendum.

"Since it's going to raise the taxes of the people, they should have something to say about it," declared Eleanor Ehler.

Mrs. Ehler, 700 N. Russell St., was among several residents called at random to sample opinion on the village board's intention to issue bonds to build a new library without conducting a referendum.

Mrs. Ehler said that if a referendum were held, she would be in favor of building a new library, at a cost of about $16 a year for 14 years, based on $10,000 equalized assessed valuation.

"Sixteen dollars isn't that much, considering the services," she remarked. "We pay more for other things."

ANOTHER RESIDENT, Raymond C. Soderstrom, 403 N. Emerson St., said tearing down the abandoned Central School building in downtown Mount Prospect for construction of a new library is "fine, a good idea." Soderstrom described himself as being "a little on the fence" over the need for a referendum.

"I like the idea of being able to save money (by not having a poll), but I sometimes wonder whether people should have a say."

Village Trustee Kenneth V. Scholten, who suggested skipping the referendum, has estimated it could save some $200,000 toward the overall cost of $3.2 million.

One woman who declined to give her name heartily endorsed the notion. "Considering the amount of money they're going to save, it is one of the few wise things they have done," she said. The village board has not officially voted as yet, but the finance committee has supported Scholten's idea, and other village board members contacted by The Herald on Wednesday concurred.

"Sometimes voters want to vote on every little thing, get their fingers in every pie," the woman continued. "You elect village officials and within the power granted them, they should be able to run the village."

OTHERS DISAGREED. "It's supposed to be for the people and paid by them," said a 41-year-old housewife, urging a referendum be held. Likewise, Mrs. Nancy Schulkey, 200 N. Maple St., said, "We ought to get a choice in the matter."

Mrs. Schulkey is particularly affected by the future of the Central School site because she and her husband bought their house largely because of its proximity to the school, which later was closed down, forcing the Schulkey children to take a bus to school. "We're already paying through the nose for what they did here before," she said, referring to the referendum to expand Lincoln Junior High School to handle the influx of former Central School students.

Another resident, Mrs. Herman Madler, 108 S. George St., said she supports the new library. "I feel a library is a very important part of the community. If they could point out the need for either a larger facility or more books, I don't think $16 a year would be asking a lot."

The library board has said it needs more space because there is not enough room in the present library, at 14 E. Busse Ave., to display books.

No incorporation accord reached in Prospect Hts.

by TOM VON MALDEN

Attempts to reach a compromise with all eight objectors to Prospect Heights' incorporation broke down Thursday. Cook County Circuit Court Judge Harry G. Comerford immediately ordered a resumption of the court hearing and set aside July 19 and 22 for the case.

The hearing is to determine whether an election on Prospect Heights' incorporation will be held. Residents of the unincorporated area surrounded by Wheeling, Mount Prospect and Arlington Heights want to incorporate so that they will have control over development in their area and will not become a part of the three surrounding communities.

Donald Kreger, attorney for the incorporation-sponsoring Prospect Heights Improvement Assn., said the compromise attempts failed because Northbrook asked the case be continued and Arlington Heights would not compromise on the west boundary of the proposed municipality.

ARLINGTON HEIGHTS, through its village attorney, Jack Siegel, has insisted that Prospect Heights extend only as far west as Schoenbeck Road. Meanwhile, the PHIA had offered to pull back as far as the east lot line of the homes on the east side of Waterman Avenue, Kreger said.

The difference of about three blocks apparently could not be worked out. If the east lot line compromise had been accepted, Prospect Heights could have annexed the homes on Waterman Avenue as soon as it was incorporated.

Residents of the Waterman Avenue area, who are almost 100 per cent behind not wanting to become part of Arlington Heights, have said Arlington Heights' only interest in them is as a means to block Prospect Heights from reaching property with commercial potential along Rand Road. They said Arlington Heights wants the commercial potential for itself.

SINCE COMPROMISE could not be worked out with all the objectors, the tentative agreements worked out with the other objectors are wiped out. These compromises included deletion from the Prospect Heights plans of Allgauer's Fireside Restaurant and the Holiday Inn on Milwaukee Avenue, all parts of Palwaukee Airport and property south of Hintz Road and west of Schoenbeck

Resident found dead of gunshot in Chicago

A 55-year-old Mount Prospect man was found dead — shot in the head — Thursday morning at his place of business in Chicago.

A spokesman for Chicago Police Area 4 Homicide investigators said Louis Spivak was found dead by employees of the Standard Automotive Parts store, 3801 W. Cermak Rd., about 8:05 a.m. Spivak, 1813 Locust Ln., Mount Prospect, was the owner of the store, according to police.

Police investigations were being conducted Thursday and police would not say why or how Spivak was shot.

A CONTESTANT in the Miss Mount Prospect Pageant, Debbie Rhodes, practices her dance routine during a rehearsal for Saturday night's contest. She and seven others are vying to be Miss Mount Prospect.

Village 'Miss' will be crowned at Prospect Saturday

by MARCIA KRAMER

The new Miss Mount Prospect will be crowned Saturday night after a whirlwind of strolls down the Prospect High School aisle.

The eight contestants will be judged in bathing suit, evening gown and talent competition. The winner will be crowned by the 1973 Miss Mount Prospect, Susan Dawn Busch, who went on to become second runner-up in the Miss Illinois pageant. The local contest is sponsored by the Mount Prospect Jaycees.

Rehearsals for the event have taken place nightly this week at the high school theater. The pageant will begin at 8 p.m.

MASTER OF ceremonies will be Ron Weinrich, a field director for the Miss Illinois pageant. The Mellow-tones will provide entertainment, along with Ken Wagner, a singer with The Music Express.

The contestants are:
• Jaye Hoozko, 18, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Hoozko, 1840 Howard Ave., Des Plaines; a student at Maine West High School.

• Judy Huck, 18, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Huck, 1805 Wistaria Ct., Mount Prospect; a student at John Hersey High School.

• Sue McCormack, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John McCormack, 9 Wilwood Rd., Elk Grove Village; a student at Harper College and a dental assistant.

• Vanessa Olos, 18, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Olos, 251 Springfield Terr., Des Plaines; a student at Forest View High School.

• Janis Pearse, 18, daughter of Mrs. Eleanor Pearse, 201 N. Maple St., Mount Prospect; a student at the University of Illinois.

• Debbie Rhodes, 18, daughter of Mrs. Claudia Seversen, 1443 Fern Dr., Mount Prospect; a student at Forest View High School.

Accord on golf course fence to be asked Monday

Objectors to a fence being planned along the east side of the Mount Prospect Country Club will meet Monday night with a Mount Prospect Park District committee to try to resolve their differences.

No conclusion was reached at an informal meeting Wednesday night among 17 objectors and Robert T. Jackson, president of the park board.

One objector, Ruth Walker, 407 We-GO Tr., described the one-hour session as "a frank interchange of viewpoints." Jackson was unavailable for comment Thursday.

The park board has authorized installation of a four-foot, green vinyl chain link fence along the east side of the golf course on We-GO, from Lincoln Street to Shabonee Trail, in order to deter vandals. The homeowners contend the fence would be unattractive, and suggest "a more appropriate fence that would preserve the scenic value as well as protect the golf course."

Some 200 residents of the area have signed petitions asking the park board to reconsider its decision. Monday's meeting, with the park board's building and grounds committee, will begin at 7:30 p.m. in the Lions Park Recreation Center, 411 S. Maple St.

Dist. 23 wrapup

Public hearing set on 1974-75 budget

A public hearing on Dist. 23's tentative 1974-75 budget has been scheduled for 7:30 p.m. July 24 at the administration office, Palatine and Schoenbeck roads, Prospect Heights.

Copies of the more than $2.491 million budget are available for public viewing at the administration office, and at the homes of board members Melvin Loe, 3 Garden Ct., Prospect Heights, and Ron Sowatzke, 201 E. Willow Rd., Prospect Heights.

Following the public hearing, the board can take action to approve the tentative budget. Because calculations are based on several unconfirmed statistics such as assessed valuation and a real estate multiplier of 1.50, the budget is subject to change even after it is approved, according to district officials.

The budget was compiled based on the assumption that the total assessed valuation of the district will increase, that the state will follow through with full-funding of the state aid formula and that the Cook County resource equalizer formula will remain 1.50 rather than 1.48.

No figures, however, on assessed valuation have been released by the Cook County Assessor's office, and no determination has been made on whether or not the multiplier will be reduced. The outlook for full funding also looks bleak since Gov. Daniel Walker has stated his opposition to it even though the Illinois General Assembly has approved the measure.

Mobile units sale OK'd

The board at its meeting Wednesday approved the sale of two of its unused mobile units to Northbrook School Dist. 30. Dist. 30 has agreed to pay $2,500 for each portable and assume the cost of transporting the units.

Policy changes approved

A number of policy amendments and new policy statements were approved by the board. Included among them were updated statements on reimbursement for required teacher medical exams, travel reimbursement, procedure for recovering compensation from students who lose or damage district property, rental of musical instruments, personal days for certified and non-certified personnel, the awarding of attendance certificates to students who do not meet minimum standards for receiving a diploma and a 15-point job description of the school nurse's duties.

Board meeting canceled

The board will have only one meeting in July. The board voted to cancel its July 3 meeting and meet only on July 10.

Robber gets $300 at ticket booth in Randhurst

Mount Prospect police Thursday continued their search for a well-dressed robber who got away with more than $300 Tuesday night from the National Entertainment Service booth at the Montgomery Ward store in the Randhurst Shopping Center.

A clerk told police the man approached her just at 9 p.m., closing time, and stated he was from the ticket agency. The clerk opened the locked cage door for the man and then asked for his identification, police said.

Instead of the proper credentials, the man produced a bulge in his pocket and allegedly said, "I have a gun in my pocket. I want everything out of the cash register and I'm not kidding." The clerk placed the money in a gray typewriter case the man was carrying, police said.

The man was described as about 27 years old, 6 feet 3 inches tall, thin build and with shoulder-length blond hair and blond mustache. He was wearing a dark blue vest and tailored suit, police said.

$23,000 estimated damage from blaze

Damage has been placed at $23,000 in Tuesday's arson fire at a local builder's office.

Mount Prospect fire officials said a flammable liquid was apparently used to touch off the fire in the foyer of the converted ranch home at 905 E. Euclid Ave. The office is that of the J. M. Brickman Midwest Corp.

Much of the damage to contents was to clothing that was stored in part of the building. The name of the clothes is B & R Imports, firemen said.

Investigation of the 11 p.m. fire authorities with both local and state officials involved. Brickman is the developer of the controversial Villas of Port Au Prince condominium project at the northwest corner of Camp McDonald and River roads. A group of area homeowners is battling in court to halt the 80-unit, five-story project.

Prospect pom pon squad in Indiana

The pompon squad from Prospect High School in Mount Prospect is attending a two-week workshop at Vincennes University in Vincennes, Ind. The workshop is being conducted by Dale Robins and the National Drill Team Assn.

Members of the squad include captain Janine Jensen, Sue Tolzien, Sue Moore, Judy Kirchhoff, Sue Shoberg, Diane Rerach, Sue Phipps, Debbie Betts, Pam Clavert, Marilyn Wendt, Lynda Ursin, Dona Mastensen, Robin Scott, Kathy Tanaka, Janet Nyquist, Lynn Ronchetto and Debbie Obrycki.

'Miss' will be crowned

played at Montgomery Ward and Co. • Francine Spores, 19, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Spores, 1705 Laurel Dr., Mount Prospect; a student at Harper College.

THE WINNER of the pageant will go on to participate in the Miss Illinois contest. In addition, she will receive a scholarship and use of a car for the summer.

First and second runners up also will be selected, as well as a "Miss Congeniality" named by the contestants themselves.

The five judges in the contest have been associated with pageants in Illinois and Indiana. They are Warren Hanson, a member of the Miss Illinois steering committee; Dennis Sutherland, also a member of the Miss Illinois steering committee; Sue Wade, business manager for the Miss Illinois pageant; Larry Blasius, founder and chairman of the Miss Muncie pageant and "house-father" of the Miss Illinois pageant, and John Price, past vice president and a member of the board of directors of the Miss Indiana pageant.

Tickets for the pageant, at $1.75 per person, will be available at the door.

More parking spaces for village employees

Parking spaces behind the Mount Prospect Village Hall have been reallocated to provide additional spaces for village employees and court officials, at the expense of spaces for the public.

In changes recommended by Police Chief Ralph J. Doney, eight spaces in the first aisle along Maple Street, which had been two-hour metered spaces open to the public, have been designated for the exclusive use of village employees and court officials. Meanwhile, four free 15-minute spaces immediately next to the village hall will be available to the public.

The entrance to the parking lot now carries signs noting "municipal employees, court officials and village business only. Tow away zone." The lot is open to the public after regular business hours.

Doney said that even with the changes, the lot is eight spaces short of filling the needs of village employees.

Road, owned by eight families. Neither PHIA Pres. Jack Gilligan nor Vice Pres. Richard Wolf could be reached for comment Thursday. It is known that Gilligan especially had been hoping for a compromise agreement, as such would preclude any court appeals by the objectors.

Several of the objectors, led by Siegel, have asked Comerford to throw out the testimony of the PHIA's population witness. Comerford is expected to rule on the motion after Kregger has closed his case. The PHIA must prove the incorporation area is under four square miles in area with a population of at least 7,500 and must prove the incorporation petitions submitted to the court are valid.

Amateur dog contest scheduled next week

Got a dog that does tricks on cue? You may want to enter him in an amateur dog show June 28 at the Mount Prospect Plaza.

Prizes will be awarded in each of the following categories: largest, smallest, best trick, best groomed and best costumed. A special category is being set up for puppies. Dogs can be entered in more than one category.

The contest will begin at 10:30 a.m. in the grassy area behind Frederick Jewellers at the plaza, Rand and Central roads. Dogs must be accompanied by children, who must be accompanied by an adult. Dogs must be kept on a leash and under control.

Registration for the contest will begin at 9:45 a.m. Application blanks are available at plaza shops. There is no entry fee.

Free Hearing Tests Set For Senior Citizens

Electronic hearing aid service will be given at Beltone Hearing Aid Service offices on Monday and Tuesday.

Factory-trained hearing aid specialists will be at all of the offices listed below to perform the tests.

Anyone who has trouble hearing or understanding is welcome to have a test using the latest electronic equipment to determine his or her particular loss. Diagrams showing how the ear works and some of the causes of hearing loss will be available.

Everyone should have a hearing test at least once a year if there is any trouble at all hearing clearly. Even people now wearing a hearing aid or those who have been told nothing could be done for them should have a hearing test and find out about the latest methods of hearing correction. The hearing test will be given Monday and Tuesday. If you can't get there on Monday or Tuesday, call one of the numbers below and arrange for an appointment at another time. Shut-in service is available in your home. Just phone the Beltone Hearing Aid Service nearest to you.

Teen ready to leave for Switzerland

Barbara Leanne Cain, 14, of 1441 S. Fern Dr., leaves Monday for Flesch, Switzerland. The sophomore at Forest View High School will be attending the World Youth Conference of the Nazarene Young People's Society, an auxiliary of the Church of the Nazarene.

Barbara was selected after a good deal of Bible memory work, personal statements and a series of interviews. There will be 25 young people from the Chicago area making the trip.

Miss Cain will spend a week at the conference along with 2,000 other Nazarene teenagers from around the world. Before returning home, she will spend another week visiting Paris and the Rhineland in Germany.

MOUNT PROSPECT Chamber of Commerce executive director C. O. Schlaver, had a lucky streak at the Illinois Assn. of Chamber of Commerce Executives at Macomb recently. He won the golf championship, the door prize and was awarded a college "scholarship." He cashes in on the education prize next week.

"C. O." will be attending the Institute for Management at the University of Notre Dame's Center for Continuing Education. He'll be living in a dorm and mingling with other Chamber execs from the Midwest. The scholarship prize came from the U. S. and Illinois Chamber executive associations.

Schlaver claims he'll be the oldest college freshman on campus. Perhaps — but the best student, for sure!

BY THE WAY, did you know that the annual vehicle safety check, cosponsored by the C & C and the Jaycees, attracted 10 per cent more cars than last year!

IT WAS A REALLY nice letter the Hersey High School band members received inviting them to participate in the Tournament of Roses parade on New Year's Day. Normally bands rigorously compete to be included in the event. Hersey was simply "invited."

The letter of invitation included, "On rare occasions we have believed a band to be so outstanding that we decide to initiate the selection process ourselves. I would like to extend an official invitation to the John Hersey High School Band to participate in our parade on New Year's Day, 1975." The letter came from the chairman of the Tournament of Roses Music Committee.

Hersey is the first Dist. 214 high school to be so honored. As a matter of fact, in the past 25 years a high school band from the State of Illinois has not participated in the parade. As a result, the local young people will be representing the state in addition to our community.

ARLENE FLORA Kargacs, 12 N. Williams, will show about 12 oil paintings in the Highland Park Art Festival on July 6 and 7. The exhibition will take place in Highland Park on Central Avenue between First and Second Streets. Admission is free. The hours are from 10 a.m. to dusk.

Arlene's work is modern and abstract. She has been exhibiting for the past 18 years.

Softball draws pro athletes

A softball game featuring professional sports stars will highlight the Third Maryville Chuck Wagon Day Sunday afternoon at Maryville Academy, 1150 N. River Rd., Des Plaines.

The softball game, which pits senior boys of Maryville against the professionals, will run from 1 to 3 p.m. Pro stars expected to attend the game include past and present Chicago Bears Ric Coady, Glen Holloway, Doug Buffone, Mike Pyle, George Connors, Bill De Correvant, Wayne Mass, Bob Newton and Bob Ascher; Jay Berwanger, recipient of the First Heisman Trophy; Chicago Fire player Virgil Carter; Kansas City Chief player George Seals; Chicago Bull general manager John Kerr and player Tom Boerwinkle;

Teens learn how to swing

When do you use a short iron and when do you use a long iron? The answer to that question and other golfing queries is being learned this summer by some 85 teenagers enrolled in a golf class offered by the Mount Prospect Park District.

The instructor is Jack Hogan, a golfer for 25 years and a PGA pro for the last 20 years.

The four lessons cover the fundamentals of the game of golf — when to use each club, and how to use them. Besides irons, the youths are being coached in use of woods and putters.

By the way, long irons are used for fairway shots, and short irons for approach shots.

Police believe burglar was one busy 'cat'

by TOM VON MALDER

Arlington Heights police Thursday said they have linked the suspected Elk Grove Village cat burglar to 42 burglaries in their village. The burglaries date to January, 1973, police said.

Meanwhile, Elk Grove Village police are preparing at least 10 burglary charges against the man, Robert E. Williams Jr., 20, of 29 Grange Pl., Elk Grove. Elk Grove police said they believe Williams may be responsible for as many as 15 burglaries and seven attempts during the last two months in Elk Grove Village.

Mount Prospect police, who arrested Williams early Wednesday and charged him with four burglaries, said they have discovered a fifth burglary in the same 1101 Hunt Club Rd. apartment building and have linked Williams to it. In addition,

Mount Prospect police are investigating eight other burglaries which they believe Williams committed during the past few weeks.

Arlington Heights Police Capt. Irvin McDougall said his department allegedly has oral statements from William that links him to the 42 burglaries. According to McDougall, two Arlington Heights police detectives drove Williams around that village pointing out various burglary locations and having him either say he had or had not committed burglaries at each location.

WILLIAMS IS BEING held by Mount Prospect police on $100,000 bond, pending an appearance Wednesday in the Mount Prospect branch of Cook County Circuit Court. He was to have been sent to the Cook County Jail late Thursday.

The Herald also learned Thursday that Elk Grove Village police are seeking a second man in connection with the burglaries in that village. The second arrest is "imminent," according to Lt. William Kohrke.

The man sought by Elk Grove Village police, an area resident, was linked to the case by a 16-year-old girl, who was found in Williams' car by Mount Prospect police shortly after his arrest.

According to the girl, who is a "walk-away" from the Niehoff Pavilion psychiatric ward of Alexian Brothers Medical Center, the second man allegedly helped Williams in several of the Elk Grove Village burglaries, police said. Police added the girl, who is not being charged by either police department, confessed to being involved in one break-in.

Police also said Williams allegedly would take money from stolen purses and wallets and then hide them under garbage, according to the girl. Purses and wallets were among the cat burglar's most favored items, police said.

WHEN WILLIAMS was arrested, police said they recovered a gold Buddha statue, four watches, a set of keys, three lighters, a mirror in a green case, a blue cloth cigaret case and a gold pill box. All these items allegedly are linked to burglaries in Elk Grove Village, where a total of 15 burglaries and seven attempts have been credited to the same cat burglar and his accomplices.

From the four Mount Prospect burglaries, with which Williams is charged, police said they have recovered three wallets, a purse, checkbook, pocketbook and beer.

Mount Prospect police said the other eight burglaries that might be linked to Williams mainly occurred at the Alpine and Mount Shire apartment complexes.

Elk Grove Village police Thursday confirmed they had recovered much of the property stolen from that village in an apartment at 2842 Montrose Ave., Chicago. They said the apartment was leased to Williams. The recovered items included hand calculators and stereo equipment.

According to Arlington Heights police, Williams was convicted of a burglary in Arlington Heights about three months ago and is on five years' probation.

Violent storms lash NW suburbs, blackouts numerous

A Herald staff report

Wind, hard-driving rain and the threat of tornadoes struck the Northwest suburbs Thursday night, but caused only minor property damage. At least 20,000 customers of Commonwealth Edison Co. were without electricity at some time in the evening.

During the height of the rainstorm three persons were injured in a fiery crash on Algonquin Road near Goebbert Road in Arlington Heights. An Arlington Heights woman, Elsie Sander, 85, and two Colorado residents were passengers in a car which burst into flames after being struck in the rear by a car driven by a Park Ridge man, Michael Seltzer. Mrs. Sander was reported in serious condition at Northwest Community Hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Landmeyer of Grand Junction, Colo. were also taken to the hospital. Landmeyer was in the intensive care unit suffering from burns. Mrs. Landmeyer also was treated for burns.

BUT FOR THAT accident, power outages caused the most immediate effect on suburban families. Reports from area fire departments showed loss of electricity in a wide area and encompassing every community — but not every neighborhood — in the Northwest suburbs.

Among the storm damage reports:

- Reports of tornadoes were numerous but there were no reports of any funnel clouds touching ground. Reports of tornadoes touching down at Rand and Ill. Rte. 83 near Randhurst and at Rand and Ill. Rte. 63 were unfounded.
- Des Plaines sounded the weather siren at 7:20 p.m. and within five minutes had 75 calls pouring into the fire and police departments inquiring about the alarm. Firemen reported large tree limbs down, power out on the north side at Wolf and Central and a transformer out at Maple and Touhy.

- In Arlington Heights and Mount Prospect traffic signals were not operating along Northwest Highway at some locations and police were dispatched to direct traffic.

- Mount Prospect police said high winds knocked down a tree onto a home on the 200 block of Mount Prospect Road, and firemen reported lightning hit a home at 316 N. Emerson. Numerous electrical wires were down.
- A spokesman at Palwaukee airport reported power lines down in that area and runway lights were knocked out in the southeast section of the airport.

- Most of Hoffman Estates was reported out of power at 8:45 p.m. Police received at least five reports of electric power lines down and the switchboard was swamped with calls concerning weather conditions. There were no reports of serious damage in Schaumburg; no reports of flooding and no reports of wind damage.
- In Elk Grove Village and Rolling Meadows virtually no storm damage was reported.

- Buffalo Grove Police reported no serious damage, but there were scattered power outages in the village. A police spokesman said a tornado touchdown was reported north of Berkshire Trace in the village but said the report proved unfounded.

- In Wheeling, police said there was some wind damage. Residents called police to report tornado sightings, but none of the funnels touched ground.

- A Commonwealth Edison Co. spokesman said late Thursday night that power failures in the area were "fairly widespread."

Windsor Woods tenants get vow for upgrading

by JOE SWICKARD

A tenants' committee and the management of Windsor Woods apartments met Thursday in an apparently successful negotiation session to upgrade conditions at the complex.

The committee members, representing about 155 tenants of the development on N. Windsor Drive near Hintz, was organized last week in an effort to bring about improved maintenance services and to correct village code violations.

Spokesmen for the groups said it was formed after individual letters and telephone calls to the JMB Realty Corp., of Chicago, were unsuccessful. The committee claimed to represent all but about 40 residents of the development.

The meeting was held under the auspices of Frank Charlton, village health director.

Charlton, committee members and a spokesman for JMB said the meeting was "very fruitful" and agreement had been reached in all areas.

Prior to the meeting, one resident assessed the conditions at the apartment complex: "We've been having a heck of a lot of troubles just getting the place cleaned."

THE PROBLEMS, according to the committee members, began last fall. The lawns weren't being cared for, hallways went unswept and debris often littered the common yards. They pointed to light fixtures broken and unrepaired for weeks while the general appearance of the complex slid.

They said individual telephone calls were not returned and letters were not answered.

The complex received more than 50 building and health code violations when it was inspected for a village license. More than a month passed and the tenants saw no action.

The talk grew and some seriously considered a rent strike until conditions were improved.

"We were by ourselves, each building talking just to itself," said Dennis Hague, a committee member. "Then we started talking to other buildings and we found we had the same problems."

From this, the idea of a committee was formed. Each of the buildings chose representatives to the committee which, in turn, elected John M. Fahey as chairman.

THE COMMITTEE members, armed with a copy of the village inspection report, went to the municipal building to thrash it out.

The meeting fell into two sections, according to Charlton. The first dealt with the maintenance problems and the second was concerned with tenant-management relations.

"The tenants called me and asked for the meeting. I saw no point in talking unilaterally, so we got JMB in here, too. There are great things what communication can do," Charlton said.

Charlton said the committee members were concerned that the village was allowing the company to drag its feet on correcting problems. This impression was cleared up.

"They agreed to start immediately on the small things. They are going to cut the grass . . . They've hired a full-time maintenance man who can do the little, handyman-type things," said Fahey.

A JMB spokesman said, "We had a great meeting. We've agreed to settle things. . . . We're in complete mutual agreement with the committee."

CHARLTON ASSURED the committee members, "I told them we would see there was no foot-dragging. . . . We'll give them a reasonable time to correct malters. If we find there is stalling, we'll throw the book at them in a hurry," he said.

As part of the assurance, there will be frequent inspections of the buildings and grounds, Charlton said.

Charlton bowed out for the second portion of the meeting, getting management and tenants reach a common ground by themselves.

The result was a setting down of a grievance procedure and establishment of rules for tenant responsibility.

Some of the complaints had grown from persons letting old cars sit for months in the lots and storing motorcycles inside the buildings.

"The management wasn't all wrong and the tenants weren't all right. And vice versa," said Fahey.

THE JMB SPOKESMAN said, "It impressed that this group was so concerned and cared."

Charlton said, "The biggest thing to come out was the resident manager will be meeting weekly with the committee."

Fahey reported repairs had begun by the time he returned from the meeting.

"There was no unified action before, and then we formed the committee. You get a lot of people together and you have what they call in Mayor Daley's office 'clout.'"

ERWIN PAGE, Arlington Heights village forester, takes a closer look at a suspected case of Dutch elm disease. The brown leaves are the first tipoff, but, said Page, streaks under the bark are an almost sure sign of it. Page estimates that up to 3 per cent of the 10,000 elms will become diseased.

Village forester fights Dutch elm disease

by JOE SWICKARD

"You know, I think trees are the most beautiful and valuable asset a town can have," said Erwin Page, village forester for Arlington Heights.

Every June comes what must be a distasteful yet necessary task for Page: marking trees that must be cut down because, in most cases, of Dutch elm disease.

Page cruises the streets of the village in mid-June looking for elms with the browning leaves that are the first outward symptoms of the fatal disease. If a sample twig shows brown streaking beneath the bark, Page gives the tree a fluorescent green dot, marking it for felling within 10 days.

HOMEOWNERS OFTEN react sadly when they learn their elms must come down. It was the large trees that often times attracted the homeowner in first place, Page said.

"They tell me they could have bought a home in one of the newer subdivisions, but they liked the big trees. And now those old trees may have to be removed and replaced with the new, smaller ones," he said.

Arlington Heights, like many other towns in the eastern United States, planted heavily with elms. The trees grew quickly and their branches joined over streets to form arches.

"Elms are beautiful. For their growth, strength and beauty they are hard to match," he said.

At that time, nurserymen considered the elm an "ideal tree." They did not realize that in the 1950s, Dutch elm disease would spread across the country.

ARLINGTON HEIGHTS has about 5,500 elms on village owned and maintained parkways and about 5,000 elms on private property, Page estimated. He said he expected to lose 2.5 to 3 per cent of the elm population this year because of the disease. In some years, the toll has run as high as 5 per cent, he said.

Despite the forecast of a 3 per cent mortality rate, Page said so far this year fewer cases have been sighted.

"I've talked to my friends in other towns — Elmhurst and Evanston — and they tell me they've got tons of it around. Maybe it's because of the cooler weather here. The lower temperatures retard the showup of it," he said.

In about 95 per cent of the cases, Dutch elm disease is spread by the lesser European bark beetle as it moves from tree to tree. In the other five per cent, the disease is transmitted through intertwining roots.

Contrary to common belief, the disease strikes most elms. The name "Dutch" is derived from the Netherlands where the disease was first identified, rather than a "Dutch elm."

ONLY THE CHINESE, or more accurately Siberian, elms are resistant. Page said of 1,000 he has sampled, only three were infected.

However, the strain makes a perfect breeding ground for the beetle which spreads the disease.

Village ordinance provides that any diseased elm, whether on private or public land, must be removed within 10 days once detected.

Page said trees on the parkways are removed at the village's expense through a private contractor. If space permits, they are replaced with a sturdier tree, usually linden, maple, ash or locust.

Because of the experience with Dutch elm disease, foresters now space trees 40 to 50 feet apart. Earlier plantings were much closer together, enabling disease to move through the intertwined root systems.

RESIDENTS MAY PAY an additional fee for a larger tree to replace a diseased one. The fee can range from $40 up to $200, depending on size.

"About 13 per cent of the people went for the option," Page said, adding that more wanted to, but backed down because of cost.

Property owners must contract with private firms to remove diseased trees on their land. Page recommended getting two or three price estimates, but said the cost is usually "a couple hundred dollars, at least."

Page will inspect elms on private property without fee. He said it was worth it to help stop the spread of the disease. Because of soil conditions, Page has had to go heavily with ash trees, a practice that he admittedly may regret in the future.

"Ash trees are fine — so far. But, who knows what will happen 20 years from now. They didn't see the problems with the elms. No matter what you plant you will have problems. There is no perfect tree," he said.

Dist. 23 wrapup

Public hearing set on 1974-75 budget

A public hearing on Dist. 23's tentative 1974-75 budget has been scheduled for 7:30 p.m. July 24 at the administration office, Palatine and Schoenbeck roads, Prospect Heights.

Copies of the more than $2.481 million budget are available for public viewing at the administration office, and at the homes of board members Melvin Lacey, 3 Garden Ct., Prospect Heights, and Ron Sowatzke, 201 E. Willow Rd., Prospect Heights.

Following the public hearing, the board can take action to approve the tentative budget. Because calculations are based on several unconfirmed statistics such as assessed valuation and a real estate multiplier of 1.50, the budget is subject to change even after it is approved, according to district officials.

The budget was compiled based on the assumption that the total assessed valuation of the district will increase, that the state will follow through with full-funding of the state aid formula and that the Cook County resource equalizer formula will remain 1.50 rather than 1.48.

No figures, however, on assessed valuation have been released by the Cook County Assessor's office, and no determination has been made on whether or not the multiplier will be reduced. The outlook for full funding also looks bleak since Gov. Daniel Walker has stated his opposition to it even though the Illinois General Assembly has approved the measure.

Mobile units sale OKd

The board at its meeting Wednesday approved the sale of two of its unused mobile units to Northbrook School Dist. 30. Dist. 30 has agreed to pay $2,500 for each portable and assume the cost of transporting the units.

Policy changes approved

A number of policy amendments and new policy statements were approved by the board. Included among them were updated statements on reimbursement for required teacher medical exams, travel reimbursement, procedure for recovering compensation from students who lose or damage district property, rental of musical instruments, personal days for certified and non-certified personnel, the awarding of attendance certificates to students who do not meet minimum standards for receiving a diploma and a 15-point job description of the school nurse's duties.

Board meeting canceled

The board will have only one meeting in July. The board voted to cancel its July 3 meeting and meet only on July 10.

Wheeling band 3rd at Virginia

VIRGINIA BEACH, Va. — The Wheeling High School marching band placed third in the 13th annual Virginia Beach Band festival here Thursday.

The Wheeling band challenged 17 bands from eight states in four days of competition. The award was announced at 9 p.m. in ceremonies concluding the festival.

Falls Church High School, Falls Church, Va., placed first and James W. Robbins High School, Fairfax, Va., placed second. Competition was sponsored by the Virginia Beach Chamber of Commerce.

Hersey class of '70 reunion Saturday

Hersey High School's Class of 1970 will celebrate its fourth reunion Saturday with a picnic at Deer Grove Forest preserve.

The family picnic will be held from 10:30 a.m. to 6:30 p.m. in Grove One. Members of Hersey's first graduating class may bring picnic lunches, barbecue grills and sports equipment. Beer and wine are permitted in the forest preserve.

Class members should stop at the reception desk at the park to pick up a name tag and sign the guest registry. In the event of rain the class will gather at the high school. More information on the picnic is available from Debbie Band-clow, 253-3963.

Railroad fined for Des Plaines noise offenses

by FRAN SLIMMER

The Chicago and North Western Ry. was convicted Thursday on 18 charges of violating Des Plaines' anti-noise ordinance and was fined $500 plus $100 court costs.

The city and the railroad met in Cook County Circuit Court for a jury trial Thursday. This is the second time Des Plaines has charged North Western with violation of its anti-noise ordinance. In Thursday's case, the city charged the railroad with 27 separate violations of its 55-decibel noise limit. The court found the North Western guilty on 18 of those counts.

The maximum fine that could have been imposed for each offense was $500 — for a $13,500 possible total.

Corporation Counsel Robert DiLeonardi said the city is "reasonably satisfied with the results." This is the second case Des Plaines has won against the North Western, and DiLeonardi said he hoped these decisions in favor of the city would persuade the railroad to take the necessary steps to curb the noise.

WHEN RAILROAD representatives testified Thursday, they said North Western is doing what it can to muffle the noise and is expecting a shipment of muffling devices within a month or two.

The city hopes the devices will be effective, DiLeonardi said.

The city argued for a higher fine, but has found the courts are reluctant to impose the maximum penalty in such cases, he said. Also, the court probably took into consideration good faith shown by the railroad as far as its attempts to muffle the noise, he added.

The city gave evidence showing on certain dates "the noise levels at residential boundary lines reached beyond the tolerance levels of the ordinance," DiLeonardi said. This happened on consecutive days and the court probably considered that fact in their decision, he said.

AREA RESIDENTS have complained of noise from locomotives entering and leaving the railroad yard. The yard is adjacent to primarily residential areas located northeast of the Wolf Road-Thacker Street intersection on the city's northwest side.

The railroad uses the yard to store equipment, including the locomotives used in the company's commuter operation.

The city adopted the anti-noise ordinance after residents near the yard petitioned the city council to take action against the railroad operations. Residents complained that for more than three years, the railroad had been starting locomotives as early as 4 a.m. each day.

City inspectors conducted tests at the railroad facilities and determined the operation exceeded the noise limits set in the ordinance.

When the first complaint was filed last year, railroad attorneys argued that the city could not impose its ordinance on the company.

They stated that federal regulations on noise pollution superceded the city's ordinance. However, a circuit court judge denied the railroad's request to dismiss the case on those grounds. The city won its case and the railroad was fined $80.

Post office to offer passport instruction

The Arlington Heights Post Office will hold special instruction sessions on applying for a passport for groups of 10 or more traveling abroad.

John R. Butz, officer in charge of the post office, said the instruction session will be given to the group leader. Later, a post office representative will meet with the entire group at the post office or a place of the group's choice to complete the applications.

The Arlington Heights Post Office, 909 W. Euclid Ave., is one of 850 post offices, stations and branches in the United States that accept passport applications. Butz said 5,000 passport applications were issued last year.

Hersey High senior listed in 'Who's Who'

David Baldridge, a senior from Hersey High School, has been named recently to the publication "Who's Who Among American High School Students."

Baldridge has been editor-in-chief of the Hersey student newspaper, a member of the National honor society and winner of two art merit awards. He plans to attend the University of Illinois and major in engineering.

"Who's Who" is an annual publication which lists over 20,000 high school students each year. Less than 3 per cent of juniors and seniors in the United States receive the honor.

'Cat' burglar hit at least 4 suburbs: police

by TOM VON MALDER

Arlington Heights police Thursday said they have linked the suspected Elk Grove Village cat burglar to 42 burglaries in their village. The burglaries date to January, 1973, police said.

Meanwhile, Elk Grove Village police are preparing at least 10 burglary charges against the man, Robert E. Williams Jr., 20, of 29 Grange Pl., Elk Grove. Elk Grove police said they believe Williams may be responsible for as many as 15 burglaries and seven attempts during the last two months in Elk Grove Village.

Mount Prospect police, who arrested Williams early Wednesday and charged him with four burglaries, said they have discovered a fifth burglary in the same 1101 Hunt Club Rd. apartment building and have linked Williams to it. In addition, Mount Prospect police are investigating eight other burglaries which they believe Williams committed during the past few weeks.

Arlington Heights Police Capt. Irvin McDougall said his department allegedly has oral statements from Williams that links him to the 42 burglaries. According to McDougall, two Arlington Heights police detectives drove Williams around that village pointing out various burglary locations and having him either say he had or had not committed burglaries at each location.

WILLIAMS IS BEING held by Mount Prospect police on $100,000 bond, pending an appearance Wednesday in the Mount Prospect branch of Cook County Circuit Court. He was to have been sent to the Cook County Jail late Thursday.

The Herald also learned Thursday that Elk Grove Village police are seeking a second man in connection with the burglaries in that village. The second arrest is "imminent," according to Lt. William Kohnke.

The man sought by Elk Grove Village police, an area resident, was linked to the case by a 16-year-old girl, who was found in Williams' car by Mount Prospect police shortly after his arrest.

According to the girl, who is a "walk-away" from the Niehoff Pavilion psychiatric ward of Alexian Brothers Medical Center, the second man allegedly helped Williams in several of the Elk Grove Village burglaries, police said. Police added the girl, who is not being charged by either police department, confessed to being involved in one break-in.

Police also said Williams allegedly would take money from stolen purses and wallets and then hide them under garbage, according to the girl. Purses and wallets were among the cat burglar's most favored items, police said.

WHEN WILLIAMS was arrested, police said they recovered a gold Buddha statue, four watches, a set of keys, three lighters, a mirror in a green case, a blue cloth cigarette case and a gold pill box. All these items allegedly are linked to burglaries in Elk Grove Village, where a total of 15 burglaries and seven attempts have been credited to the same cat burglar and his accomplices.

From the four Mount Prospect burglaries, with which Williams is charged, police said they have recovered three wallets, a purse, checkbook, pocketbook and beer.

Mount Prospect police said the other eight burglaries that might be linked to Williams mainly occurred at the Alpin and Mount Shire apartment complexes.

Elk Grove Village police Thursday confirmed they had recovered much of the property stolen from that village in an apartment at 2842 Montrose Ave., Chicago. They said the apartment was leased to Williams. The recovered items included hand calculators and stereo equipment.

According to Arlington Heights police, Williams was convicted of a burglary in Arlington Heights about three months ago and is on five years' probation.

GUNSLINGER Al Miles entertained Motorola employees the Schaumburg facility plan for themselves. Miles is a recently as part of a recreational program workers at a resident of Hoffman Estates.

Senior citizens ask reduced-fee transit system

The Arlington Heights' Senior Citizens Commission is planning a transportation service for senior citizens.

The commission hopes to start a program to provide cab services for a set fee, with subsidies from village and federal governments.

Under the program, the senior citizens would pay, for example 50 cents, for each cab trip anywhere within village boundaries. The rest of the costs would be provided by the village or with federal monies.

The cab program and a semi-annual report of commission activities will be discussed by members with the village board in a joint meeting July 22.

Other programs for the elderly, such as education and health are in the planning stages. The commission will apply for federal money through the Older Americans Act to finance its projects.

Esther Rabchuck, a commission member, was recently appointed to the Cook County suburban planning agency which provides the groundwork for obtaining such federal money.

Westgate complains of bright lights

Village officials are checking complaints from Westgate-area residents who say that spotlights from the office complex at Wilke and Campbell bother them at night.

Arlington Heights electrical engineer Bill Bachem said Wednesday he would investigate the complaints to see if the problem could not be corrected.

The office complex is owned by H. Miles Gordon & Associate in Arlington Heights.

High-pressure salesmen peddling smoke detectors

Reports of high-pressure smoke-detector salesmen in the village have prompted a reminder that Arlington Heights' proposed heat and smoke detector ordinance has not been enacted, and residents should not be stampeded into buying costly alarm equipment.

Capt. Donald Hurth, of the Arlington Heights Fire Prevention Bureau, said that even if the ordinance is passed, property owners should not be browbeaten by disreputable salesmen.

"This happens off and on. We get reports of people having equipment foisted on them," Hurth said.

Apartment and commercial building owners will have three to seven years to install smoke detection systems, if the ordinance is passed. Homeowners will be required to put one detector in their house only when undertaking major remodeling, or extensive modification of the plumbing or electrical systems.

A two-story home can be covered with two detector units at a total cost of $100 to $150, Hurth said.

There are reports that some salesmen have been peddling detector systems as high as $700.

While it is possible to buy $700 worth of fire detection equipment for the home, nowhere near that kind of expense would be required by the proposed ordinance, Hurth said.

He recommended that homeowners contact the fire prevention bureau if they have questions on what kind of detector to buy, and how to install the equipment.

Shoplifter flees, shoots at guard

Arlington Heights police are searching for an alleged shoplifter who reportedly escaped from a Turnstyle store security guard after firing a shot at him Wednesday night.

Police said Stuart Epstein, 26, a security agent for Turnstyle in the Northpoint shopping center attempted to stop a suspected shoplifter as he left the store with a package. As Epstein tried to take the suspect back into the store, the man reportedly threw down the package and fled on foot.

Epstein told police he chased the suspect in his car south on Arlington Heights Road. The suspect reportedly ran through several parking lots in an attempt to elude Epstein.

Police said Epstein stopped his car in a restaurant parking lot and tried to follow the suspect through a weeded vacant lot. Epstein reported he heard a shot and felt a bullet "whiz" past his head when he reached a clearing in the woods.

Epstein then returned to the store and notified police.

A police search of the area where the shooting reportedly occurred failed to turn up a spent cartridge or slug.

Police described the suspect as about 17 years old, having long blond hair and wearing a bandana as a headband. He was reportedly about 5 feet 9 inches tall and having a very slim build.

More than 1,700 children are attending summer school in Arlington Heights School Dist. 25 this year.

First-day enrollment figures showed that 1,721 students came to classes on Tuesday, said James Montgomery, director of instruction.

The enrollment is about 200 fewer students than last year's first-day enrollment.

Classes for children from kindergarten through seventh grades began Tuesday and will continue to July 19.

In addition to reading, math and language arts and remedial courses, there are classes in industrial arts, typing, television production and other elective-type courses.

COMMENCEMENT TIME AN END AND A BEGINNING

Although the month of June usually marks the end of the regular school year, it is also the beginning of a whole new life for the many young people who will be graduating. We can't help but think of all the new pharmacists just finishing their formal education and starting their careers in earnest. It brings back thought of our own graduation and the time that has lapsed since.

Many changes and new discoveries are constantly occurring in the field of medicine, but one thing remains the same — our appreciation of the chance to serve you. We regard it as a privilege that you have entrusted your health care to us. We hope to serve you for many years to come.

A GREAT MANY PEOPLE EN-TRUST US with their pre-
